In a Letter to His Sister He Attributes It to the Attacks of "Criminal Journalism."

THREATS INSPIRED BY THEM

"Journalistic Scoundrels Have Got to Stop or Get Out"—Describes His Sensations and Sufferings.

A letter from Mayor Gaynor to his sister, Miss Mary E. Gaynor of Utica, N. Y., written soon after he left St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, for his country place at St. James, L. I., was published in The New York Evening Post yesterday afternoon. The letter created a sensation in local political centres. It was rather long, but was written throughout in the Mayor's well-known simple and forceful style.

It included an account of his sensations at and immediately after the shooting, and an arraignment of "criminal journalism," which he practically accuses of being responsible for the attempt upon his life.

The Mayor outlines the way in which certain papers have opposed and attacked him, declares that this sort of thing undoubtedly did much to inflame "people of wicked or disordered minds" against him as a "bad" man and was undoubtedly responsible for the large number of threatening letters received by him which caused him to discontinue his daily walks across the Brooklyn Bridge some time before the shooting.

The Mayor's Letter.

Here is the Mayor's letter:

St. James, L. I., Sept. 3, 1910.

My dear Sister:

Your letter encouraged me very much. I was so glad to get it, for I was feeling depressed, although coming home had braced me up for the time being. I felt shaky and doubtful of myself, until Tuesday, the first day I walked out, but now my strength is returning fast. The barking neuralgia in all the side of my head and my ear has subsided. The wound healed without trouble. You remember how quickly the two bad cuts I got when a boy healed, one from an axe and the other from a scythe? The doctors looked at the scars in the hospital.

I still find it difficult to talk, but my voice comes back a little every day. But I shall not inflict my ills and aches on you. I am sorry for the worry I have caused you all. You remember my dog, Spot, when we were children. He got hurt once and crawled under a pile of logs and lay there for more than a week before he came out. Well, when any trouble happens to me, I feel just like poor Spot—I would like to crawl under the log pile and stay there.

I have not read any newspaper since I was hurt, nor have I been told how the thing happened, except that Commissioner Thompson told me on the deck that I had been shot by a former employe of the Dock Department. I do not remember the name he gave. It is my intention never to read a line of what has been published in the newspapers about the matter or me since I was hurt. It might warp my mind about myself. What I am I am, with all my shortcomings, and I am content with that.

My own knowledge of the occurrence is, of course, very limited and may be inaccurate. I think I shall tell it to you now, so that there may be some family record of it, and in a year or two, I wish you to turn this letter over to Rufus to keep. I was taking him with me for company. As you know, he and I have traveled much together. He was on the other side of the ship and did not see me shot.

Roar in His Head.

I was standing on the deck talking with Commissioners Thompson, Lederle, Edwards, Corporation Counsel Watson, my secretary, Mr. Robert Adamson, and several friends, who had come aboard to see me off. Mr. Montt, President of Chile, and Mrs. Montt had just passed by, and I had spoken a few words with them. Mr. Adamson pointed out that the ship was dressed with flags for me, but I said I did not think it could be for me. My next consciousness was of a terrible metallic roar in my head. It filled my head, which seemed as though it would burst open. It swelled to the highest pitch, and then fell, and then rose again, and so alternated until it subsided into a continuous buzz. It was sickening, but my stomach did not give way. I was meanwhile entirely sightless.

I do not think I fell, for when I became conscious I was on my feet. I suppose they saved me from falling, and they were supporting me. My sight gradually returned, so that after a while I could see the deck and the outlines of the crowd around me. I became conscious that I was choking. Blood was coming from my mouth, and I tried all I could to swallow it so those around me would not see it. But I found I could not swallow, and then knew my throat was hurt. It seemed as though it were dislocated. I struggled to breathe through my mouth, but could not, and thought I was dying of strangulation. I kept thinking all the time the best thing to do.

I was not a bit afraid to die if that was God's will of me. I said to myself just as well now as a few years from now. No one who contemplates the immensity of Almighty God and of His universe and His works, and realizes what an atom he is in it all, can fear to die in this flesh, yea, even though it were true that he is to be dissolved forever into the infinity of matter and mind from which he came.

In some way I happened to close my mouth tight, and found I breathed perfectly through my nose. I then believed I could keep from smothering. But I kept choking and my mouth kept opening to cast out the blood. But much of it went down into my stomach. That night in the hospital I had five hard chills in succession and got deathly sick and vomited up this blood all over the bed. The poor sister who was watching me called the doctors, but they said it was a good thing. I felt much better after that, but grew very weak. The trouble was to get nourishment, as I could not swallow.

His Own Impressions.

But I shall not speak of the hospital, but only of my recollection (or impressions) of things on the ship. They wanted me to lie down on the deck, but I said no, I would walk to my stateroom. I could now see faces, and I wanted to get away from the crowd. I could not bear to have them looking at me in the plight I was in, especially the crowd of newspaper men and especially those with cameras. Two of them rushed up from the line where they all stood and put their cameras right in my face and snapped them. I finally put my hand up and think I said "don't." I hope these pictures were not published. The other newspaper men acted decently, as they always do.

We were on the opposite side of the ship, and I was supported through the gangway down a few steps, and then up the same number, and my stateroom was there. As we were crossing I said to Commissioner Thompson on my right hand to send for two of the best surgeons of the city, and be sure and tell them not to discourage me. I had difficulty to make him understand me, but he finally did. Finding that my wound was not immediately mortal, I had determined to make a fight for it, and did not want any one

SAINT'S BLOOD LIQUEFIES.

People of Naples Think It Means That the Cholera Peril Is Over.

NAPLES, Sept. 19.—The phenomenon of the liquefaction of the blood of St. Januarius took place to-day, after prayers lasting fifty-five minutes, in the presence of a great multitude.

The people interpret the rapidity of the liquefaction as proof that the peril from cholera is over.

ROME, Sept. 19.—In the past twenty-four hours five new cases of Asiatic cholera and four deaths from that disease have been reported in the infected district.

Yesterday was one of the two regular days set aside annually for the supposed miracle of the liquefaction of the blood of St. Januarius. The other day is the first Saturday in May. At one of the expositions of the blood of the saint last year it failed to liquefy, and this was regarded as an omen of disaster.

Various attempts have been made to explain the alleged miracle. The argument, once brought forward, that there was no liquefaction was abandoned a considerable time ago, the evidence for the liquefaction being overwhelming.

The Chapel of St. Januarius is in the south aisle of the Cathedral of Naples, which is dedicated to that saint. The chapel was built early in the seventeenth century at enormous cost, and contains seven altars, forty-two columns of brocatelle, several paintings by Domenichino, and a valuable treasury. The blood of the saint is contained in two vessels in the tabernacle of the high altar, underneath which altar is the body of St. Januarius. He was Bishop of Benevento, and suffered martyrdom in the reign of Diocletian. His blood was gathered from the ground by a poor woman and inclosed in the two glass phials.

According to legend, the blood liquefied for the first time when the body of the saint was taken to Naples by Bishop St. Severus in the time of Constantine.

BOYS DESERTED BY AUTOIST.

Made to Walk Fifty Miles Back Home After Enjoying a Ride.

Deserted at Central Park, L. I., by an automobilist who had offered to give them a ride, three Jamaica boys—John and Francis Gumprecht and William Colson—returned to their homes yesterday afternoon, footsore and half starved, after having been compelled to tramp the fifty miles from Central Park to Jamaica.

John and Francis, 10 and 8 years old, respectively, are the sons of Jacob Gumprecht, a builder, of Brown Avenue and Cumberland Street, Jamaica. William is 12 years old, and lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Colson, at 87 Norris Avenue.

On Sunday morning the boys were walking along Fulton Street, when they stopped to admire a touring car that stood beside the curb. A tall, dark-complexioned man, wearing a light-colored duster and automobile goggles, came out of a cigar store and asked them if they would like a ride. The boys eagerly accepted the invitation, and rode through the country for about two hours.

"I guess you'd better get out here, boys. You're only a little way from home," the automobilist said.

The youngsters piled out and the automobile was soon lost to view. They asked a farmer where they were, and he told them that Jamaica was fifty miles away. As they had no money for railroad fare, they started to walk. They walked all Sunday afternoon, and at night slept in a vacant barn. They resumed their tramp at daybreak yesterday, reaching home after noon. The only food they had during the thirty hours' trip was a little milk that they begged from a farmer's wife.

TARIFF BOARD HANDICAPPED.

Hopes for Legislation to Overcome Difficulties in Collecting Data.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Tariff Board of the Treasury Department has found its limited powers a sad handicap in collecting the information for which the board was supposedly instituted. At the last session of Congress, while the regulars upheld the President's demand for a large appropriation to enable the board to perform its functions as a collector of data for the use of Congress, the standpatters steadily refused to increase the powers of the board so that the process of collecting data would be simplified.

During the Summer the members of the board have been busy collecting information on both sides of the Atlantic, and both at home and abroad they have met great difficulties. There is, of course, no way by which the law can aid the board in inducing manufacturers abroad to divulge the trade secrets concerning the cost of manufacture, but the members of the board hope that at the next session they will get power to compel American manufacturers to give such facts as bear on the relative cost of manufacture at home and abroad.

This will be one of the subjects that the Cabinet will consider when it meets here next week. The President has already referred in his campaign letter to the need of adding to the efficiency of the Tariff Board, and Col. Roosevelt, in his Western tour, commended the President for his suggestions. The co-operation of the President and the ex-President would, it is thought, insure the passage of the needed legislation.

GIRL AND CONTRACTOR GONE

Police Asked to Look for Millville, N. J., Couple—Wife Fears for Children.

Special to The New York Times.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Sept. 19.—The police have sent an alarm to all the neighboring towns and to the larger cities of several States asking for news of the whereabouts of Walter M. Ewing, a contractor of this place, and Miss Lena Cambron, the nineteen-year-old daughter of one of the most prominent families of this vicinity. Mrs. Ewing is making an independent search for her husband, who, she thinks, will be found with the missing girl.

To-day Mrs. Ewing consulted a lawyer here for advice as to the legal steps necessary to protect her two young children, saying that she feared her husband would try to steal them from her. According to her friends, Mrs. Ewing also is preparing to begin suit for divorce.

Mrs. Ewing learned of her husband's disappearance a day or two ago, through friends who telegraphed her at Cape May, where she and her children had been spending the Summer, warning her that her husband had left and that Miss Cambron was missing, too. According to these friends, Ewing left here on a trolley car and went to Vineland, where Miss Cambron, they say, was awaiting him. Whither they went from Vineland is not known, as no trace of either of them has been found.

HARMON'S BALLOON IS NOT HEARD FROM

New York Aeronaut Is Accompanied by Thomas Baldwin, Also of This City.

SOME ANXIETY IS FELT

The Balloons Buckeye and Miss Sophia May Also Still Be in the Air—All the Rest Have Landed.

At two o'clock this morning the balloon New York, in which Clifford B. Harmon and Thomas Baldwin of New York left Indianapolis on Saturday afternoon, as competitors in the elimination contest for the international balloon race, had not been heard from, and some anxiety was felt by the friends of the two aeronauts.

The New York left Indianapolis at 5:55 P. M. If she is still afloat she will have been in the air for fifty-five hours and have broken all records for endurance in this country by several hours.

Mr. Harmon is the son-in-law of E. C. Benedict, the banker, and is well known for his feats in aeronautics, particularly for his recent aeroplane flights, in one of which he crossed Long Island Sound. Capt. Baldwin is also a well-known aviator.

Two other balloons, the Buckeye and Miss Sophia, which left Indianapolis on the same day, have not yet been reported as descending, although both have been sighted. All the other competitors have been accounted for.

The fact that all the balloons reported have been east or southeast of Indianapolis makes it unlikely that the New York could have been carried out over the great lakes, which are far to the north of Indianapolis. The latest reports of the various balloons are contained in the following dispatches:

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 19.—If they have not met with disaster or landed safely at some isolated spot from which they have not been able to report, these three balloons and their crews have qualified to-night as the American contestants in the international balloon race, which will start at St. Louis on Oct. 17:

The New York—Clifford B. Harmon, New York, pilot; Thomas Baldwin, New York, aid; not sighted.

The Buckeye—J. H. Wade, Cleveland, pilot; A. H. Morgan, Canton, Ohio, aid; sighted at Charleston, West Va., 7 P. M. Sunday.

Miss Sophia—W. T. Asman, St. Louis, pilot; P. J. McCullough, St. Louis, aid; sighted at Pomeroy, Ohio, 8:45 A. M. Sunday.

Nine balloons started in the American elimination race at the Indianapolis Speedway on Saturday afternoon. Four started in a free-for-all contest, and all these have descended.

The sixth of the starters in the elimination race to alight was the America II., which landed at Warrenton, Va., at 2:20 this afternoon. Allen P. Hawley of New York was the pilot and Augustus Post of New York the aid.

It is probable that the American endurance record, 48 hours and 26 minutes, has been broken.

Stories of the flights told by the pilots of the balloons which have landed are beginning to come to Indianapolis. Carl G. Fisher, who, with George G. Bumbaugh, was in the Indiana II., wires from Pittsburg as follows:

"We passed all but Hawley, in the America II., on Saturday night during a storm that blew great guns. In the storm our drag rope caught in a tree top and held us two hours, during which four balloons went by at great speed. We finally aroused a farmer, who, with his son, came to our aid in a drenching rain. They climbed the tree and cut us loose, and then we proceeded, tree top and all."

The Indiana II. landed at Pittsburg last evening at 5:10.

The Million Population Club balloon of St. Louis landed at Trafford City, Penn., yesterday afternoon. Louis Von Puhl, who piloted it, assisted by Joseph O'Reilly, described his trip as follows:

"We had been in the air only a short time when the rain hampered us. We were going in the direction of the great lakes, then we struck a current that sent us south at a merry clip, but the rain continued and we were soaked. We threw out ballast and sought a higher altitude. I think we crossed the Ohio River near Warrington, Ohio.

"The night was the most remarkable I have ever spent. Neither of us slept much—we did not want to. Our highest altitude was 5,500 feet.

"When the sun came out yesterday morning our worst trouble began. We would run through clouds for awhile, then the sun would break through. The gas would expand and cause us to shoot upward for a time, then the rain would send us down again. If we could have had fair weather we would have broken records. At one time we sighted six balloons, but when we came down there was only one balloon in sight."

WARRENTON, Va., Sept. 19.—The balloon America II., with Allen P. Hawley as pilot and Augustus Post as aid, landed to-day at 2:20 P. M., three miles southwest of this place.

Mr. Hawley reported that the balloon met with little rain and practically no storms, maintaining an altitude of between 16,000 and 20,000 feet in its trip across Ohio and West Virginia into this State. The balloon was in the air forty-four and a half hours, and the two aviators were practically exhausted. They left here to-night for New York.

The America II. was the winner of last year's international contest at Zurich, Switzerland. Hawley and Post came near to equaling the American endurance record, which is forty-eight hours and twenty-six minutes. Mr. Post declared to-night that he and his companions could easily have exceeded this mark had it not been for the danger of being carried out into the Chesapeake Bay.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—The balloon Pennsylvania II. landed near Dexter, Ohio, yesterday. The balloon was entered in the race from Indianapolis by the Aero Club of Pennsylvania, and the following telegram was received at the headquarters of the club to-day:

"Left Indianapolis, Ind., Saturday at 5:38; landed one mile north of Dexter, Meigs County, Ohio, Sunday, 10:30 A. M. Time, 16 hours 52 minutes. Approximate air line, 210 miles. Heavy rain during Saturday night."

The balloon carried Arthur T. Atherholt and C. B. Graham, both of Philadelphia.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—The Million Population Club balloon, entered from St. Louis in the Indianapolis meet and piloted by S. Louis Von Phul, with Joseph Reilly as aid, landed near Trafford City, a few miles east of Pittsburg, at 3:25 P. M. yesterday.

Mr. Von Phul has shipped the balloon to St. Louis.

INDIANA, Penn., Sept. 19.—The balloon Centennial, carrying Pilots Honeywell and Lambert, landed near Heshbon, this county, at 5:30 last evening.

According to the pilots the trip was made without incident. The aircraft was shipped to Indianapolis this morning.

REV. DR. L. H. HARRIS SUICIDE IN GEORGIA

Hero of "The Circuit Rider's Wife" Had Been in Bad Health and Became Despondent.

WIDOW IS MRS. CORA HARRIS

Author of the Well-Known Story—Dr. Harris Left a Note for Her Saying That He Was Tired.

Special to The New York Times.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 19.—Leaving a note saying that he was "tired and wanted to go where rest will be unbroken," the Rev. Dr. Lundy H. Harris died this morning from the effects of an overdose of morphine at Pine Log, a health resort a few miles from here.

Dr. Harris was the husband of Mrs. Cora Harris, author of "The Circuit Rider's Wife," recently published in The Saturday Evening Post. He held an editorial position with the Southern Methodist Publishing House at Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Harris's health had been bad, and he went to Pine Log recently to try to recuperate. Yesterday morning he seemed despondent and left the hotel at Pine Log for a walk. He did not return, and last night a search was begun. Early this morning he was found unconscious on the bank of a creek, with an empty bottle that had contained morphine in his hand. He was taken to a hotel and physicians were called, but he was past help and soon died. The note saying he was tired was addressed to his wife, who is in Nashville.

Dr. Harris was 55 years old. He was graduated at Emory College, Oxford, Ga., taking first honors in the same class as Bishop Warren Candler of the Southern Methodist Church. For fifteen years Dr. Harris was Professor of Greek at Emory College, resigning in order to go to Nashville.

Mrs. Harris's story, "The Circuit Rider's Wife," depicted the trials of an itinerant Methodist preacher, and it is said that she portrayed her husband in the hero. The story caused a sensation among Methodists, as it was designed to show that the preacher who did not play church politics was doomed to many hardships. Mrs. Harris, who was Miss Cora White of Elberton, Ga., has been a frequent contributor to the magazines.

The body of Dr. Harris will be sent to Nashville.

TAFT APPOINTS INSURGENT.

Postmastership in Senator Bristow's Home Town Goes to His Man.

SALINA, Kan., Sept. 19.—George M. Hull, a progressive Republican, to-day received a letter from the First Assistant Postmaster General, notifying him of his appointment by President Taft to the position of Postmaster here.

The appointment was dated Sept. 15, the day a letter was issued from Beverly saying that the President intended to be impartial in his attitude toward progressives and regulars in the matter of patronage.

The President had reappointed T. D. Fitzpatrick, the incumbent, as Postmaster, but the Senate failed to confirm the appointment. Congressman W. A. Calderhead, who recommended Fitzpatrick for the place, was defeated for renomination by a progressive at the Republican primaries.

This is the home of United States Senator Bristow, who recommended the appointment of Hull.

HELD FOR ANTRIM GEM THEFT

A. G. Smith, from New York, Arrested at Winnipeg on Suspicion.

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 19.—The latest arrest in connection with the theft of the jewels of the Countess of Antrim in the Royal Alexandra Hotel a week ago is that of A. G. Smith, who says he comes from New York and that he is a traveler for a baking-powder firm whose name he refuses to disclose, nor the address in New York where his wife and children live.

He is held on the technical charge of non-payment of his board and room at the hotel. When arrested diamonds and other gems to the value of over $1,000 were found on him.

BALTIMORE POLICE SCANDAL.

Governor to Prefer Charges Against the Three Commissioners.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19.—Gov. Crothers, who has been making an investigation of the Baltimore Police Department, announced that charges will be preferred against the three Police Commissioners—John B. H. Wheltle, Peter E. Tome, and C. Baker Clotworthy. The nature of the charges is not announced, but it would appear that the Governor considers that the Commissioners are responsible for the alleged laxity of the Police Department.

In the course of the hearings testimony has been given by vendors of cocaine and by fortune tellers that they paid large sums to police officials for "protection."

At to-day's hearing Police Justice Grannan testified that former Captain of Detectives Humphrey and Chief of Police White of York, Penn., tried to induce him to set at liberty a notorious pickpocket who was awaiting a hearing before the Justice.

MITCHEL AND BAKER BREAK OVER RAIDS

Acting Mayor Confers with Gaynor Following a Curt Letter from the Commissioner.

MAY TAKE ACTION TO-DAY

District Attorney Announces That He Will Take a Hand in the Suppression of Gambling.

Police Commissioner Baker, who has frequently referred to himself as an "organization man" since he took charge of police affairs on July 2, 1909, precipitated a direct issue yesterday between his department and Acting Mayor Mitchel.

A close friend of the Acting Mayor, recalling the fact that Commissioner Baker was appointed in a period of political stress, when ex-Mayor McClellan was anxious to placate certain politicians, said that the issue was whether Tammany Hall or the Mayor's office was in command of the Police Department.

Definite action on the case of Commissioner Baker is expected to-day, following a conference between Mayor Gaynor and Mr. Mitchel at St. James last night. Mr. Mitchel, who was thoroughly aroused when he left the City Hall, carried with him to the Mayor's home a letter he had received from the Commissioner in the afternoon.

While he would not give out its contents, it was understood that it was "insubordinate," reminding Mr. Mitchel that he was only Acting Mayor and that the Police Department would get along very well without spectacular interference until Mayor Gaynor's return to duty.

Commissioner Baker's friends at Police Headquarters, who knew he had sent the letter, said they expected Mayor Gaynor to support him against Mr. Mitchel and that the issue drawn by the letter was of such a nature that the withholding of such support would create a police crisis.

Commissioner Baker wrote the letter while he was still smarting under Mr. Mitchel's statement that he would not remove the Police Commissioner on account of exposures in the gambling situation unless he was "left with no other alternative." His letter caused the Acting Mayor to send at once for Commissioner of Accounts Raymond B. Fosdick, whose department gathered the data on which Coney Island was raided and cleared and on which the Acting Mayor based his statement concerning the probable alliance between the police and vice in Manhattan.

Expect Some Action To-day.

Commissioner Fosdick and Mr. Mitchel discussed the Baker communication for some time, and, while Mr. Fosdick would not allow himself to be quoted concerning the matter, it was evident when he left the Mayor's office that he was as much aroused as was his chief. It is expected that some action will be taken to-day.

The rapidly moving events in the gambling situation yesterday indicated that a sweeping programme of reform is to be carried out with the District Attorney's office in command, Commissioner Fosdick furnishing the evidence and the Grand Jury turning out indictments against gamblers and others.

Commissioner Baker made two transfers during the day which are thought to hinge on the gambling situation, and in the West Side Court eleven men, rounded up in the raids of Inspectors Schmittberger and Walsh last week, were held in bail of from $1,500 to $2,000 each. The two events, happening together, spread consternation throughout the White Light District and the police in charge of it. Runners for gambling houses carefully avoided the hotel lobbies, where they have been accustomed to look for attractive young men, and the police kept a close watch for houses that ventured to remain open.

The belief was expressed by District Attorney Whitman after a series of conferences with various officials interested in the anti-gambling crusade, yesterday, that his new plan of co-operating with Acting Mayor Mitchel and avoiding "grandstand" police raids would effectually abolish every gambling resort in New York.

"I want to make it entirely clear," Mr. Whitman said, "that there is no friction between Mr. Mitchel and myself. I mean to help him all I can.

"There is no doubt that gambling is going on flagrantly. But it is going to stop, and the Police Department is going to stop it. I am going to help the Acting Mayor and Police Department to do so. No grandstand raids will be made. Sufficient evidence must be given to the Grand Jury."

The Grand Jury's work in connection with gambling will begin this morning, when the Acting Mayor, Commissioner Fosdick, and Commissioner Baker, all of whom were served with subpoenas yesterday, will appear as the first witnesses. They will give the jurors, it is understood, the list of gambling places and illegal resorts furnished to the Police Department by the Acting Mayor last week.

Baker Didn't Have His List.

District Attorney Whitman expected that Commissioner Baker would have the list with him when he called to consult about the Grand Jury's action yesterday afternoon, but he failed to bring it along. Other than to state that the Commissioner had not brought the list District Attorney Whitman would not comment on his visit.

Other callers at the District Attorney's office with whom he talked over the gambling situation were J. Edgar Leaycraft, Foreman of the Grand Jury; Detectives Murphy, Cody, and Sweeney, attached to Inspector Schmittberger's staff, and Inspector Russell, now at the head of the Detective Bureau.

Foreman Leaycraft was shown a copy of Acting Mayor Mitchel's letter to Commissioner Baker, stating that his Inspectors had "easily found evidence against gambling houses which could not have existed without connivance of the police."

"Acting Mayor Mitchel is a lawyer and knows what evidence is," District Attorney Whitman explained to the Grand Jury Foreman.

After he had left Mr. Whitman said that the Grand Jurors felt just the same as he did about the gambling situation, and that there would be complete harmony in working out the plan decided upon. The investigation is expected to continue until the close of the present term.

Several friends of Acting Mayor Mitchel remained at the City Hall last night until late, hoping to hear the result of the St. James conference. In this they were disappointed, as Mr. Mitchel sent word at 9:30 o'clock that he would not discuss the conference until to-day.

On his departure from the City Hall he was asked if he did not feel at liberty to take advantage of his legal authority to act in the police situation without regard to Mayor Gaynor.

"I am going to St. James on strictly a business trip," he replied.

"Does the Mayor know you are coming, or will your visit be an unexpected one?"

"Entirely unexpected so far as the Mayor is concerned. I have sent out no word in advance."

Mr. Mitchel was reminded that on a previous visit the Mayor had talked ex-

WYMAN ESTATE SHRINKS.

Princeton May Get Much Less Than the $3,000,000 He Was Thought Worth.

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 19.—From a conservatively estimated value of $3,000,000 the estate which Isaac C. Wyman, the Salem hermit, left to his Alma Mater, Princeton University, for the founding of a graduate school, may shrink considerably, according to the inventory of Mr. Wyman's real estate holdings in Massachusetts and of all his personal property, which was filed in the Probate Court here to-day.

The total named in the inventory is $859,801, whereas at the time of Mr. Wyman's death his Massachusetts property was generally valued at between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. Extensive realty holdings in many other States will bring up the total value of the estate, but it is now thought that the aggregate will fall below the estimates.

When Mr. Wyman died his wealth was at first estimated at $10,000,000, mostly in real estate, but this sum was soon cut down a third. The inventory, which was filed by William H. Niles, attorney for the executors, accounts for real estate in Massachusetts to the value of $538,182, and personal property in stocks and bonds representing $321,629.

$172,000 SAVED ON PRINTING.

Report of Director of Bureau in Washington Also Shows More Work Done.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The policy of economy, which is the watchword at the Treasury Department, is reflected in the annual report of the Director of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. Director J. E. Ralph shows that the bureau has done 11 per cent. more work on about $172,000 less than it did the year before. More than $90,000 has been saved by reducing the size of the internal revenue stamps for cigars.

All banknotes, revenue stamps, and postage stamps are printed at the bureau in sheets containing from 4 to 100. The year's work is computed by sheets instead of individual pieces. There were 252,710,864 sheets printed and engraved during the year. It cost $4,375,365.57 to run the big plant.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Charles M. McLane, son of John McLane of Milford, N. H., former Governor of that State, died to-day in the Massachusetts General Hospital from an injury to his head sustained in falling from a whirling amusement device at Revere Beach on Saturday afternoon.

After the accident a physician at the resort said that McLane was unharmed. On Sunday afternoon, however, he was taken very ill. Death was due to a hemorrhage of the brain.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 19.—When Secretary Gifford of the Chamber of Commerce leaves here to-night for Washington, he will take with him a set of canvassing books duly sworn to by special enumerators of the Chamber certifying to the fact that the 28,108 names found therein were found by them within the city in making a recount. The Newburg Journal has also made a special recount and to-night made public the figures at 27,873.

The Federal count gave the city 25,473, which was so much below the estimated number that a recount was determined upon, as sections of the city were found where no enumerator had called.

Mayor McClung has a letter from Acting Director Viles, stating that the Census Bureau would order a re-enumeration in case it could be conclusively shown that the first count was seriously inaccurate. This, it is thought, has been done.

PASSAIC COUNTS 54,773.

New Jersey Town Has Grown 97.2 Per Cent. Since 1900.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The population of Passaic, N. J., by the new census is 54,773, an increase of 26,996, or 97.2 per cent. over the 1900 figure, which was 27,777.

BRADLEY NOT GOING TO ETAH.

So His Father-in-Law Says—Adds Cook Is Honest, but May Be Insane.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 19.—F. H. Lockwood, father-in-law of John R. Bradley of New York, who has just arrived from Glenwood Springs, says Bradley is camping near there and that he will not go to Etah to recover Dr. Cook's documents. He adds that Cook reached the pole, or though he did, and gives him credit for honesty, and says Bradley is of the same opinion.

He says that Cook may have been mistaken, or he may have gone insane wandering for two years in a wilderness of ice, but that he did not deliberately try to deceive the public. Bradley will remain in Glenwood for some time.

PRINCE TSAI HSUN LANDS.

Received with Royal Honors—C. M. Schwab to Travel with Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Prince Tsai Hsun, head of the Imperial Chinese Navy and uncle of the Emperor of China, arrived here to-day on the steamship Manchuria.

He was received with royal honors, being met at Quarantine by the Government tug Slocum, which was crowded with American Naval, military, and civil officials. An escort consisting of a battalion of Coast Artillery, a battalion of naval apprentices, a company of mounted police, a company of Chinese cadets, and a local boys' band formed a guard of honor which accompanied the Prince to his hotel.

An elaborate reception was given the Prince to-night by the Chinese Consul General and the Six Companies.

Prinse Tsai Hsun will leave this city for the East to-morrow, accompanied by Charles M. Schwab, who will show the visitors through the various shipbuilding plants of the Atlantic seaboard.

ROOSEVELT HAS TALK WITH TAFT

Seeks Assurance That President Is Against New York Bosses and Gets It.

OLD CORDIALITY IS ABSENT

TAFT READY TO RUN AGAIN

POINTS OF THE CONFERENCE.

Col. Roosevelt sought it to gain from the President assurance of his moral support in the fight against the bosses in New York State.

Mr. Taft had hoped to keep out of the New York situation, because it was not of his making and he did not feel responsible for it.

He was glad, however, to state that he sympathized with the fight on bossism and that he hoped the Republican candidate for Governor would be one who favored the principles of the Cobb Direct Primary bill.

Mr. Taft is to be indorsed by the Saratoga Convention, but no mention of his renomination is to be made.

There was not the cordiality of old in the meeting of the two men. No better understanding between them as to their views on National issues or their personal relations was brought about.

They did not discuss the prospects of 1912. Mr. Taft is ignorant of Col. Roosevelt's plans.

Mr. Taft is willing to run again if nominated.

Mr. Taft's friends are gratified that Col. Roosevelt came to him in this way after long ignoring him.

Special to The New York Times.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT TAFT'S TRAIN, ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—President Taft and Col. Theodore Roosevelt met to-day for the second time since the former President returned from Africa. They conferred for an hour at New Haven, where the President had gone to attend the meeting of the Yale Corporation. Their meeting was sought by Col. Roosevelt. It was his desire that they should meet in New York, but the President found he would not have time to go there on this trip, so the former President went to New Haven.

It was plain from all that happened before and after the meeting that Col. Roosevelt and his close political advisers are not a little worried over the situation in New York State, and came to the President for further evidence of his moral support.

This the President was glad to give. He declared that his position in the New York State fight had been clear from the very first. He said he sympathized heartily with the fight against "bossism" being waged by the people of the State. He reiterated the statements he made in his letter to Lloyd C. Griscom, President of the New York County Republican Committee, at the time of the controversy over the temporary Chairmanship. This letter, he added, stated his position fully and accurately, and he was standing on it absolutely. He repeated what he had stated in that letter of the efforts he had made to bring about harmony in New York State. He had urged Mr. Sherman to consult with Mr. Roosevelt and had said that, as to the primary question, he felt a position could be reached satisfactory to all parties

State's Position on Direct Primaries.

Mr. Taft declared to his callers anew what he had said in the Griscom letter, that he favored direct primaries for the nomination of Congressmen and State legislators. He understands this to be the purport of the Cobb bill, as amended in accordance with the suggestions of Seth Low and Joseph H. Choate. He said he hoped that a declaration for such a primary law would be written into the Republican State platform, and that a candidate for Governor in sympathy with this movement would be nominated.

President Taft is not ready as yet to admit the advisability of doing away with conventions for the nomination of State officers from Governor down. Mr. Taft understands that both Gov. Hughes and Col. Roosevelt are now practically in accord with his own position, although the Governor fought at first for direct primaries for all offices.

President Taft stated on the train this afternoon that while a number of subjects were injected into the brief conference, the New York situation was the foundation for the gathering. Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Syracuse, in which he quoted Mr. Taft and Abraham Lincoln in making a defense of his attack on the Supreme Court, was mentioned, but only in a casual way, it is said. President Taft had hoped that his part in the New York State fight was at an end. The situation in that State was not of his making, and he did not feel in any way responsible for it.

President Taft and Col. Roosevelt did not discuss the question of the Presidency in 1912. The President has not been advised as what Mr. Roosevelt's attitude is toward that campaign. From sources close to the President it was said that there was no occasion to discuss this subject.

Mr. Taft's position is this: He is willing to run if nominated. If his friends think there is a good chance for him to be re-elected, Mr. Taft feels that they will see to his nomination. Mr. Taft's political friends say that if the American people want him for a second term, not even Col. Roosevelt can prevent his nomination. If the people do not appear to want him, Mr. Taft will be only too glad to submit to their decision.

He is not out hunting for delegates or indorsements for renomination. The thought that Col. Roosevelt may be in the fight against him does not appear to disturb the President in the least. He feels every man is at liberty to do as he pleases, Col. Roosevelt among the rest.

Something in the nature of a truce seems to have been arranged regarding the New York State situation. After that is over events will shape themselves. Col. Roosevelt himself is said to-day to have let drop the hint that as to his side of the matter "something would be doing" after the elections.

Old Cordiality Is Gone.

It can be stated that to-day's meeting at New Haven, while it may have been successful in its "scenic effect," and of moral advantage to the Roosevelt leaders in New York State, was absolutely barren of results as to any better understanding between the President and Col. Roosevelt as to National issues or their personal relations in view of many recent events.

There was not the cordiality of old between the President and the Colonel. It was the first time they had met since the story was given out at Oyster Bay that Col. Roosevelt felt that Mr. Taft had not dealt fairly with him in New York and had "sold out to the bosses" there in return for a pledge of delegates in 1912. The President felt the injustice of that story keenly, it is said, and as a result of it the relations between him and Mr. Roosevelt can never be the same again.

The Taft Administration is to be indorsed at Saratoga. No mention of Mr. Taft as a candidate in 1912 will be made.

"It is not the province of a State Convention to nominate any man for President two years ahead," said Mr. Bannard, who came as far as Albany on the train. "Connecticut didn't do it; why should New York?"

In this connection it became known to-day that President Taft deprecated the action of the Ohio Republicans in declaring for him in 1912. He did not think he should be made an issue. The Ohio leaders were anxious, however, that the Taft Administration and the legislative record should be made a part of the State campaign and took this means of bringing it about. If the Taft indorsement for 1912 had been left out of the Ohio platform it would have been in compliance with the President's desires.

Mr. Bannard explained that he and Mr. Griscom thought it would be a good thing to get the President and Mr. Roosevelt together again "to smooth over any apparent differences between them," but this applied only to the New York State situation. As to the fight in 1912 there is a disposition on the part of the leaders to cross that bridge when they come to it and to steer a long way off in the meantime. Mr. Bannard said he did not believe Mr. Roosevelt would be a candidate.

The question of the indorsement of the Administration did not come up in Mr. Taft's presence. Mr. Bannard declared, however, that it would be complete.

To-day's conference, it is believed, was a source of much gratification to Mr. Taft and his friends. That his aid should be sought at this time, and in the manner that it was, following a somewhat recent attitude of an almost complete ignoring of his Administration or existence, probably gave the President much satisfaction.

Attorney General Wickersham joined the President at New Haven and rode to Albany with him. Senator Crane got aboard at Pittsfield and also came to Albany. Representative Loudenslager of New Jersey, Secretary of the Republican Congressional Committee, saw the President at Hartford.

Mr. Wickersham has just returned from a trip to Alaska. It is said he had a preliminary talk with the President regarding a successor to the late Solicitor General Bowers. Supreme Court vacancies also were discussed.

CONFERENCE LASTS AN HOUR.

Col. Roosevelt Has a Series of Misadventures on His Trip.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 19.—For just an hour this afternoon President Taft and Col. Roosevelt were together for their second meeting since the Colonel returned from Africa. The meeting took place at the home of Henry C. White, a close personal friend of President Taft. It was intended to have it held secretly, and it was not announced here that it would take place till after the report that Roosevelt had left Oyster Bay reached this city. Then Secretary Norton gave out a statement for President Taft that Lloyd C. Griscom had called up the President's office at Beverly on Saturday and asked if a conference might be held somewhere in New Haven between Mr. Taft and Messrs. Roosevelt, Griscom, and Otto T. Bannard while the President was here to-day to attend the meeting of the Yale Corporation, of which he is a member.

President Taft cordially invited the trio to come here. The place was left undecided, and it was not arranged until this morning that the conference should take place at the home of Mr. White. President Hadley's home was talked of, but this has only just been opened after the Summer.

Col. Roosevelt's trip from Oyster Bay to New Haven by motor boat and automobile was full of incident. He slipped away from home this morning in the little twenty-seven-knot speed boat Tarpon, intending to go to Black Rock Harbor, near Bridgeport. Mr. Griscom, whose Summer home is in Fairfield, near Bridgeport, planned to meet him there and take him to New Haven in his motor car.

The Tarpon belongs to Earl Dodge, a resident of Fairfield. Mr. Dodge was Secretary of the American Embassy at Rome when Mr. Griscom was Ambassador there. It was at the request of Mr. Griscom that Mr. Dodge had the Tarpon brought across the Sound yesterday to convey Col. Roosevelt to the Connecticut shore. When the former President was ready to start this morning she was anchored off the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club, with her owner aboard.

Runs Into a Stiff Gale.

The Tarpon started off through the bay at her usual fast clip. In the bay it was smooth sailing, but when she rounded Lloyd's Neck and emerged into the Sound it was to encounter the first equinoctial gale of the season, blowing fiercely athwart the Sound and stirring up a nasty sea.

The course for Bridgeport lay right in the teeth of the gale, and the further the Tarpon left the New York shore behind the rougher was the sea. The Tarpon is the merest shell, built for speed. She draws scarcely two inches of water and skims the crest of the waves. With the wind blowing at the rate of forty miles an hour and the Tarpon driving into gale and sea at the rate of almost thirty, things soon became decidedly uncomfortable for those on board.

Col. Roosevelt looked at the overcast sky and at the white-capped seas.

"Do you think it will be all right?" he asked his host, Mr. Dodge.

"How about it, Captain?" asked Mr. Dodge, turning to the grizzled veteran of the sea who held the helm.

"Well, we may make it," said the Captain, surveying the angry waters and the overcast heavens.

Col. Roosevelt afterward told President Taft that the situation seemed to be serious for a time. He said that at times the conditions became so interesting that he didn't have time even to think of seasickness.

It finally became necessary to abandon the effort to reach Bridgeport and to put in at Stamford. There the motorboat ran up to Leonard Blondel's coal yard dock and, nothing daunted by a big sign which bore the words, "mad dog," the former President climbed out.

After a conference Mr. Dodge went off to telephone for an automobile. Col. Roosevelt was alone in the coal yard for about twenty minutes awaiting their return. He strolled about the place and chatted with Edward Lynch, a coal heaver, the only man in the yard at the time.

Lynch didn't recognize him, and when told later who the stranger was Lynch ejaculated:

"My God, you don't tell me! He was a game-looking lad."

After the wait in the coal yard Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Dodge entered the automobile that had been hired and started for Bridgeport.

Long Chase to Find Griscom.

Col. Roosevelt had been pretty well drenched during his trip across the Sound, and was still wet when he reached Fairfield, looking for Mr. Griscom's home. He enlisted the services of William Kinsella, a druggist. They telephoned first and received word, as they understood so, that Mr. Griscom had not left home for the yacht club up to that time. Arriving at the Griscom place, four miles away, they learned that Mr. Griscom had been gone an hour. Col. Roosevelt showed great vexation with the butler, who said he had misunderstood the telephone inquiry. Then the butler directed them to the Park City Yacht Club in Bridgeport. Mr. Kinsella insisted it must be the Bridgeport Yacht Club, but the butler was sure he knew better. So off the two started with the chauffeur, Kinsella piloting the car to the Park City Yacht Club. There they found no sign of Mr. Griscom. The Colonel telephoned to the Bridgeport Yacht Club and found that Mr. Griscom was there with his wife, anxiously awaiting the arrival of the ex-President's launch through the storm.

The Colonel held a levee at the yacht club, greeting among others half a dozen negro laborers who came trooping in when they heard he was in town. Mr. Griscom's car announced its arrival at the yacht club by blowing up a tire, and then Mr. and Mrs. Griscom, with the Colonel, boarded the latter's rented car and hastened on to the delayed conference in New Haven.

Just as the first houses of that city hove in sight part of the gearing under the tonneau dropped into the road, and more than half an hour was spent in making repairs. This done, the Roosevelt party crawled into New Haven. It was 2:05 when the party drove up to Mr. White's home on Edwards Street.

The Taft party had left Woodridge Hall, the Yale administration building, where the corporation meeting was held, nearly an hour earlier, and were awaiting the arrival of Col. Roosevelt. The conference took place between courses of the luncheon. There were present Mr. Taft, Secretary Norton, and Capt. Butt, as the President's party. During the last twenty minutes of the conference President Taft and Col. Roosevelt were alone.

It was 3:10 when the conference ended. President Taft, accompanied by Secretary Norton, was the first to appear, and it was announced that Col. Roosevelt would ride with the party to the station to see the President off. Messrs. Griscom and Bannard came next. They appeared somewhat serious, and went off to one side for a conference by themselves, which seemed quite earnest.

Roosevelt Looks Serious.

The President got into the automobile, and then followed a wait of several minutes for the Colonel, who had been putting on some fresh linen. He, too, seemed more serious than usual, and announced that he must "preserve his usual reticence and say nothing."

President Taft had the near seat in the automobile, and the Colonel had to climb over him when he got in.

New Haven had not expected the meeting and the people along the streets stood agape as they saw the President and the ex-President seated close to each other and in animated conversation. They were too surprised to offer the suggestion of a cheer. The President is a familiar figure in New Haven, and is usually saluted with a respectful lifting of hats as he passes through the streets. He was quickly recognized to-day and both he and Col. Roosevelt were compelled to bow many times in response to the salutations.

The ride to the station was not without its perils. Slippery streets caused the automobile to skid dangerously. Meantime the train was being held and quite a crowd had gathered at the station.

Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft laughed and chatted all the way to the railroad station, which they reached at 3:18, the express which was to take President Taft to Springfield being held three minutes to allow the President and his party to catch it. When the President and ex-President parted they shook hands and said "Good-bye, William," and "good-bye, Theodore."

Col. Roosevelt and his party remained on the station platform, the Colonel waving his hat lustily and shouting "Good-bye" as the train moved out with the President aboard.

Col. Roosevelt had twenty minutes to wait for a train to take him to New York, and he remained on the platform, holding an informal reception. Several hundred people shook his hand and a lusty cheer marked his departure on the train for New York.

Mr. Bannard went to Springfield with the Taft party, and Mr. Griscom went back to his home in Fairfield.

ROOSEVELT IS WELL PLEASED.

Says Talk on New York Situation Was Entirely Satisfactory.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Well pleased with the result of his conference with President Taft Theodore Roosevelt returned to Oyster Bay at 7 o'clock to-night and drove at once to Sagamore Hill.

"I had a very pleasant interview with the President," said the Colonel, "and an entirely satisfactory talk on the New York situation."

He admitted that the National situation had also been discussed, but declined to repeat any of the conversation. It was learned, however, that they had not taken up the question of a candidate for Governor of New York.

When the Colonel was asked whether to-day's conference would have any bearing on his course in the New York State fight he replied that his position would be precisely what it has been.

"There will be no compromise in any way," he said. "This is a straight fight for decency in politics as against bossism."

Questions followed as to just what he had meant by his statement of Saturday that C. V. Collins, Superintendent of State Prisons, whom he met at Syracuse, would be his right-hand man at the Saratoga Convention. He had chosen Mr. Collins, he explained, because he wanted a man from the central part of the State who knows the situation there and will be able to estimate accurately the strength of the opposition. Mr. Collins lives in Troy.

The Colonel added that he had noticed in estimates given out by William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, that Mr. Barnes had placed some of his own counties in the Roosevelt column. He was too old a campaigner, he intimated, to be thrown off his guard by anything that Mr. Barnes said.

More emphatically than ever the Colonel reiterated his determination not to accept the nomination for Governor of New York.

"At Philadelphia in 1900, at the Republican National Convention," he was reminded, "you said that under no circumstances would you accept the nomination for the Vice Presidency. Yet the convention nominated you and you accepted."

The reminder did not shake him. He repeated that no one could force the nomination for Governor upon him, and added that, should the convention be stampeded for him in spite of his outspoken opposition, he should decline to accept the nomination.

In speaking of the arrangements which led up to his conference with President Taft, Col. Roosevelt said it had been planned originally that they should meet in New York. President Taft found, however, that it would be inconvenient for him to go to New York, and sent a request to Col. Roosevelt through Mr. Griscom, President of the New York County Republican Committee, to meet him in New Haven instead.

TAFT IN HAPPY MOOD.

Appears on Platform When His Train Reaches Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 19.—President Taft's car, the Mayflower, was the last on the second section of the Wolverine express from Boston. As the train rolled into the station the President and his family were at dinner. Otto Bannard disembarked here and left for New York at midnight.

The President appeared on the platform in response to calls and clapping of hands, bowed several times, and was about to re-enter the car when a youth shouted:

"Three cheers for the President."

They were faint, whereupon the President waved his hand and hurrahed twice. In response to continued hand-clapping and calling for him, the President appeared a second time, but simply nodded. He was in his happiest mood, but would not speak.

Mr. Bannard refused to talk further than to say that the conference with the President was most satisfactory.

GRISCOM IS GRATIFIED.

Says Taft Has Not Changed His Views Since His Recent Letter.

President Lloyd C. Griscom of the Republican County Committee, when he returned last night, said he preferred to have President Taft and Col. Roosevelt speak for themselves with regard to what happened at the conference in New Haven. It appears that the President and Col. Roosevelt had most of their talk in absolute privacy after the luncheon at the White residence.

"The conference was brought about," said Mr. Griscom, "for the purpose of reascertaining the precise view of President Taft on the eve of the Convention. Speaking for myself I can say that I am very well satisfied with the result. I was gratified to find that the President fully understood and appreciated the issues involved in the contest in this State. I may add that the President has not changed his views since his letter to me on Aug. 20."

At that time President Taft wrote to Mr. Griscom that he did not approve of the manner in which Vice President Sherman had been selected for temporary Chairman of the Saratoga Convention without any prior consultation with Col. Roosevelt and his friends, and he also declared himself in favor of a direct nominations plank in the Republican State platform along the lines of the Cobb Compromise bill, which was defeated at the last session of the Legislature.

There is one question which has been agitating the opponents of Col. Roosevelt and the progressives. That is: Will President Taft, through his zeal for a progressive victory at the State Convention, be induced to use Federal patronage in an effort to influence the verdict?

Not long ago President Taft made it clear that he was opposed to the use of Federal patronage as punishment or reward, and that his power in this direction would be used only with a view to finding the fittest men for places after listening to the recommendations of those whose position entitles them to make suggestions on the subject to the Chief Executive.

There is no reason to believe that the talk between President Taft and Col. Roosevelt yesterday has changed that situation in the slightest. In fact, the subject was not brought up in the course of the general discussion that occurred prior to the private talk between Mr. Taft and Col. Roosevelt.

The progressives consider that it would be undignified on the part of the President to use his power even in behalf of a good cause, and for that reason refrained from making any request in that direction. Besides, they feel justified, on the strength of reports which they have received from different parts of the State, in believing that they will control the State Convention easily without any pressure from the Federal Administration beyond an official approval of their course.

The reports that the question of putting through a 1912 indorsement of President Taft at the Saratoga Convention had been brought up at the conference in New Haven, Mr. Griscom declined to discuss, declaring that it was not within his province to do so.

SAW ROOSEVELT IN PERIL.

He Was Talking Energetically to Engineer, Says Yachtsman.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Col. Roosevelt's trip across the Sound to-day was so rough that Capt. James B. Ford of the New York Yacht Club, who was on his way from Huntington to Cold Spring Harbor in his pleasure boat Katrina, felt alarmed when he sighted an open motor boat laboring in the heavy seas. A stiff northwest wind was blowing and the motor boat was making a hard fight of it.

The Captain put his glasses up and recognized Col. Roosevelt, who was standing up in the boat swaying from side to side as it bucked the waves, and talking most energetically with the engineer. It looked to him, he said, as though the Colonel was telling the engineer how to run his boat through the storm.

Capt. Ford followed the motor boat for some distance, ready to give assistance if it were needed. No request for help came, and when he saw that Col. Roosevelt was safely past the roughest water he resumed his trip to Cold Spring Harbor. He came to Oyster Bay to-night and returned to New York by train.

BARNES STATES THE ISSUE.

Shall the Republican Party Be Bryanized? He Asks.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 19.—William Barnes, Jr., learned at his bungalow on the Great Western Turnpike of the result of the visit of Messrs. Roosevelt, Bannard, and Griscom to New Haven to see Mr. Taft. He reflected for a moment. Then he said, with deliberation:

"The mere fact that Mr. Roosevelt thought it necessary to go to New Haven to see the President indicates that he was looking for the support of the highest executive official in the Nation in the endeavor of him and his friends to commit the Republican Party of New York to his policies.

"The question of the indorsement of the party for 1912 is highly important to Mr. Roosevelt. It is not to anybody else. No amount of circumlocution can becloud the real issue, which is: 'Shall the Republican Party of New York take its stand in favor of a Bryanized Republican Party or shall it remain true to its all-successful traditions?'"

clusively of farming and his country neighbors, avoiding politics entirely.

A Business Talk.

"On that visit," he said, "I had nothing specially to bring to the Mayor's attention. This time I have."

"But suppose he insists on avoiding public matters again. What will you do then?" was suggested.

"I will tell you that to-morrow," Mr. Mitchel replied as he hurried away to catch a St. James train.

The Acting Mayor was accompanied on his visit by Assistant Corporation Counsel William B. Crowell, who is Mayor Gaynor's personal adviser. They were taken in Mr. Crowell's automobile, which had been sent from Brooklyn to the St. James station, directly to Mayor Gaynor's home, where they arrived at 7:30 o'clock. The conference lasted until 9 o'clock, when the visitors left in Mr. Crowell's automobile for Manhattan.

To reporters who pressed him to tell the result of the conference Mr. Mitchel said they would have to wait until this morning. Mayor Gaynor was equally reticent. The visit was a complete surprise to him, as reporters who asked if he was expecting Mr. Mitchel a few minutes before the Acting Mayor arrived were assured that nothing had been heard of the contemplated trip.

The transfer of Police Captains in the zone of the gambling raids takes Capt. John O'Brien away from the old Tenderloin station, in West Thirtieth Street, displacing him with Capt. Samuel A. McElroy of the Hamilton Avenue Station, Brooklyn, with whom Capt. O'Brien changes places. The order goes into effect at 8 o'clock this morning.

Before Magistrate Barlow, in the West Side Court, two boyish-looking detectives, who said they had posed as young swells in the Hotel Astor lobby until lured away into gambling games, furnished the evidence yesterday on which ten men were held as common gamblers for operating in three alleged gambling houses.

The first group was caught on Friday night in West Forty-second Street. They gave their names as Charles Brooks, Leon I. Curley, and John Ferrone, and the specific charge against them was operating a crap game. They were held in $2,000 each. Five men from a place in West Forty-fifth Street were held in $1,500 each, and two from West Forty-seventh Street were held in $2,000.

Several chauffeurs arrested on an anonymous telephone call to Capt. Palmer of the West Forty-seventh Street Station were released after it had been shown that they were playing craps in their own clubroom to pass the time away, the clubroom being above the garage where they were employed.

Charles L. Jones, a private detective, who gave evidence against two of the groups, testified that Inspector Walsh hired him and that he made all his reports on what he found directly to the Inspector. His testimony created something of a sensation in the courtroom, where the employment of private detectives by Police Inspectors came as a shock, violating all the established precedents.

OLD GUARD LOSES IN THE DELEGATIONS

Republican District Conventions Show a Leaning Toward the Roosevelt Side.

A THRUST AT WOODRUFF

One District Significantly Calls for the Reorganization of the State Committee.

All the surface agitation at the Republican Assembly District Conventions for the election of delegates to the State Convention, held last night, went against the Old Guard. Some of them instructed their delegates to vote for Col. Roosevelt for temporary Chairman of the convention, and also declared in favor of direct nominations.

In the Twenty-seventh District a resolution was passed calling for a reorganization of the State Committee, which, while no names were mentioned, was obviously a direct blow at State Chairman Woodruff.

There were few instructions to the delegates to vote for any particular candidate. The Sixteenth, however, directed its delegates to vote for William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, and the Nineteenth indorsed the candidacy of Congressman William S. Bennet.

The delegates elected in the Twenty-seventh included ex-United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson, who has been mentioned as a Gubernatorial possibility; B. W. B. Brown, Republican leader of the last Board of Aldermen; Congressman Herbert Parsons, and State Senator Agnew. The resolution concerning the reorganization of the State Committee read as follows:

> Resolved, That we favor an indorsement by the State Convention of the Administration of President Taft and the nomination of a candidate for Governor who will conduct the affairs of the State according to the high standard set by Gov. Hughes, and be it further
> Resolved, That we favor such action on the part of the delegates chosen here to-night as will further the real sentiments of the Republican Party in its State Committee, and will effect such changes in the membership and officers of the new State Committee as may be required to make the committee purely representative of the Republican voters of the State.

The convention in the Fifteenth Assembly District was the liveliest in the city. An amendment to a resolution calling for the indorsement of Col. Roosevelt was defeated after a long uproar, but only, it was declared, because the amendment also included an indorsement of Harry W. Mack, the old leader of the district and the present State Committeeman from it.

Assemblyman Bennett, who defeated the organization candidate at the recent primaries thereby entitling him to the nomination to succeed Congressman J. Van Vechten Olcott, succeeded Mack to the leadership of the district, and the fight was largely made on him, it being declared that he was backing Bennett's opponent at the primaries. It was said that the defeat of the amendment cannot be taken as a blow at the Colonel, the delegation headed by Mr. Bennett being elected with a resolution indorsing direct primaries.

United States District Attorney Wise immediately moved the Roosevelt-Mack amendment to it. "Trick!" "Fraud!" was shouted, and the amendment was defeated. The delegation includes Henry L. Stoddard and ex-State Senator Martin Saxe, who has been picked by Mr. Bennett to succeed Mack on the State Committee.

After the convention had adjourned the opposition declared that the action of the convention means the consummation of "a deal between Bennett, Abraham Gruber, and William Barnes, Jr.," with the object of placing Gruber on the State Committee.

The Bennett men were loud in their denials of this, declaring that their announcement for direct nominations shows clearly that they have not compromised with the Old Guard.

The delegation which was instructed to vote for William R. Willcox in the Sixteenth is headed by Charles K. Lexow, the leader of the district.

In the Nineteenth, where Congressman Bennet was indorsed, the delegates were also instructed to vote for Col. Roosevelt for temporary Chairman.

Resolutions indorsing Col. Roosevelt for Temporary Chairman and direct nominations were also passed in the Twenty-third, Twenty-sixth, Thirty-first, and Thirty-fifth Districts. The delegation from the Twenty-third will include State Senator Newcomb and Register Grifenhagen. Seth Low will go as a delegate from the Twenty-eighth, and in the Twenty-ninth Senator Root, Chairman Griscom, and Otto T. Bannard were placed on the delegation. In the latter district a resolution of confidence in the County Chairman was passed, as was done in the Twenty-fourth, where one of the delegates named was Ogden L. Mills.

There was some trouble in the convention in the Twenty-sixth, of which Samuel Krulewitch is the leader, his opponent at the recent primaries walking out of the convention with a crowd of his followers and organizing a "snap" meeting. Krulewitch's delegates will undoubtedly be seated, however, he being the recognized leader of the district.

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford was elected a delegate in the Twenty-fifth, and in the Thirty-fifth Public Service Commissioner Eustis was made a member of the delegation.

The suffragettes were much in evidence at both the Republican and Democratic Conventions, demanding that resolutions be passed indorsing the women's suffrage movement. They were treated with scant courtesy in several instances, but in the Sixth Democratic District, of which John Diemer is the leader, their resolution was adopted and the delegates instructed to take it to the convention with them.

The unit rule for the delegations was adopted in several of the Republican districts, notably the Second and Third.

The Fifth Republican District did not instruct for Congressman Bennet despite the fact that at the last meeting of the district committee a resolution was passed indorsing his candidacy.

Secretary of State Koenig, who will head the delegation from the Sixth District, announced that, while the convention did not instruct, "our platform will be Taft, Hughes, and Roosevelt."

The Ninth District convention passed a resolution indorsing the Administration of President Taft, as did the Eleventh. The delegation from the Twelfth will include United States Marshal William Henkel, the leader of the district; Job E. Hedges, and John A. Sleicher, the publisher. Sheriff Shea will go as a delegate from the Fourteenth. In the Eighteenth a resolution was passed indorsing Col. Roosevelt and direct nominations, and Collector of the Port Loeb was placed on the delegation.

In the Thirtieth a resolution was passed directing the delegates to "follow Chairman Griscom in all things." This, of course, means a declaration for Col. Roosevelt.

ROOSEVELT WINS IN QUEENS.

He Defeats the Old Guard There in the Delegations.

The Republican Assembly District Conventions were also held in Queens last night, and resulted in a decisive victory for the Roosevelt forces over the Old Guard. The progressives carried the Second and Fourth District Conventions, giving them thirteen delegates to the Old Guard's eleven.

It had been expected that the Second District Conventions would indorse Col. Roosevelt, but the fight in the Fourth was long and stormy, the convention remaining in session until nearly midnight. The progressives finally carried the day by not only electing their delegates and passing resolutions indorsing Col. Roosevelt and direct nominations but procuring the nomination of Frank A. Leete for Assemblyman over Theodore P. Wilsnach, the present incumbent.

Joseph De Bragga, the Republican leader of the borough, is the leader of the Third District, and he elected his delegates without trouble. In the First, Long Island City, ex-Postmaster Ripperger introduced a Roosevelt resolution, but it was voted down.

Assemblyman Wieland was renominated in the Second District. The other two Assembly conventions were postponed.

DEMOCRATS SEE SUFFRAGISTS.

Their District Conventions All Besieged by Women Leaders.

The Democratic conventions were very quiet, with the exception of frequent appearances of the suffragettes. No instructions were given to the delegates, and no attempts were made to bring up the name of any one man. It had been expected that in some one of the districts some one might present a Gaynor resolution, but the Tammany machine worked perfectly, as usual.

In the Sixth District the suffragettes received good treatment. Their resolution was promptly passed, and the delegates were directed to take it to Rochester with them. They were not told what to do with it when they got there.

At the Thirty-second District Convention Mrs. W. W. Penfield, Chairman of the Bronx Borough Woman Suffrage Party, was allowed to make a long speech, but no action was taken when she had finished. The women were treated with scant courtesy in the Second District, of which Thomas F. Foley is leader, being told to "go home and mind their babies."

Many well-known names were included in the list of delegates: "Big Tim" Sullivan from the Third, with "Col. Mike" Padden as alternate; Martin W. Littleton and John F. Ahearn from the Fourth; Asa Bird Gardiner from the Sixth; "Christy" Sullivan from the Eighth; Charles F. Murphy, J. Sergeant Cram, and William F. Sheehan from the Twelfth; Senator Thomas F. Grady from the Fourteenth; John S. Crosby and Herman Ridder from the Fifteenth; Morgan J. O'Brien from the Eighteenth; Senator Wagner from the Twenty-second; Congressman Harrison and John F. McIntyre from the Twenty-fourth; Daniel F. Cohalan from the Twenty-sixth; Richard T. Wilson, Jr., and Payne Whitney from the Twenty-ninth, and Fire Commissioner Waldo from the Thirtieth.

TO NAME DELEGATES TO-NIGHT.

District Conventions to be Held in Brooklyn for That Purpose.

District conventions will be held by the Democrats and Republicans in Brooklyn to-night. The Democratic conventions in all the Assembly Districts of the borough are for the purpose of electing delegates to the State and Judiciary Conventions. In all probability the delegates will go to the State Convention at Rochester uninstructed. It is the wish of the leaders to have the entire delegation free until the situation at Rochester is sized up.

The Republicans will hold conventions in each of the twenty-three Assembly Districts to elect delegates and alternates to the Judiciary Convention. Their district conventions to elect delegates to the State Convention at Saratoga were held last Thursday night.

FEW SPEECHES FOR WILSON.

Campaign Will Be Devoid of Whirlwind Features, He Declares.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 19.—After a conference with President Wilson, James R. Nugent, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, to-day announced plans for the latter's campaign for Governor. President Wilson will resort to no whirlwind politics. With one or two exceptions he will make only one speech in each of the twenty-one counties in the State.

The campaign will be opened Wednesday, Sept. 28, a week after college opens, in Hudson County. The State Committee will meet on Friday, and details of the itinerary will be announced.

The committe intends to have a mass meeting in some town or city of each county. This form of campaign is new in New Jersey, but has been adopted to save the strength of Dr. Wilson. The idea is to reach the voters through a few large audiences rather than many small ones, and to confine the campaign to a comparatively few issues.

Nugent is receiving daily many assurances of support, and to Dr. Wilson's office are coming great numbers of letters and telegrams containing good wishes. Dr. Wilson is at his home, Prospect.

PAYNE OUT FOR CONGRESS.

Writer Gets Griscom's "O. K." for the Nomination in the Bronx.

George Henry Payne, a newspaper writer, has received the "O. K." of President Lloyd C. Griscom of the Republican County Committee, on his candidacy for the Congressional nomination in the Nineteenth Congressional District in the Bronx, the biggest in the United States. He will run on an anti-Cannon platform, if nominated at the convention this evening.

On the Democratic side there are two prominent candidates for the nomination—Col. Joseph A. Goulden, the present Representative, and ex-Borough President Louis F. Haffen, who is seeking the nomination, and who sees in election the "vindication" he has been seeking since he was ousted from office on charges preferred against him before Gov. Hughes a year ago.

TOWNSEND FOR CONGRESS.

Montclair Democrats Select Their Candidate of 1908 Again.

E. W. Townsend of Montclair was unanimously nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Seventh District of New Jersey in convention in that town last night. Harold M. Anderson of Montclair presided at the convention.

Mr. Townsend in his speech of acceptance said that in his campaign he proposed to attack Cannonism and to show the relation of the tariff to the high cost of living.

Mr. Townsend was defeated for Congress two years ago by Richard Wayne Parker, who is again his opponent.

Mr. Townsend is a writer of stories and plays. His best known tales are the "Chimmie Fadden" sketches.

REPUBLICANS FOR HARMONY.

Conference in West Virginia Decides to Indorse Taft.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, West Va., Sept. 19.—With a view to "restoring harmony within the Republican Party in West Virginia," leaders from many parts of the State gathered in convention here to-day under a call sent out by Gov. Glasscock. Those in attendance included State officials, Republican nominees for Congress, and others.

It was determined by those present to give indorsement to the Administration of President Taft, and to inaugurate the Fall campaign at an early date.

Major Evans for Congress.

to come near me who would discourage me. Nothing annoys me more than to have persons come about and express doubts when I have set my mind upon doing a thing.

They lifted me into bed, but had to prop me up on account of the choking. I told the poor Captain who bent over me that I was sorry for the trouble and delay I was causing. The ship's doctor and the ambulance doctor who soon arrived washed my face and beard and bandaged my wound. They carried me in a litter and put me in the ambulance. As it started I was filled with joy to see my dear Rufe spring up on the rear seat. I knew then that I was not to be alone. How relative happiness is in this world. He had been encouraging me by words all along and kept on doing so, but broke down completely in the hospital when mamma arrived, as I afterward learned.

The excitement being over, I began to grow weak, and was quite weak when I was wheeled into the operating room. I forgot to tell you that as I stood or was supported on the deck I heard some one crying out, Kill him!" and others saying, "No, do not kill him." They had seized the assassin. I heard no struggle, nor did I hear any shots fired, but I concluded that I had been shot in the head by an assassin. I did not hear the shot that hit me. There was an interval at the first when I seem to have been unconscious.

He Was Not Surprised.

Though the thing had not entered my head that morning, I was not surprised when I realized that I was shot. I had had a feeling for some weeks that I might be assaulted on account of the anonymous threats I was getting by mail. I had not received so many nor so regularly since I was opposing the ring corruptions and the McKane conditions in Brooklyn and Gravesend when I was a young man. I had ceased walking over the Brooklyn Bridge.

The matter of the pictures of the Reno prizefight had come up. I had no way as Mayor to stop the theatres from showing them. By the city charter their licenses were revokable by the Judges of the Supreme Court, not by the Mayor, and the District Attorney and Corporation Counsel decided that there was no law forbidding such pictures. They had been shown for years without objection. But the Hearst newspapers kept on denouncing me for not stopping them. I suppose you know the way they had belied me ever since I became Mayor. Finally, one day they printed in large type that an officer of the Christian Endeavor Society named Lowande had called on me at the Mayor's office and asked me on behalf of that society to stop the pictures, and that I told him he "was a fool and was sent by fools."

I had never said such a thing, as you may well know. It was made up. I learned that Lowande was a process server for lawyers. The officers of the Christian Endeavor Society put forth a statement of their own motion that it was untrue that they had sent Lowande or any one else to me, and that he did not represent them. But it made no difference. These newspapers went on repeating the falsehood, and even tried to get up a public meeting to denounce me.

Meanwhile people of wicked or disordered minds, of whom there are a large number in New York City, would cut these articles out and send them to me with abuse and threats written on the margin, or else with anonymous letters threatening me. Some of them said I would be killed. Probably they cared nothing about the pictures, but the particular disorder of their minds was inflamed by reading how bad a man I was. Finally they printed that terrible cartoon of me entitled 'The Barker.' I was dressed up as a ruffian and standing outside of a prizefight ring twirling a cane and barking for people to go in and see the sport. Two men slugging each other, one of them down and bleeding, were exposed in the ring.

The Disordered Minds.

Think of one who has been more of a library student than anything else all his life, and who never even saw a boxing match, being pictured like that. But the ignorant and disordered minds believed it, and I suppose many others who read no other newspaper did, and were naturally inflamed against such a ruffian being Mayor. That was the object these newspapers had in view, although they printed all the pictures of the fight in the most revolting form, as they had been doing for years with all such fights. Even some sensational ministers wrote to me as though they believed it. It was during this time that it first entered my head that I might be in danger, especially in walking over the bridge, although earlier in the year I had received a few similar threats when these same newspapers published that we were discharging small employes but taking on expensive ones.

Such journalism is, of course, in absolute defiance of the criminal law, and it did enter my mind to publicly call on the Grand Juries and the District Attorney to protect me from it, but I was weak and feared people would say I was thin skinned. But the time is at hand when these journalistic scoundrels have got to stop or get out, and I am ready now to do my share to that end. They are absolutely without souls. If decent people would refuse to look at such newspapers the thing would right itself at once. The journalism of New York City has been dragged to the lowest depth of degradation. The grossest railleries and libels, instead of honest statements and fair discussion, have gone on unchecked. One cannot help sympathizing with the decent newspapers.

But I will weary you with all this. Tom saw me at the hospital twice, and I must write to him. He started immediately on hearing that I was hurt. What a good heart he always has. Give my love to all. I long to see you, and to go out to the old farm, and walk the old roads. I am certain it would do me good; but I fear I cannot go this year. I wish I could go back to work. It would take my mind out of my throat.

Affectionately yours,
W. J. GAYNOR.

Miss Mary E. Gaynor.

Miss Gaynor's Statement.

The letter was made public in Utica by Miss Gaynor, who is active in women's club work there. In explanation of her action, she was quoted thus in The Evening Post:

"My brother has often written letters concerning events of which he wished some family record, and he wrote this letter for the same purpose; but, in my judgment, it is a letter which belongs to the whole public, and the publication of it will do much good. I have, therefore, determined to take the responsibility of publishing it. But I allow it to be published only on the condition that not a word of it be omitted."

The letter is dated Sept. 3, but Miss Gaynor does not say why she waited until yesterday before giving it to the press. It is typewritten on heavy white paper, with a few changes in pen made by the Mayor before sending. Principal among these are the insertion of the words "and mind" in the phrase "into the infinity of matter and mind from which he came" and the insertion of the words "instead of honest statements and fair discussion" after the phrase "the grossest railleries and libels."

The cartoon of which the Mayor speaks was printed in The New York American, Mr. Hearst's morning newspaper, on Page 2 of the issue of July 29. It represented the Mayor, dressed in a check suit and hat tilted on one side, "barking" in front of a moving picture show of the Jeffries-Johnson fight films.

The letter was read with intense interest in all parts of the city last night, it being promptly reproduced in all the late evening papers, except The Evening Journal, Mr. Hearst's newspaper. The politicians, particularly the Democrats, were deeply interested in it, and talked of little else at the Assembly District Conventions. None of the leaders could be induced to talk of the letter for publication, but expressed themselves freely in private. It was generally conceded that the principal and most emphatic effect of the letter will be to clear the air and finally squelch the many vague rumors which have been about of late as to the Mayor's mental and physical condition.

There were also those who declared that Miss Gaynor would never have dared to make the letter public without the consent of the Mayor, and that it was not at all in the form or style of "an intimate communication." Many deductions were drawn from the possible significance of this, but on every hand the joyous opinion was heard:

"Well, we know that the Mayor is able to run for Governor, anyway."

DELAY FOR GALLAGHER.

His Case Not to be Taken to the Grand Jury Yet.

According to information obtained at the office of Pierre P. Garven, the Hudson County (N. J.) Prosecutor, it is doubtful if the case of James J. Gallagher, the assailant of Mayor Gaynor, will be laid before the September Grand Jury, which meets at the new Court House in Jersey City to-day.

It was said that the Prosecutor would have to have a physician's certificate showing that Mr. Gaynor had recovered from the effects of his wound and that there was no danger of a relapse before the case could be presented. As yet no subpoenas have been issued for witnesses in the Gallagher case.

Gallagher is in the hospital ward of the Hudson County Jail, where he has been operated on for an abscess.

DIVIDENDS HIDDEN IN SALES OF STOCK

Illinois Central Admits at Rate Hearing $49,000,000 Sales at Par to Stockholders.

AVERAGE MARKET VALUE 150

Commissioners' Line of Questions Suggests That Such Transactions Should Be Considered in Estimating Earnings.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Stock inflation and manipulation, designed to turn over to stockholders large sums of money without putting in the company's record any evidence of more than the receipt of fair dividends, was the subject delved into to-day by the Inter-State Commerce Commission here at the continuation of its hearing following the suspension of the general advance of freight rates of Western lines which had been scheduled to take effect Sept. 1.

The Western roads' contention is that a general advance in freight rates is necessary to maintain the standard of service demanded by the Government and the people. Commissioners Clements, Clark, and Lane conducted the hearing, which hitherto has been in the hands of examiners.

The stock manipulation feature of the inquiry, which aims to bring out any facts behind the grounds the railroads allege for asking the increase, was suggested by Commissioner Judson C. Clements, and was immediately taken up by the Commission's attorney, Frank Lyon, and Attorney John H. Atwood of Kansas city, Mo., who appeared for the General Shippers' Committee, which is fighting the increase. Controller M. P. Blauvelt of the Illinois Central Railroad was the witness from whom the disclosures which followed were obtained.

Stock Sales to Shareholders.

Commissioner Clements called the witness's attention to figures he had furnished on direct examination by the railroad's counsel, W. H. Horton.

"You say, Mr. Blauvelt," the Commissioner said, "that in 1891 your capital stock was $40,000,000 on 2,875 miles of road, and in 1910, on only about 1,700 miles more, it was $109,000,000. Also, that in 1891 the bonded indebtedness was only $82,000,000, while in 1910 it had reached $176,000,000. Why is this?"

"Well," was the answer, "what would appear to be the excess went to improve the roadway and to equipment and purchase of other roads."

"And how was the stock raised for these purposes sold?" continued the Commissioner. "Was it in the open market?"

"Part of it was. But most of it was sold to the stockholders at par."

"Was there ever declared a stock dividend?"

"Oh, no, I'm sure there wasn't. That would amount to the same as any other dividend, you see. The Illinois Central stock sales represented real values, you must see, in dollars and cents."

Here Attorney Frank Lyon for the commission took a hand in the cross-examination, seeking to have the witness differentiate between giving stockholders a stock dividend or giving them stock worth more than par at parity. The Controller insisted there was a vast difference, even if the result was the same in cash to the stockholders, which he admitted.

This part of the testimony opened a new disposition of a corporation's stock, and Commissioner Lane, after asking if it was to make the stock value approach the cash value, and being informed it was not, allowed the attorney to delve into the par stock deals.

"If your stock sold at 150 in the open market," asked the attorney, "and you gave it to your stockholders at 100, what became of the extra 50 per cent. of its value?"

"Why, it went to the stockholders," was the answer.

"Then the upshot of it was your company added to its capital stock by letting stock go at par, when it needed money, when it could have sold less stock on the open market, satisfied its need, and kept the capital stock down, giving less capital to figure dividends upon; isn't that so?" was the next question.

Controller Blauvelt was unwilling such an impression should prevail, he said, and he explained by saying: "Suppose we dumped $15,000,000 in stock on the market at once. It would send its value way below par. I consider it a good business policy to sell where we were sure it would bring par, and keep control of the road where it was."

$49,000,000 Sold at Par.

Attorney John H. Atwood of Kansas City, representing the General Shippers' Committee, was anxious to know, he said, how much of the company's $285,000,000 in stocks and bonds has thus been sold at par since 1900.

"Can you give me the figure?" he asked.

"I find the sum was $49,000,000 par value," Mr. Blauvelt answered.

"That, sold in small dabs on the market, or if it all could have been sold at market prices, would have amounted to about a third to a half or more in addition to that figure, wouldn't it?"

"I don't know," replied the witness.

"I think I can help you," answered the attorney. He read from a stock and bond company's pamphlet which quoted the high and low market prices in the period covered as between 122 and 174, with an average of about 150.

After further questioning along the same line, which brought out no new facts, Commissioner Clements interposed an inquiry which directed the questioning along a new line, that of the uses to which stock sale money was put, and the possibility of actual gains of the company being hidden in its owning stock and bonds in subsidiary companies. The Controller answered this question by insisting that whatever this parent company paid out in maintenance costs for subsidiary companies, those returns were not properly sources of income to be considered in computing dividends.

The Commissioner said: "Some of this additional property which your company acquired was purchased by earnings, wasn't it?"

"It was," was the reply.

"Then," interrupted Attorney Lyons, "does the income include returns from those outside companies?"

"No, certainly not," replied Controller Blauvelt. "Few of them pay any dividends, and return revenue is consumed in payment of expenses on their separate lines, and doesn't furnish the parent company with any excess for income."

C. M. Kittle, the Illinois Central's statistician, had already presented figures showing the high cost of maintenance, and when Commissioner Lane called attention to the fact that these figures showed in 1902 a higher cost of maintenance per mile than in 1910, Attorney Horton for the Illinois Central replied that this was only a chance comparison, and promised to show a higher cost in every department of maintenance—not on any one feature.

Mr. Kittle testified that in damaged freight indemnities alone this year the road had paid out $4,845,470, as against only $60,000 in 1892. The increase in volume of freight had not kept pace during the last decade with the increase in expenses. Some instances, he said, were due to Federal and State laws requiring additional safety apparatus and inspection and regulating hours of service.

As an instance of the increased cost of material, Mr. Kittle said that lumber which could be bought in 1900 for $9 now costs $13. Increased wages also were a drain on the revenue of the company, he declared. Freight conductors who received $3 per hundred miles in 1901 now receive $3.75. Wages of freight handlers in Chicago, he declared, have nearly doubled during the last decade.

Attorney Clifford Thorn of a farmers' co-operative association then sought to show by the witness that the present year's high cost of maintenance was abnormal and could not be expected next year, hence increase of rates on that account was not necessary. The Controller did not have the specific information he sought, and the inquiry was put over until 10 A. M. to-morrow.

Proposes Fair Earnings Test.

Previous to the taking of testimony the Commissioners heard a petition from Samuel C. Cowan of Texas, representing the Western Livestock Association. The petition urged that what constitutes the proposed earnings of a railroad should be determined by the earning power of other investments in the particular localities tapped by a railroad. The petition declared that the increased cost of maintenance and service noted by the roads is no greater than that affecting shippers, and that the roads in this particular endure no hardships not shared by shippers.

The railways coal problem also brought forth some interesting statistics. Statistician Kittle asserted that the cost gradually was increasing. Chicago's smoke problem along the lake front, which is traversed by the Illinois Central, was given lucidity when Attorney Frank Lyon asked:

"Is this due to your use of a better grade of coal?"

"No," was the reply; "on the other hand, we have been using a poorer grade."

"And did you say the company owned no coal mines?" asked Attorney H. C. Lust of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. The witness replied he knew the company bought considerable, but did not know whether it was from its own mines or not.

V. D. Fort, General Passenger Agent for the north and west lines of the same road, stirred up the Commissioners when, in speaking of the increased cost to the company of printing freight tariffs since the rules relating to them had been enforced, said:

"They are of no use, except to the commission. Our patrons don't use them."

"Mr. Fort," retorted Commissioner Clark, "don't you know that our ruling allowing you to post only an index to your tariffs in two places in each station, instead of the whole tariff, saved you hundreds of thousands of dollars? And don't you know it is solely to enable your patrons to have a clear idea of your charges?"

"It never has saved us anything," said Mr. Fort, "and is only a burden on commerce."

"Then, why don't you ask Congress to have it repealed?" returned the Commissioner.

Mr. Fort had said cost of clerical help in classifying tariffs had increased from $74,821 in 1905 to $124,708 in 1909, but in answer to inquiry by all three of the Commissioners, admitted that it was because the commission had enforced existing rules. He added that the increase in cost of printing the tariffs was 102 per cent.

REBEL AGAINST BOSS WARD.

Westchester Republicans Object to His Plot to Beat Wainwright.

The determination of the Ward machine to shelve Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright of Westchester because he has stood with Gov. Hughes in his fight with the "Old Guard," has aroused a storm of protest through the county and a movement has been started to force his renomination. There is to be a meeting at Mount Vernon to-morrow night to express disapproval of the boss's plan and appreciation of Wainwright.

A strong Republican element here is bitter over this plan. In Yonkers circulars are being sent out by the Southwest Yonkers Improvement Association demanding Wainwright's renomination. At the recent primaries there was no opposition to the Ward ticket, but within the last few days a progressive spirit has been aroused, and if the primaries could be repeated there would be a bitter fight.

BARNES CLASSIFIES COLLINS.

Not a Boss, He Says, Because He Is for Roosevelt.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 19.—William Barnes, Jr., in commenting in his newspaper to-night on the statement of Col. Roosevelt that "Mr. Collins will be my right-hand man at Saratoga," said:

"In these parts for a little time there has been some doubt whether the Hon. C. V. Collins was 'a boss.' His indorsement by Mr. Roosevelt demonstrates the truth of that impression. On the other side of the Hudson Mr. Collins is a leader. On this side of the Hudson Mr. Barnes is a boss."

MISS BOWLIN NOT ENGAGED.

Pittsburg Church Singer, Here on a Visit, Denies the Report.

Miss Henrietta Bowlin, contralto of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church of Pittsburg, who, it is said, may abandon a promised operatic career to become the wife of Edward Quimby, a wealthy young business man of that city, arrived in New York yesterday and went to the Hotel Plaza. She came East with Mrs. E. W. Mudge, who is greatly interested in the musical career of Miss Bowlin.

Last night at the Plaza Miss Bowlin confirmed the report that Mr. Quimby was attentive to her and that she saw a great deal of him while in Pittsburg, but she denied that she was engaged to him.

"I am here strictly on business," she said, "which concerns only my musical career. Mr. Victor Herbert has written several songs for me, which I intend to use soon either in concert or operatic work, and I came to see him.

"I don't expect Mr. Quimby to come on, just now at any rate."

VESTRYMEN ATTACK BISHOP BURGESS

St. Andrew's Board Accuses the Diocesan Head of Having Uttered a Falsehood.

ROW OVER RECTOR ACKLEY

When the Vestry Locked Him Out of His Church He Obtained a Restraining Order.

Charging that Bishop Burgess had "deliberately lied," the Vestrymen of St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Fourth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, Brooklyn, pleaded their right, as officers of the church, before Supreme Court Justice Garretson yesterday, to oust the Rev. William N. Ackley from his pastorate without the episcopal consent.

The startling allegation against Bishop Burgess is the culmination of an attempt on the part of the Vestry of St. Andrew's to get rid of Dr. Ackley, the rector, who, in the opinion of the Vestrymen, is too old to perform his pastoral duties efficiently.

For several years the relations between the rector and Vestry have been so strained as to threaten the welfare and peace of the parish, according to Dr. George Chaffee, one of the Wardens. At length the Vestrymen demanded the resignation of Dr. Ackley. When the latter refused to surrender his pastorate a petition was addressed to Bishop Burgess, who refused to accept it without the consent of Dr. Ackley. Thereupon the Vestry notified the rector of the contents of the petition and of that body's intention to present it to the head of the diocese, Dr. Chaffee declares.

When a second interview was sought by the Vestry with the Bishop, he continues, the latter refused to receive the Vestrymen without the consent of Dr. Ackley, explaining his attitude with the statement that there had been a similar dispute in the Church of the Atonement in Brooklyn, and that in this case no petition had been received by the diocesan authorities without the consent of the rector.

When it became evident that Bishop Burgess had no intention of acting, Dr. Chaffee asserts, the Vestry took the arbitrary course of locking Dr. Ackley out of St. Andrew's. As a result the aged minister, who is supported in his fight against the Vestry by a majority of the congregation, held services on the church steps on Sunday, Sept. 11, and last week obtained a temporary injunction restraining the Vestry from further interference with his work. The order was returnable yesterday before Justice Garretson.

In the answer filed yesterday by the Vestrymen Bishop Burgess is charged with having "deliberately lied" in his statement made to the Vestry that in the case of the Church of the Atonement he had received no petition from the Vestry without the consent of the rector. This case had been urged by the diocesan authorities as constituting a precedent. The Vestry of the Atonement, it is set forth, declares that "nothing that went from the Atonement to the Bishop had the consent of the rector."

When the aspersion against Bishop Burgess was read in court Lawyer William N. Ford, who appeared for Dr. Ackley, became indignant, and requested time to obtain an answering affidavit from the prelate before proceeding with his argument.

"We have been shamefully treated," declared Francis C. Koehler, counsel for the Vestrymen, "and have a right to say so. We expect to prove everything that is set forth in our affidavits."

"That may be true," returned Justice Garretson, "but doesn't the Good Book say that if they smite you on one cheek you shall turn the other also?"

"We've been smitten on both cheeks," asserted the lawyer, "and we have no other cheek to turn."

Justice Garretson granted the request of Mr. Ford for a continuance in order to get an affidavit from Bishop Burgess.

ALLEGES $100,000 SWINDLE.

Lange, the Scranton Alchemist, Says He's Been Duped to That Extent.

Special to The New York Times.

SCRANTON, Penn., Sept. 19.—Dr. Frederick M. Lange of this city says he has been swindled out of $100,000. Just how the thing was done, the physician refuses to disclose, but he denies emphatically that it has any connection with his alleged discovery of a process for the transmutation of base metals into silver salts. It is thought, however, that the arrest of Ed Gleason, the Philadelphia chemist, on charges of forgery and false pretenses involving $25,000 has some connection with the transmutation process.

Gleason was Dr. Lange's co-worker for several weeks previous to the announcement of the discovery, and there has been a persistent rumor that the Philadelphian sold the "secret" to the physician for $25,000.

To-day Gleason was arraigned before Alderman Moir on the Lange charges, but he waived a hearing. The Alderman held the prisoner in $10,500 bail to answer the charges in court, but later consented to his release in custody of a Constable. A. O. Granger, said to be a Philadelphia promoter, is here in the interest of Gleason, and is said to be interested with Gleason in another transmutation process and anxious to get him free in order to continue the experiments. To-day Granger suggested that Gleason be allowed to accompany him to New Jersey, where Gleason's process was to be tried in the presence of another chemist selected by Granger. The court refused to allow it.

OSTERMANN TO TESTIFY.

Car Repair Man Named in Illinois Central Scandal May Be Called To-day.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Interest in the Illinois Central Railroad car repair fraud case in the Municipal Court to-day centred in the announcement that Henry C. Ostermann, President of the Ostermann Manufacturing Company, will probably be placed on the witness stand to-morrow. Ostermann, said to be one of the principals in the alleged plot by which the railroad company was defrauded of a large sum, has been away from Chicago for some time.

Richard Roth, formerly a car inspector employed by the railroad company, was the only witness examined at to-day's hearing of conspiracy charges against John M. Taylor, Frank B. Harriman, and Charles E. Ewing, former Illinois Central officials. Roth went into detail regarding the alleged padding of repair bills at the plant of the Ostermann Manufacturing Company. He told the court that if repairs charged for had actually been placed on cars in certain instances the cars would have been so over-equipped as to have been useless.

JURY EXONERATES RAINEY.

Coroner's Body Decides That He Killed Atkins in Self-Defense.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Dr. John M. Rainey was exonerated to-day by a Coroner's jury, which decided that he acted in self-defense last Friday when he shot and killed his former business associate, Louen V. Atkins, in the latter's office.

At the conclusion of the Coroner's inquest Dr. Rainey was released from custody by the police. Several witnesses testified that Atkins had threatened Dr. Rainey's life on a number of occasions, and also that Atkins had a revolver in his possession when Dr. Rainey called at his office Friday.

CONTESTS IN ALBANY TO-DAY.

Little Opposition to Barnes, but Whalen Is Fighting McCabe.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 19.—Both of the regular organizations are preparing to meet opposition in the cities and towns of Albany County at to-morrow's primaries. On the Republican side trouble is expected in only eight election districts. On the Democratic side practically every election district will be contested.

In his leading editorial in The Journal to-night, William Barnes, Jr., the Republican leader, says:

"Although the adherents of Mr. Roosevelt and the 'New Nationalism' and the supporters of the policy 'Down with the bosses who are against me,' have not seen fit to put any primary tickets in the field in the County of Albany, nevertheless every Republican voter should go to the polls and vote to-morrow."

Robert E. Whalen is making a fight against State Committeeman Patrick E. McCabe for the delegates to the Democratic State Convention and to get control of the organization. As a result of Whalen's appeal to Gov. Hughes Sheriff Platt swore in to-day four Deputy Sheriffs for service at each of the nine polling places in Cohoes to-morrow. Mr. Whalen told the Governor that the Cohoes police were controlled by Michael Smith, a McCabe lieutenant, and that the result was always the same, no matter how the vote was cast. To-night Mr. Whalen expressed confidence in his success to-morrow.

Mr. McCabe has not talked much, but he has been busy protecting his fences. This evening he said:

"Personal abuse doesn't mean political success. If it did, Mr. Whalen could not fail in his attempt."

McCabe declared his belief that he would carry seventeen of Albany City's nineteen wards, and all the Cohoes city wards, as well as the City of Watervliet, and the ten towns.

WON'T RUN AGAINST PAYNE.

Democratic Aspirant for Governorship Says Congress Doesn't Tempt Him.

Special to The New York Times.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Thomas Mott Osborne, one of the men whose names will be presented to the Democratic Convention next week as candidate for Governor, to-day announced that he would in no way be considered as a candidate for Congress to oppose Sereno E. Payne. His statement is:

"I desire to state emphatically that I should not under any circumstances accept such a nomination. While I should thoroughly enjoy contesting the election with Mr. Payne, for I should feel the exhilaration of a righteous cause—'thrice is he arm'd that hath his quarrel just'—yet the position of Congressman is one which has no particular attraction for me, and I can spend my time to better advantage for my party and my State, even if I fail to land a place on the State ticket, as the dispatch so elegantly phrases it."

OLCOTT HASN'T QUIT YET.

Though Defeated at the Primaries He's Still After a Renomination.

Despite the apparent control by Assemblyman William M. Bennett of the Fifteenth District of a majority in the Congressional convention which is to nominate a successor to J. Van Vechten Olcott this evening, Representative Olcott, who is a candidate for renomination, announced yesterday that he was going to continue his fight. Mr. Olcott said that he would enter the convention with seventy-five delegates pledged to him—just six short of the required majority.

After Mr. Bennett's recent leadership victory in his district over the candidate placed in the field by the friends of Mr. Olcott, it was regarded as settled that he would be the nominee for Congress from the district, especially as Col. Abraham Gruber, leader of the Seventeenth District, promised to deliver his 41 delegates for Mr. Bennett, which with the 61 delegates would make more than a majority.

Last night Mr. Olcott declared that he did not believe the delegates from the Seventeenth would all favor Mr. Bennett's nomination, and a lively fight is looked for at the convention to-night.

SOCIALISTS NAME PROFESSOR

Put Up Vladimir Karapetoff of Cornell for Senator.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The Socialist Party of Tompkins County took the old-line party men by surprise to-day by nominating for Senator Vladimir Karapetoff, Professor of Engineering at Cornell University.

Prof. Karapetoff is a native of Russia, a well-known engineer, and an ardent Socialist. He has many friends in this district. The Republican candidate will be Assemblyman Seymour Lowman of Chemung County, and the Democrats plan to name Prof. Edwin H. Woodruff of Cornell.

HOLMES SMITH TAKES STRYCHNINE TABLETS

POLICE ARE NOT NOTIFIED

Chauffeur Asks Them to Investigate—Family Tried to Take Smith Secretly to Hospital.

Despondent, it is said, because his fiancée had broken their engagement, Holmes Smith, a real estate operator, living with his mother, Dr. Caroline H. Smith, and a sister at the Herbert apartment house, 228 West 108th Street, attempted to commit suicide last night by taking twelve one-thirtieth-grain strychnine tablets dissolved in a glass of water.

An attempt was made, it is alleged, to spirit the young man away to a hospital without notifying the police of the occurrence. A chauffeur from the Allbright garage, at 138th Street and Broadway, summoned Policeman Cleary of the West 100th Street Station, whose beat is in that neighborhood, and told him that the actions of a girl who was at the garage trying to hire a taxicab aroused his suspicions. The girl, it is alleged, told Cleary that her name was Mary Smith, and that she wanted the taxicab to take her brother, who had been suddenly taken ill, to a hospital.

Cleary insisted on accompanying the girl to the Smith apartment, and there he found young Smith in great agony, with Dr. Thomas H. Cherry of 235 West 107th Street and Dr. Harriet Hughes of 97 West Eighty-first Street in attendance. Dr. Hughes, the police say, admitted that the young man was suffering from strychnine poisoning.

Dr. Hughes, it is alleged, told Cleary that the trouble between Smith and his fiancée began about two weeks ago. One morning about two weeks ago, according to this story, Smith slept until long past breakfast hour.

When he awoke he is said to have called the negro servant of the family, Lizzie, and demanded that she get him breakfast immediately. The servant demurred, saying that she had something to attend to and could not get breakfast for some time.

A violent quarrel ensued, during which Smith is alleged to have struck the girl. This incident, it is said, led to the rupture between Smith and his fiancée, the latter declaring that she would have nothing to do with a man who would strike a woman.

Smith's sister told the police that her brother's predicament was the result of an accident. When he was a boy, the police say she told Patrolman Cleary, her brother fell on his head. The doctors prescribed strychnine for him, and he has been accustomed to take the drug at intervals ever since. In her opinion, Smith took last night an overdose of the poison.

Smith was removed in an ambulance to the J. Hood Wright Hospital, where he is held a prisoner, charged with attempted suicide. His condition is serious and he has little chance of recovery.

Orange County Democrats Meet.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The Democratic Convention for the First Assembly District of Orange County was held to-day, and John C. R. Taylor of Middletown was indorsed for State Senator. Charles H. Tuthill of Blooming Grove was named for the Assembly.

A. A. McLean, Newburg; H. W. Chadeayne, Cornwall, and J. E. Ward, Crawford, were chosen delegates to the State Convention.

1887 Brill Clothes—Ready to Wear 1910

The Fall Brill Twenty.

The Best $20 Suit that ever was made for a man.

In order to meet, in the biggest, broadest way, the great demand for a Fall suit at $20, we sounded many men; got their ideas on style, their taste as to colorings, their preference for fabrics. The rest was detail, very carefully and thoroughly worked out by capable designers and skilled craftsmen; with the result that it will be difficult to find a man whose taste we cannot gratify, whose person we cannot fit, in a Fall Brill Twenty suit. And it will be far more difficult for any man to get greater satisfaction for $20.

GRAFT HUNT DODGES, CITY CLUB ASSERTS

Members Convinced That the Legislative Committee Doesn't Mean to Go Very Deep.

MERRITT SENDS A REPLY

Asks the Club to be More Specific in Reference to Corruption in City Legislation.

Secretary Robert S. Binkerd of the City Club made public yesterday the answer of Assemblyman Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., Chairman of the Legislative Graft Investigating Committee, to the club's suggestion that it might be well to look into the 80-cent gas matter, certain franchise measures, and the bills regarding hours of work for city employes while the committee was inquiring into the improper relationship of legislators to special interests desiring legislation.

The letter was regarded at the City Club as evasive and non-committal, and not indicative of a desire to give legislative methods any really broad overhauling. Secretary Binkerd is preparing another communication to Chairman Merritt, in which he will deal more specifically with some samples of legislation forced upon New York City by legislators living outside of the city limits or suppressed after being introduced by the New York City members at the instance of organizations of citizens insisting upon needed reforms.

The reply of Chairman Merritt to the City Club indicated that the original letter the club received, asking if it had any "fire insurance" grievances to offer the committee, was a stock circular sent to all business associations. It was charged at Albany at the time the resolution calling for the investigating committee was passed that it was so worded by the Wadsworth machine in the Assembly that its real intent was to divert public attention from the demand to trace crooked legislation to its sources by offering further fire insurance exposures.

The committee's sessions, which have so far been leisurely conducted, with four hours of work a day for two days a week and a two hours' meeting on a third day, have been preparatory to taking up the fire insurance matter and have dealt exclusively with the street railroad situation.

The City Club's letter to Chairman Merritt charged that many up-State legislators had been overactive in introducing legislation affecting only New York City, and evidence already brought out has been to the same effect. Chairman Merritt, in his reply, makes an issue of fact by declaring that practically all the legislation affecting the city originates among its own lawmakers. His letter says:

Sept. 14. 1910.

Robert S. Binkerd, Secretary City Club of New York, 55 West Forty-fourth Street, New York City:

Dear Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of Sept. 12, 1910.

My letter of the 7th inst., to which you refer, was prepared by Prof. Whitney especially for business associations and Chambers of Commerce in New York City and elsewhere throughout the State, but it seemed a proper letter to send to your club, composed, as it is, largely of the taxpayers of the City of New York.

To what extent the labors of the committee will cover the subject of fire insurance abuses can only appear as the hearings continue and the subject is developed. The letter to which you refer means that a sufficient amount of time of the committee will be devoted to the subject of fire insurance so that legislation may be prepared rectifying any abuses which may be disclosed, to the end that the taxpayers of the city and State may be afforded relief.

It may be noted that practically all the legislation proposed affecting the interests of the City of New York is introduced in Albany by representatives from the New York districts. This is particularly true in recent years, and for a long time it has been the custom for the City Government to have at Albany a representative from the Corporation Counsel's office, who has appeared before committees and expressed the views of the City Government on all sorts of legislative proposals affecting the city's interests, or the interests of the citizens and taxpayers of the city, and, I may add, great weight has been given to this formally expressed opinion of the representative of the Corporation Counsel.

It would assist the committee very much if you would give it such specific information as you may possess indicating corruption in connection with any of the measures which you have mentioned. And such information will, of course, receive prompt attention and consideration from the committee and its counsel.

At present the committee is devoting its time, as you doubtless are aware, to the consideration of the specified subject mentioned in the resolution, a copy of which is herewith inclosed. These require a large amount of time and attention, both of the counsel and of the committee. Very truly yours, EDWIN A. MERRITT, Jr.

The next session of the committee will be held to-morrow morning, when it is expected that Congressman Malby will be heard from in regard to a credit of $500 made to his account with the brokerage firm of Ellingwood & Cunningham at a time when traction funds were being split up among legislators through that particular brokerage house. The committee expects to hear from Congressman Malby voluntarily, and for that reason has not subpoenaed him.

GLAZIERS ASK UNION SHOP.

More Than 800 Go Out for More Pay and Less Work.

The first general strike of glaziers in this city in many years began yesterday in many shops and on eighty-five buildings. A union agreement, $3 a day, or $16.50 a week with a Saturday half-holiday, and an eight-hour workday, are demanded. The strikers, whose headquarters is at Clinton Hall, 151 Clinton Street, are known as the Sheet and Plate Glass Glaziers' Union, and it is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, the Central Federated Union, and the New York Building Trades Council.

More than 800 union glaziers went on strike. Committees of the unions will ask the New York Building Trades Council to-day to order sympathetic strikes of all trades where non-union glaziers are employed.

President M. Evert of the Glaziers' Union said that the present wages run from $12 to $15 a week, and that they work from fourteen to fifteen hours a day.

Among the buildings affected by the strike are a twenty-one-story building at Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second Street, a twenty-two-story building at Seventeenth Street and Fourth Avenue, an eleven-story apartment house at 111th Street and Riverside Drive, and the Whitehall Building, near South Ferry.

WOMAN'S PISTOL NEAR BODY.

Still Seek Evidence Against Mrs. Dodge in Vermont Murder Case.

LUNENBURG, Vt., Sept. 19.—The State authorities continue actively their search for additional evidence in the case against Mrs. J. Marshall Dodge, a well-to-do widow, who will have a hearing to-morrow on the charge of being concerned in the murder of William Heath, a Dalton, N. H., painter. There was no hearing to-day, Attorney General Sargent being unable to reach here before night.

It has been learned that the hasty autopsy of yesterday, which showed that Heath was shot in the back and could not have committed suicide, was confirmed by the medical referee to-day. The authorities also found Mrs. Dodge's revolver near the body, with three exploded cartridges.

Mrs. Dodge to-day reiterated her denial that she knew anything of the shooting or that she had had any quarrel with Heath.

It is alleged that Mrs. Dodge and Heath had had difficulties on other occasions, and that although she hired him to do some painting she did not want him about the house after the work was completed.

Mrs. Dodge is well known in Caledonia County, being well-to-do and of considerable social prominence. Harlan B. Howe of St. Johnsbury will represent her. She has not been placed in jail, but is allowed to stay in her own home under the guard of a couple of Deputy Sheriffs.

TWO DEAD IN AUTO SMASH.

Owner Gives Four Friends a Ride in New Car and Loses Control.

EASTON, Penn., Sept. 19.—Two are dead as the result of an automobile accident late last night on the road between Nazareth, Penn., and this city. John Fry was taking a party of four friends for a ride in his new car, and when he reached a stretch of good road he put on speed. Fry lost control and the car smashed into a telephone pole.

The party was thrown out and Miss Ruth Seiple of Bangor, Penn., was instantly killed. William Walker, also of Bangor, was brought to a hospital here with both legs broken and suffering from internal injuries. He died to-day. Two other girls in the car and Fry were painfully hurt.

TWO SLAIN FROM AMBUSH.

Sequel to Previous Killing in Tennessee Feud—Six Suspects Jailed.

HUNTSVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 19.—Edward Sherrod and J. F. Hewitt were shot to death from ambush at Cook's camp, twenty miles north of here on Sunday. Pending investigation John Bunch and his son, Joe Low, Jack Low, and Jack Bradley are in jail.

The shooting is supposed to be a sequel to the killing of Riley Low three months ago, supposedly by Hewitt.

The Cuban Territorial Bank.

HAVANA, Sept. 19.—President Gomez to-day signed a decree awarding the concession to establish a territorial bank in Cuba to the Banco Español de Habana. Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Diaz de Villegas has been appointed President of the new bank.

Coney Island Lines Cut Off.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company discontinued its Summer service on the surface lines to Coney Island yesterday, except on the Reid Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street ferry lines. The Reid Avenue line to Coney Island will be continued all Winter. The lines cut off yesterday were the Nostrand-Culver, Tompkins-Culver, Vanderbilt and Ninth Avenue, and Union Street. This service, however, will be operated on Sundays when the weather is fine.

SAYS CONEY ISLAND LID WAS LIFTED HIGH

Witness Tells of Visits to Many Resorts at the Trial of ex-Inspector O'Brien.

PLACE WAS WIDE OPEN

Many Proprietors Told Him They "Stood Right" with the Police and Did Not Fear Trouble.

The story of just how high the lid was lifted at Coney Island in the Summer, while ex-Inspector John J. O'Brien was in command of the police of that district, began yesterday before Deputy Commissioner Walsh at Police Headquarters, when the deposed O'Brien faced charges of allowing vice to run riot at the famous resort.

And judging by the recital of one of Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick's investigators, who, with others from that office, paid many visits to the island, the place was "wide open" during the hours at least of the mornings in which the investigators were prowling around.

The more serious charges which former Inspector O'Brien faced were "neglect of duty, violation of department rules, disobedience of orders, conduct unbecoming an officer, and injurious to public peace and welfare, and of inefficiency." But when the witness was reciting the story of his investigations, which reflected greatly upon the police, Capt. O'Brien toyed calmly with his silver eyeglass case and appeared to take little interest in the tale.

The witness said the proprietor of one disorderly place unlicensed and open after midnight, told him she had "a pull with the Captain," and was not afraid to sell liquor. Still the former Inspector toyed with his eyeglass case and remained calm.

Capt. O'Brien's lawyer, George W. Morgan, formerly State Supervisor of Elections and later an Assistant District Attorney, was constantly on his feet, interposing objections, fighting every foot. Most of his fight was aimed at the direct examination by Assistant Corporation Counsel Stover. He protested that the charges against Capt. O'Brien were not explicit, and was allowed to withdraw the plea of not guilty, entered by Capt. O'Brien last Monday during his absence. A plea will be entered later.

Morgan objected to the presence of Stover on the ground that the case had been referred to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion and that Stover's representing the prosecution would be prejudicial. His objection was overruled, as also was his request for an adjournment.

"If a scapegoat is wanted, why take a man with an unblemished reputation?" he asked, after explaining that Capt. O'Brien had been in the department twenty years and never had been accused of anything more serious than smoking on post.

He added that it would have been impossible for the former Inspector to have obtained evidence against the places named in the charges with his inadequate force of men.

But, in spite of objections, the trial went on.

Five Inspectors from the Commissioner of Accounts's office visited the resorts under orders from Acting Mayor Mitchel. One said they bought wine with a lavish purse. The five were Eugene Shepard, Julian I. Marks, William H. Keys, Claude Wanzer, and Bernard Fitzpatrick.

Shepard, the first witness, had not finished his recital when the hearing was adjourned. Shepard was accompanied by Claude Wanzer, and they spent many nights at Coney Island between the last of July and Aug. 28.

They visited "Diamond Tony's" place on the morning of Sunday, Aug. 14, said Shepard. There was a stage and a piano. "I guess I ordered forty drinks for myself in Tony's place," he said. Mr. Morgan wanted to know whether he made his memoranda before or after drinking them. Shepard explained he merely had tasted each, then threw it away.

Miss May's place on Thompson's Walk Shepard and his fellow-investigator visited the same morning. It cost him $2 a round for gin rickeys, he said.

"I asked 'Miss May' how she was able to sell liquor without a license," said Shepard, "and she replied, 'Oh, I stand right with the Captain. Every new Captain who comes here is hungrier than the last.'".

Another place visited by Shepard and Wanzer was Connor's Imperial Music Hall, which they reached early in the morning of Aug. 18, but Shepard could not remember what took place there without referring to his affidavit. Morgan objected to his looking at the affidavit, but when Shepard said he had visited nearly 500 places, Deputy Commissioner Walsh allowed him to see it.

Many girls were in Connor's place, Shepard said. All wore skirts only to their knees. Shepard said he went into a small room with one girl, and she asked him to buy wine. His bill was $3.75. Shepard said the bottle contained champagne cider. Beer cost 25 cents a bottle at most places, he said.

"On Aug. 19 we were pulled into the 'Old Homestead,'" said Shepard. "It was on a dark street, and a man grabbed me by the arm and begged me to enter. 'I'm open all the time,' he told me, and added, 'I've got a pull and don't have to close. Come on in.'".

Shepard said a piano was being played inside and there were many girls. He ordered a gin rickey and gave the waiter a $10 bill. He added:

"The waiter short-changed me, and when I called his attention to it he accused me of being intoxicated.

"'You give me another dollar or there'll be trouble,' I told him, and, after an argument, the waiter did so."

RESORT PROPRIETORS HELD.

17 Coney Islanders Must Stand Trial—More Indictments Expected.

Seventeen proprietors of Coney Island resorts appeared before Judge Fawcett in the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday and pleaded not guilty to indictments charging them with violations of the law. Each was held in $1,000 bail for trial.

This was the result of the Grand Jury's probe into conditions at Coney Island. The jury's work is not finished. It was said the entire Coney Island situation will be gone over thoroughly, and more indictments are expected.

Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner Louis H. Reynolds of Brooklyn was a witness before the Grand Jury yesterday. It is believed that he submitted a report of his men made on Coney Island conditions.

LORIMER SENATE INQUIRY.

Committee of Upper House to Begin Investigations To-day.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Senator Weldon B. Heyburn of Idaho, one of the Republican members of the Senatorial Committee which is to investigate the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois, was the first member of the committee to arrive to-day. The committee sessions are scheduled to begin to-morrow, and Chairman Julius C. Burrows, Senator from Michigan, is expected to arrive to-night with others of the committee.

The resolution under which the committee of Senators is to act grants greater powers of investigation than would obtain in a criminal trial. The committee is empowered to summon witnesses and administer oaths, and is also in a position to punish for contempt any witness who neglects to obey a summons. Testimony which would not be admissible in a court can be placed before the committee, which is to consider all the facts relative to the election of Senator Lorimer.

The resolution introduced in the Senate last June under which the committee is to act specifically directed the investigators to "report to the Senate whether in the election of William Lorimer as a Senator of the United States from the State of Illinois there were used or employed corrupt methods or practices."

It is expected that many of the State legislators who voted to elect Lorimer will be summoned as witnesses, particularly those against whom formal charges of bribery and conspiracy have been made. The first session will probably be executive, to map out the programme of the hearings, which will be public when witnesses are examined. The sessions are expected to continue for a fortnight.

INFANT PARALYSIS IN FOWLS?

Washington Dealers So Ascribe Recent Poultry Deaths—Doctor Investigates.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Are fowls subject to infantile paralysis? Poultry fanciers in this vicinity are said to hold an affirmative view, and the deaths of many chickens and ducks that have occurred recently are ascribed to the disease. The symptoms shown are said to be different from any heretofore observed among ailing poultry, but are strikingly suggestive of those shown by children afflicted with paralysis. The disease among the fowls, whatever it may be, has become epidemic.

Dr. E. C. Schroeder, in charge of the experimental station of the Bureau of Animal Industry, has made an examination of two of the fowls to ascertain if infantile paralysis was the cause of their death.

"I am not at all certain," said Dr. Schroeder, "that the fowls were afflicted with infantile paralysis, but, if such is the case, some means should be taken at once to stop the spread of the disease. If the fowls are affected, it would no doubt be quite possible for them to communicate the disease to human beings."

Kills Woman and Himself.

ABBEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 19.—B. Manass shot and killed Mrs. Cole H. Williams, wife of former Mayor Williams, to-day because he believed she had interfered to prevent the success of his suit for the hand of her sister, Mrs. Eugene Royal, a widow. The latter saw the shooting. As Mrs. Williams expired Manass turned his revolver upon Mrs. Royal, wounding her in the hip, and then killed himself.

HIS SAVINGS STOLEN AT SEA.

Boy Appeals to Court, but Gets No Assistance.

In an effort to get help in recovering $650, which was stolen from him while aboard a steamship coming to this country last week, Max Mortreich, 17 years old, a Russian whose home was in Warsaw, appeared in the Essex Market Court yesterday. As the money was stolen when the vessel was 600 miles from this shore Magistrate Krotel said he could do nothing, and the foreigner started for Ellis Island in the hope of getting some assistance from the immigration authorities.

Mortreich was traveling second class on board the President Grant and had the money sewed in the right shoulder of his coat. On the steamer was an affable young man with whom he shared his stateroom. The lump on his shoulder was so noticeable that the passengers called him a "walking bank." One day he missed the money and discovered that a hole had been cut in the sleeve. On his arrival at Ellis Island, Mortreich obtained the address to which his roommate had sent a telegram and when he learned this he went to court.

The Smartest, Handsomest and Dressiest $35 New Fall Tailormade Suits of the Season at $25

WE MADE arrangements for these suits last July before the sharp advance in fabrics and labor; chose this model from a complete exposition of some twenty new Fall styles; knew at a glance that with a slight change here and there necessary to preserve the GREENHUT type of exclusiveness we could present for your approval not only the smartest style, but the best value of the season.

Conditions are such, however, that we will only be able to procure one hundred of these suits for today's selling.

It is a special offer that will convince New York's "best" women that the Greenhut method is a reality—that we do strive for higher standards of fashion and workmanship, that we do hold closely to a policy of betterness, that we do go into every process of making beautiful things to wear with scrupulous and exacting care, that we do adhere rigidly to the purpose first laid down as the first principle of this store—High Qualities and Moderate Prices!

We say to you in all frankness that we could not go out in any market in Ameriea and duplicate these suits to sell at this price again—so the special resolves itself down to a one-day offering.

Special at $25.00

Man-tailored Suits—coat 32 inches long, single breasted, buttoning through with handsome buttons, collar, cuffs and bottom of coat are trimmed with a broad silk Hercules braid, finished with small buttons and loops of soutache braid; lined with guaranteed Skinner's satin. NEW PLAN TO START WELLMAN AIRSHIP

Small Motor Used to Replace Men Usually Needed to Set Engine Going.

PREPARED FOR TEN-DAY TRIP

Engineer Vanaman Is Now Ready to Give the America a Test Before Setting Out on Transatlantic Trip.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 19.—Engineer Melvin Vanaman, who, with Walter A. Wellman, is supervising the work of preparing the airship America for her voyage across the Atlantic Ocean, and from which wireless messages will be sent to THE NEW YORK TIMES, The Chicago Record-Herald, and the London Daily Telegraph, has devised a new scheme for his ship which will act in the double capacity of storage tanks for an extra supply of gasoline and an equilibriator. He has had built thirty tanks, each three feet long, and when filled with gasoline will weigh about ninety pounds each.

The tanks are concave at one end and convex at the other. In the concaved end of each there is a recess, into which will be fitted the clamp that will fasten the tainks to a cable, which will pass longitudinally through its centre. At the convex end of the tank, which will fit into the concaved end of the next tanak to it, is a funnel-shaped opening that will permit of play room for the cable, so that when all are placed in line and dropped into the ocean there will be a flexibility that will prevent the cutting of the cable by the action of the waves as soon as it comes in contact with the waves. This cable will be of manila rope instead of steel, as at first planned.

At the lower end of this line of tanks there will be forty blocks of wood, each of which has been turned with one end concave and the other end convex, the same as the steel tanks, so that they will fit into each other. They will be fastened to the same cable by steel clamps and in such a way that they will always maintain a flexibility and prevent cutting the cable.

Unlike the tanks, the blocks vary in size. The largest is ten inches in diameter and the smallest four inches. The large blocks will be fitted next to the steel tanks, so that when the airship lifts the line from the water the smaller blocks will make the least resistance as they drag along.

How They Will Start It.

In the old airship it was necessary to have three men to start the propellers. This was something that had to be overcome, for there will not be much chance of anybody getting out on the ocean and starting propellers in case anything happens to the airship. To overcome this Mr. Vanaman has installed a small motor of sufficient power to start the big engine and its machinery.

For the operation of the propellers all that has to be done is to start the small motor, throw in a clutch, and the propellers are started. Then the engineer can fire his big engines. When this is done the starting gear operated by the smaller engine is thrown out automatically, thus avoiding any strain on either piece of machinery, and getting the start without the shock that must of necessity occur under any other circumstances.

The ship will be lighted by electricity supplied by a special dynamo that will charge the accumulator. There will be eight lamps of twelve candle power each, of the mazda variety, in addition to the light beneath the compass.

Mr. Vanaman has just had placed in the car of the airship new steel bracing stays, washed in copper, that have been tested to a strength of 220,000 pounds to the square inch. The car is a network of steel tubing and steel wire braces. There are in all forty steel tube braces, and at the end of each there are two steel wires that run at angles to the body of the car itself, or the big tank beneath the deck. These wires have a lifting capacity of nearly 200 tons, while the actual weight they will have to carry will be only about eight and one-half tons.

Enough Fuel for Ten Days.

Mr. Vanaman has not, therefore, taken any chances of risk because of a weakness in any part of his apparatus. The hull of the car is hollow steel, and in it will be stored gasoline for fuel purposes. This has a capacity of 1,200 gallons, and that, combined with the extra supply which will be stored in the tanks of the equilibrator, will be more than sufficient to last for the entire trip, even if a week and a half should be consumed in the journey.

The aviators are not going to take any chances of getting wrecked in midocean with nothing more stable than a balloon to depend upon, so they will carry a lifeboat, specially constructed for them. It contains two water-tight compartments, one on either side of the cockpit. One will be used for storing provisions and sleeping quarters in event of the aviators being obliged to resort to its use. And the other will contain the storage batteries for electric lights and the Marconi wireless installation. When these compartments are closed the boat will be practically unsinkable.

The cockpit is six feet by six feet and three feet three inches deep. It is fitted with a self-bailing apparatus, and there is a sliding hood, which may be pulled over it to keep out storms and cold. The boat is twenty-seven feet long, and has a beam of six feet. It is built of three thicknesses of mahogany, each layer laid at different angles. Each layer has a lining of specially prepared canvas glued and sewed to the wood by a special process with copper wire, and is therefore almost unbreakable.

Rope Displaces Steel Cable.

It was at the suggestion of the navigator, E. Murray Simon, former junior officer of the steamship Oceanic, that the six-ton steel cable for the equilibrator has been replaced by a five-ton manila rope.

A constructing engineer from Kansas City visited the airship to-day, and in going over the apparatus expressed an opinion that the bolts which fastened the propellers to the shafts did not appear to him strong enough, so Mr. Vanaman at once obtained others to take their place that would conform to the ideas of the engineer.

Asked whether or not any provision would have to be made to supply extra gas for the balloon on the voyage, Mr. Vanaman answered in the negative. He said the deterioration would be very small, and would be more than counterbalanced by the fact that the consumption of gasoline for fuel would be five times greater than the deterioration of the lifting gases.

Mr. Vanaman said that he expected to have the car completed early in the morning and by to-morrow night, if nothing interfered, he would have all the braces in place and the car fastened to the big gas bag. As soon as that is accomplished he will swing the car into the air by the force of the balloon. He said he could not tell just when a trial of the ship would be made. It will depend entirely upon the weather, but he hopes it will be the latter part of this week.

FAIL TO FLY ACROSS ALPS.

Weymann and Chavez Encounter Very Strong Currents—To Try Again.

BRIG, Switzerland, Sept. 19.—Though the weather was unpropitious, Weymann, the American, and George Chavez, the Peruvian, attempted cross-Alpine aeroplane flights to-day. Both failed, but not until they had given pretty exhibitions of high flying that promised better success in fair weather.

During the night a stiff breeze was blowing over the Simplon Pass and the mountain peaks were hidden in a dense fog. There seemed little prospect that the competition would begin to-day. However, at daylight the wind had gone down and, though it was still cloudy, Chavez and Weymann each decided to risk a flight.

They got away with encouraging cries from an enormous crowd, which, disappointed yesterday, had feared that the bad weather would compel another postponement to-day.

Weymann, who started a few moments after Chavez was on his way, remained in the air only eight minutes. He ascended to an altitude of about 1,700 feet, where he encountered a baffling wind. In landing at the bottom of the Rhone Valley he bent a wheel of his biplane.

Chavez explained that he had reached an altitude which he believed to be about 6,500 feet when he was caught in a violent wind. He observed that the summit of the Simplon Pass was obscured by heavy clouds, and decided to return rather than chance landing further on among the rocks.

Later an official examination of his barometer showed that Chavez attained a height of 7,546 feet. This is within 863 feet of the Peruvian's world's altitude record. Relating his experience, Chavez said:

"My motor was running perfectly and I was 650 feet above the summit of the Simplon Pass when the wind forced me to return. Never before had I encountered such air currents. My machine was caught in swirling eddies and bobbed like a cork in a torrent, almost throwing me from my seat."

The wind blew strong throughout the day, preventing any further attempt at making the flight.

The other aviators who propose to try for the cross-Alpine prize are Cattaneo and Paillette. Weymann uses a biplane and the others use monoplanes. The terms of the competition provide that the flight may be made at any time between to-day and Sept. 26. The start must be near this point, at the head of the Rhone Valley, and the aviators must fly over the Simplon Pass and down across Lake Maggiore to Milan. To clear the Simplon Pass it will be necessary for the aviators to maintain an altitude of some 7,000 feet during the first half hour of the flight. The total distance to be covered is seventy-five miles, and smoking fires and other signals will point the way.

HAMILTON PLANS FLIGHT.

Says He Will Go from Sacramento to San Francisco in a Few Days.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Charles K. Hamilton was here to-day, and, though he has to walk with care, he declares that he is in good shape. His jaw was fractured and his legs were bruised by the fall at Sacramento on Sept. 9, when the guiding planes of his aeroplane failed to work and he dropped eighty feet.

Hamilton says that within ten days he will make a flight from Sacramento to this city—ninety-two miles in an air line—in 1 hour and 30 minutes for a purse of $10,000, which has been arranged for. He returned to Sacramento this afternoon after concluding the negotiations.

"I will fly over San Francisco within the next ten days," said Hamilton. "My machine is ready, and in spite of my fall I will be fit for the trip. The Hamilton biplane, with which I will make the flight, is equipped with 115 horse power. The trip will be made along the railroad tracks and then across the bay and over the city. The conditions in California are ideal for flying, and there is no obstacle in the bay winds.

"I have inspected the course and consider it highly satisfactory."

WILLARD'S PLANS FOR CHICAGO RACE

Aviator Says Four or Five Days' Good Flying Weather Will See Several Fliers Finish.

WILL INSPECT PART OF ROUTE

Long Flights by Curtiss and Hamilton Prove Trip Possible—Has New Speed Marvel.

Charles F. Willard, who has made formal entry in the Chicago to New York aeroplane race of THE NEW YORK TIMES and The Chicago Post, was in New York yesterday on his way from New England to Olean, N. Y., where he will give a series of exhibition flights with his Curtiss machine, beginning to-morrow. At the close of this engagement he will go over a part of the Chicago-New York course, with which he is unfamiliar. In speaking of the race, he said:

"The progress of the past two years in aviation has eclipsed the most optimistic dreams of those familiar with the art two years ago. Aviators have done and are doing things which at that time it was believed would belong to a period about ten years from now, and this is because of the encouragement that has been given the fliers by spirited newspapers and others.

"It was only a year ago that the flight from Albany to New York was looked upon as an impossibility, and the general opinion was that the prize put up for it was perfectly safe for some time to come. The flight was made by Mr. Curtiss, who was induced to undertake it because of the generous returns for the effort. Soon afterward there came THE NEW YORK TIMES flight from New York to Philadelphia and return, made by C. K. Hamilton in a day, on schedule time. Here the enterprise and generosity of THE TIMES made possible one of the greatest accomplishments in the history of aviation.

"It is natural that the next prizes offered should be for even greater accomplishments, and the amount of the prize offered by THE NEW YORK TIMES and The Chicago Evening Post for the Chicago to New York race is in itself an incentive for every aviator entered to do his best. But besides the money end of it, the man who finishes the trip first, or who nearly finishes it, if weather or accident prevents reaching the destination, will have to his credit a cross-country record that has never been approached on either side of the Atlantic. The aeroplane must surely develop into a cross-country carrier, and such events as this have their greatest value in developing the machines along this line, as they point out the weakness in design and construction which must be corrected before the perfect machine is constructed.

"My first cross-country flying experience was almost my first flying experience of any kind. I had barely learned to handle a machine when I went up for a twelve-mile trip over Long Island more than a year ago, and I have been interested in the traveling possibilities of the machines ever since. The machine I have now is especially suited to this kind of work, as it spreads more surface than any other machine Mr. Curtiss has built, and, while the controls are a little hard to handle in rough weather on account of my small weight, the machine is much more stable than the smaller model I had been flying, and I ought to be able to get as far as anybody. For a big flyer my machine shows a surprising amount of speed, too, and that has to be considered in this event.

"I haven't been over the course that has been mapped out as yet, but some of those who have tell me that it is mostly over fine flying ground. The weather, of course, you can't tell much about, although I understand that from the indications of the records of past years we ought to get four or five good days of flying out of the seven in the time limit. If we can do that and can cover an average day's distance each day, several of us ought to finish in good shape.

"The dangers of cross-country flying are still to be considered, and they do not all lie within the machine or the man. I found that out a few months ago, when I was flying across country from Joplin, Mo. I had not gone more than half a dozen miles from the field when somebody, I never found out who, thought it would be fun to see if he could pot an aeroplane, and shot at me with a rifle. The bullet was a fraction of a second too slow to hit me, but it went through my propeller right behind my seat, and I was forced to come down rather suddenly. I had heard of crazy people shooting at balloons in the big races, but I guess I am the first man ever shot at in an aeroplane. It would not take many cranks armed with rifles to chop off the big race quick, and I don't want to be used as a target again. Still, I guess precautions will be taken, and there is not much chance that any of the fellows will run up against a thing like that.

"I know that in this race I shall be up against fast company, and it will take some flying to win, even with all conditions favorable. I think, too, that the fellow who takes the prize can be safely picked as the best man of the field without doing very much guessing."

FRENCH AVIATORS COMING.

Morane, De Lesseps, Aubrun, and Simon to Compete at Belmont Park.

At least six of the leading French aviators will take part in the international aviation tournament at Belmont Park, Oct. 22 to 30. This list was completed yesterday, when Courtland Field Bishop, President of the Aero Club of America, sent the following cablegram to the managers of the international meet:

> Morane, Count De Lesseps, Aubrun, and Simon, engaged to-day. Place names on official entry list.

As Hubert Latham and Alfred Le Blanc have already been officially nominated for the international team, this gives France one of the strongest representations of any nation in the tournament. The cablegram does not make plain whether or not Morane will be on the international team. It is possible that he is coming to take part only in the general programme of the tournament.

Architects were at work yesterday on plans for constructing boxes on the roof of the grand stand at Belmont Park to be used during the tournament. The space surmounting the grand stand will not be turned into a roof garden, but will be remodeled so that the spectators may have comfortable seats there and see all that the aviators are doing.

With the assurance of the attendance of such daredevil fliers as Hubert Latham, Leon Morane, Jan Olieslagers, J. Armstrong Drexel, and others of their type, it is certain some very startling feats will be performed at Belmont Park, and many of these feats will not take place very close to the ground.

While it is stipulated in the regulations of the tournament that aviators must not fly over the heads of the crowds, it is pretty certain that the star fliers from both sides of the Atlantic, with their high-power machines, will go darting about as they please, and these will be the most thrilling features of the show, just as they have been at all the big meetings in this country and abroad.

Louis Paulhan's defiance of the rules at Los Angeles last Winter, and his wild flying over the grand stand and crowds were the features that set the crowds wild with delight. Grahame-White's jaunty antics at Boston drew and kept the crowds there. Charles K. Hamilton's marvelous dives over the heads of the spectators have given him an international reputation, and the skillful Europeans who are coming over with their machines are planning to give America greater thrills than have ever been experienced here before.

Plans are being made to provide seating space on the roof of the grand stand, where an unobstructed view may be had of all that the airmen do. Space can be provided there for about 1,000 persons, and these seats will be among the choicest to be had.

Even with the addition of an extra 500 boxes built out on the lawn in front of the grand stand itself, it is evident that the seating spaces will not be sufficient to meet the demand. Requests for reservations are increasing daily, and it now seems assured that every available box and reserved seat will be disposed of before the opening of the tournament.

Many Americans now abroad in Europe have sent their orders by cable. It was one of these cable orders that suggested the use of the grand stand. This New Yorker, reading in Paris of the international show to be held at Belmont Park, sent the fallowing cable to the tournament headquarters:

> Reserve one box for aviation meet. Want it on the roof. These Frenchmen will fly to the moon.

J. C. McCoy, Chairman of the Aviation Committee, said that announcement of the official list of entries would be made in a few days. He said that the committee was now contemplating closing the entry list on Oct. 10, as they were now sure of all the aviators they desired.

"The international tournament will come pretty near having an 'all star cast,'" said Mr. McCoy. "And there is no doubt it will be the greatest exhibition of flying ever seen in the world. Aside from those on the International Trophy team, several of the best aviators of Europe have entered for the tournament.

"The Europeans are really anxious to come over here. They intend to show us some great flying. There is no question about their doing it. Besides, the big cash prizes that we are offering are something of an inducement, no doubt.

NO AEROPLANE FOR VANDERBILT

He Denies Report That He Has Purchased a Bleriot Racer.

The report that William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., would take up aviation and that he had purchased a Blériot monoplane, which would be entered for the international aviation trophy at Belmont Park next month, is without foundation. Mr. Vanderbilt yesterday denied the report in this letter:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been called to newspaper items to the effect that a Mr. Dupre has returned from abroad having ordered built for me a Bleriot monoplane. In order to prevent any misuse of my name in this connection I feel that I should deny this statement. I do not know Mr. Dupre and have not bought or ordered built a monoplane or any other type of flying machine.

TO TRY FOR SPEED RECORD.

Grahame-White Will Attempt to Beat Morane's Performance.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Claude Grahame-White and his manager, Sydney McDonald, will leave here to-morrow morning for New York to consult with the managers of the international aero meet at Belmont Park, next Monday, the next event in which Grahame-White will take part after his exhibition at the Harvard aviation field in Atlantic next Saturday afternoon. Mr. Grahame-White spent most of to-day making preparations for his flights of Saturday, and he has arranged what will be in many respects probably the most remarkable exhibition of aviation seen in this country.

When seen this evening Mr. Grahame-White was not prepared to give out the full details of his Saturday programme, but he told enough to give an idea of what he intends to do. He was particularly interested in the world record flight made by the French aviator, Morane, in his Blériot monoplane, in which he attained a speed of 70 miles an hour.

Grahame-White declares that his present machine, the monoplane in which he made the flight to Boston Light, is capable of a speed of seventy-five miles an hour, and he intends on his return from New York to strip the machine of all superfluous weight and endeavor to get it into condition to break Morane's record. This flight will be on the aviation grounds oevr the short course, so that it will be in full view of those within the inclosure. In fact, all the flights on Saturday will be directly over the field.

One of the most interesting will be an endeavor to show how close the aviator can come to the ground, without touching, at great speed. To make this all the more interesting it is Mr. Grahame-White's intention to place on the ground rows of ninepins a certain distance apart, sweep over the field, and knock these down without touching the ground.

AVIATORS TO BE DECORATED.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Gen. Brun, the Minister of War, announces that the aeronauts who took part in the army manoeuvres will receive special recompenses for their services.

Those on the active list will be promoted, while the reservists, Latham and Breguet, will receive the decoration of the Legion of Honor.

A Blade Lasts For Months

Did you know that one AutoStrop blade often lasts six months to a year? Enthusiastic AutoStroppers write us that they get 151, 300—even 600 shaves from one blade.

Nothing unusual about it, as any fine razor blade expertly stropped will shave for six months or a year.

You don't remove the blade to sharpen or clean. Automatically strops itself. No other razor does this.

CONSTIPATION

TELLS OF JEALOUSY OF THE LENEVE GIRL

Landlady, at Inquest, Says She Was in a Terrifying State of Agitation.

EXPERT MODIFIES EVIDENCE

Prof. Pepper Now Asserts There Is a Strong Presumption That the Remains Found Are Those of a Woman.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Something of what Ethel Clara Leneve suffered as, half mad with jealousy, she impatiently waited the fulfillment of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen's promise to make her his wife, was revealed at to-day's session of the inquest on the human remains found in the cellar of Crippen's house in Hilldrop Crescent.

In her distress Miss Leneve confided in her landlady, Mrs. Jackson, and the story that the latter told on the witness stand rivaled the most sensational evidence introduced at the murder hearing.

Mrs. Jackson said that the girl on March 12 gave up the room which she had occupied at the home of the witness, explaining that she was leaving to be married to Dr. Crippen.

Until the first week in February Miss Leneve had slept regularly at Mrs. Jackson's. After that she stopped at the house only occasionally. She said she spent the other nights at the homes of friends. On one occasion Miss Leneve mentioned having been at the Hilldrop Crescent home early in February, in order to help the doctor in a search for a bankbook which showed an account of $1,000. She added that a diamond tiara and rings had been found in the house, and that the doctor had raised $850 on them.

About the middle of February, the witness said, Miss Leneve appeared most miserable and depressed. Such was her state that Mrs. Jackson followed the girl to her room to learn, if possible, the source of her trouble. Miss Leneve, the witness said, was in a terrifying state of agitation. Her eyes seemed fairly starting out of her head. The landlady insisted upon an explanation, telling the girl that she must have something awful on her mind to be in such a condition. The witness testified that the other replied:

"Would you be surprised if I told you that it was the doctor and Miss Elmore? He was the cause of my trouble when you first knew me. She is his wife, and when I see them go away together it makes me realize my position, what she is and what I am."

Mrs. Jackson asked: "What is the use of your worrying about another woman's husband?"

To this Miss Leneve answered: "Miss Elmore has been threatening to go away with another man. Dr. Crippen has been waiting for her to do so, when he would divorce her."

Arthur Newton, the solicitor who is looking out for the interests of Crippen and Miss Leneve, closely cross-examined Mrs. Jackson, suggesting that her lodger's excitement was due to the landlady having resurrected a trouble which the girl experienced in the course of her earlier association with Crippen, but the witness maintained the correctness of her evidence as given.

Prof. Pepper repeated the testimony which he had given at the hearing in the Bow Street Court. In response to questions by the Coroner, he said:

"I can form no definite opinion as to whether the parts found were those of a male or a female. There is a suggestion that they were from the body of a female. I have formed a very strong opinion. If I take the hair discovered into consideration, there is a strong presumption, almost conclusive evidence, that the parts were those of a woman."

Drs. Marshall and Willcox, who also examined the human parts, were called, but neither added anything to the testimony which he had given in court.

Mr. Newton notified the Coroner that he would not introduce any witnesses before the Coroner's court on behalf of Crippen or Miss Leneve.

Inspector Dew, who arrested Crippen and Miss Leneve in Canada after they had given him the slip here, was recalled to-day and testified briefly as to facts already brought out. A juror was very anxious to know why the Scotland Yard man had allowed the doctor to get away once he had fallen under suspicion. Dew responded that he had a perfect answer to the attacks that had been made upon him, and he would like to reply to the question, but the Coroner would not permit him to do so, declaring that the subject of Crippen's flight was outside the scope of the present inquiry.

The inquest was adjourned until Sept. 26.

DAVILA GLAD OF REVOLT.

Bonilla Fiasco Has Helped Him and He Thanks Cabrera for It.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Sept. 19.—"I thank you very much for the revolution you sent to my country."

To this effect President Davila of Honduras wrote to President Cabrera of Guatemala in regard to the failure of the recent Bonilla revolutionary expedition. Cabrera has continuously been the friend of Bonilla, and uncontradicted rumor has named the Guatemalan President as the financial backer of the recent attempt to overturn the Davila Government.

Through a series of mistakes the intended revolt was a fiasco, and Davila became entrenched in power more strongly than ever. So he wrote to the man whom he blamed for the expedition, thanking him for an attempted injury which really made him stronger, according to advices received here to-day.

The British authorities have refused to let Gen. Bonilla or any of his men return to Belize. They hold that all the men who went on the expedition violated the English neutrality laws, and they charge Bonilla with breaking faith. He was permitted to reside in Belize on the understanding that he would embark on no revolutionary enterprise from English territory.

Instead of being entered in the Custom House at Livingston, Guatemala, as was reported, most of the guns and ammunition of the Bonilla party were thrown into the sea. The machine guns and some of the rifles were saved, but these have been spirited away.

MANUEL CREATES 16 PEERS.

Government Hopes to Save Itself—More Monks Expelled.

LISBON, Sept. 19.—It is believed that King Manuel's appointment of sixteen peers, all supporters of the present Liberal Cabinet, will afford sufficient new strength to the Government to avoid the necessity of a dissolution of Parliament and new elections, which, the Republicans declare, would mean a revolution.

Dr. Alpoim, Chief of the Progressive Dissidents, recently told his Majesty that unless he insisted upon the Liberal Government enforcing political and financial reforms the monarchy was doomed and a republic was inevitable.

The Government continues its campaign against the Jesuits and is proceeding with the expulsion of other religious orders which re-entered Portugal after the issue of the decree of 1901, but which are not devoted to the work of charity or teaching as provided in the decree. The newspapers state that the monks are fleeing to the mountains for refuge.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

PORT OF SPAIN, Sept. 19.—The British steamer Arabiana, which went ashore off this port on Saturday, got off the rocks to-day, with the assistance of the Royal Mail steamer Spey, after discharging her forward deckload. It is reported that the Arabiana is leaking in No. 1 hold. Divers are making an examination of the steamer's bottom.

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—Ambassador and Mrs. Hill gave a dinner to-night in honor of the new Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Baron von Kiderlen Wachter, and Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States.

UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE

Opened in Paris—Commissioner Neill Heads American Delegation.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Ex-Premier Bourgeois, in opening the first International Conference on Unemployment to-day, announced that the purpose of the congress was to investigate the scientific causes of unemployment, with the object of organizing methods for conserving human resources. Besides discussing means of combating unemployment, the delegates would attempt to lay the basis for labor exchange between city and country districts and between different countries.

The American delegation is headed by Charles P. Neill, Commissioner of Labor, and his associates are Prof. J. J. Andrews of Chicago, Prof. Edward Devine of Columbia University, and William Leiseron of New York.

The American representatives are watching the proceedings with interest, though they consider that the situation is less acute in America than in Europe. Mr. Leiseron read a paper advocating labor exchanges as the best means of insuring the mobility of the labor product.

Joseph Fels of Philadelphia vainly attempted to interrupt the proceedings in order that he might explain his personal views.

SWINDLER AN EX-DIPLOMAT.

Was Formerly an Attache of the Mexican Embassy at Washington.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—The police have ascertained that the Mexican who swindled a jeweler of Frankfort out of precious stones worth $36,000 at Munich early this month is Civilo Carding, formerly an attaché of the Mexican Embassy at Washington.

Carding was proved guilty of embezzlement while he was in the diplomatic service, which, of course, he had to leave. He next turned up as a waiter in a Paris café, where he made the acquaintance of a man named Becker of San Francisco, who, it is stated, helped him to carry out his Munich swindle.

TAFT CONGRATULATES CHILE.

Sends Telegram to Acting President on Day of Centenary.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—President Taft sent to Señor Figueroa, the Acting President of Chile, the following congratulatory telegram on the occasion of the celebration of the centenary of Chilean independence:

"Upon this, the centenary of your Excellency's great country, I desire to express directly to your Excellency my greatest and most cordial felicitations, adding them to the messages which have already been delivered by the Special Ambassador and delegates of the United States. The Government and people of the United States, reviewing the splendid progress achieved by your Excellency's country, rejoice with Chile on this memorable day.

"I also desire to offer to your Excellency personally the assurances of my high regard and consideration.

PLOT TO KILL ALCORTA.

Leaders of Argentine Radical Party Arrested—President in Chile.

MILAN, Sept. 19.—A telegram from Montevideo announces the arrest at Buenos Ayres of leaders of the Radical Party, who are accused of being implicated in a plot against the life of President Alcorta of Argentina, who is now in Chile attending the centennial celebration of that republic.

The President was in Santiago on Saturday.

DECIDE ON COTTON LOCKOUT.

English Spinners to Stop Work Oct. 1 if Local Dispute Is Not Settled.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 19.—The Federation of Master Cotton Spinners met to-day and decided on a general lockout on Oct. 1 unless the Fern Mill dispute at Oldham is settled before that date.

In the event of a lockout 150,000 operatives will be directly affected.

GRAFT IN MUNICIPAL FERRY.

Fosdick Alleges "Petty Theft" in the Collections and Return Fares.

In a report submitted to Acting Mayor Mitchel yesterday by Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick, the latter declared that, after investigation, he has found that all the fares collected on the Staten Island Municipal Ferry are not being reported, and recommends the preferring of charges against Collectors Markey, McGrath, Gartner, and Nicolino, and Quartermasters Kimball and Thompson "on grounds of incompetency and peculation."

The trouble reported is in the collection of the return fares of persons who board the ferries simply for the ride and do not leave the boats until the trip has been completed. The Commissioner declares that his Inspectors conducted four tests on Aug. 11, 13, and 14, and on Sept. 11. The inspection on Aug. 14 was made openly, with the knowledge of the collectors, but the others were secret, and the Commissioner reports that on these three occasions the fares collected did not compare nearly as favorably with the number collected as on the day the collectors were warned.

The Commissioner recommends that "in view of the apparent lack of control over the collectors and in order to prevent the further continuance of these petty thefts," a new system for making the collection of these return fares be installed immediately.

Washington Sees Significance in the Work of the Special Embassy to Chile.

SPENT SOME TIME IN PERU

Explained That Its Purpose Was to Study Commercial Condition with a View to Trade Extension.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Japan appears to be moving forward steadily in a systematic policy of extending her influence and trade on the eastern shores of the Pacific Ocean.

Advices to the State Department from its officers in Peru are to the effect that the Japanese special embassy which was sent to Chile to take part in the centennial celebration of Chile's independence spent some time in Peru, en route to Santiago, and was received with the greatest cordiality.

The party was headed by the son of Marquis Inouye, late Ambassador to Germany, and it was explained that the purpose in visiting Peru was to study the commercial conditions there, with a view to trade extension. It was thought that with the improved steamship service that has recently been established by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, Japan might in the near future import large quantities of cotton and sugar from Peru.

JAIL AND FINE FOR HEIKE.

Ex-Sugar Trust Official Sentenced to Eight Months and $5,000 Fine.

Eight months in the Blackwell's Island Penitentiary and a fine of $5,000 was the penalty fixed by Judge Martin in the United States Circuit Court yesterday for Charles R. Heike, formerly secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining Company, who was convicted in June of conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with the importation of sugar at the Havemeyer & Elder docks of the Sugar Trust in Williamsburg. Judge Martin granted a stay immediately after he sentenced Heike, and the case will now go to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Heike entered the courtroom yesterday accompanied by his counsel, John B. Stanchfield and George S. Graham, and heard first from Judge Martin that the motions for a new trial and for immunity based on his having been called before the Federal Grand Jury in another proceeding had been denied. The proceeding in which Heike was summoned before the Grand Jury was the investigation of the Sugar Trust itself under the Sherman anti-trust act, which, according to information from Washington, is expected to result in the filing of a bill to dissolve the trust in the near future.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Martin remarked that Heike had only been convicted on one of the six counts in the indictment, and this a general count of conspiracy. He declared that by reason of Heike's age he was somewhat inclined to suspend sentence, but that he believed that in view of the intention of the law as to the exemplary purpose of punishment a prison term ought to be imposed. Judge Martin then imposed the sentence stated above, and announced that he would reduce Heike's bail from $25,000 to $15,000 pending his appeal.

MRS. LEGGETT GETS $51,494.

Referee Appraises Her Dower Rights in the Estate of Francis H. Leggett.

Referee Max J. Kohler, appointed by the Supreme Court to appraise the dower rights of Bessie McLeod Leggett in the estate of Francis H. Leggett, who died on Aug. 28, 1909, awarded her $51,494, in a report filed with the County Clerk yesterday. Mrs. Leggett was born on Jan. 25, 1857, and was 52 years old when her husband died. She was married to Mr. Leggett on Sept. 9, 1895, and her one daughter, Frances H. Leggett, 12 years old, was the sole heir when Mr. Leggett died intestate.

The real estate consisted of several parcels in New York City and farm lands at Stone Ridge, Ulster County, in which the equity of the deceased was in 269 Madison Avenue, $85,000; in 30 Laight Street and 9 Vestry Street, $85,000; in 171-173 West Houston Street, $35,000; in 49 Macdougal Street, $12,000, and in the farm lands, $60,000, making a total of $277,000.

Mrs. Leggett has thirty days in which to accept the award made for her life interest in one-third of her husband's estate. The computation was made on the basis of her expectation of life according to the mortality tables.

ROOSEVELT AND HEARST.

Independence League Leader Thinks They Are Working on Common Ground

Deputy County Clerk Charles E. Gehring, Chairman of the City Committee of the Independence League, the Hearst political organization, discussed the political situation yesterday.

"The Old Guard will defeat Roosevelt for temporary Chairman of the Republican State Convention, according to the best information at my disposal," said Mr. Gehring. "The Old Guard bosses will control that convention, unless I am greatly mistaken. They don't care about party victory in the State this Fall, if it means the end of their control of the party machinery. They are willing to accept defeat and retain control of their bailiwicks.

"The hatred of the Old Guard for Roosevelt is too well known to need any discussion from me. From their utterances I can draw only one conclusion, and that is, if they control the convention, as I believe they will, they will repeat the action of the State committee and strike at Roosevelt as a party leader.

"Roosevelt, in my opinion, will not tamely accept the renewed insult which the Old Guard bosses are prepared to administer. He will have to enter the State campaign. Then arises naturally the question of where he will align himself. I don't believe that he will align himself with the Democratic Party.

"The obstacle which would prevent his aligning himself with the Democratic Party would not debar him, however, from entering the lists as the advovate of the election in this State of an independent ticket.

"An independent State ticket, headed by either Roosevelt or Hearst, and supported by the other, would win in this State this Fall, in my opinion. There are a great many thousands of voters who in the present confusion—knowing only that they would like to rebuke the corrupt bosses in both parties—don't know or have not yet decided where to align themselves.

"The Independence Party has from the very first made its fight against the bosses. Mr. Hearst has welcomed Mr. Roosevelt to this fight. If Mr. Roosevelt should run for Governor, I think—and this is my personal, not my official opinion—that a large element in the Independence Party would welcome him as an independent candidate.

"But Mr. Roosevelt, once having been President, might not care to run for Governor himself. But I think he could very readily be made to appreciate the fact that if an independent campaign against both the Democratic and Republican Parties must be made to defeat the bosses that Mr. Hearst would be the best man to lead that campaign.

"I think the question as to whether Mayor Gaynor would run for Governor largely depends on his health. If he were entirely well he might make the run."

SHERIFF MUST EARN HIS FEES

Judge Schmuck Disallows His Demand for $60, as No Work Had Been Done.

Judge Schmuck, in the City Court, yesterday handed down a decision in which he attacked the right of the Sheriff of New York County, an official who is paid by fees instead of salary, whose profits are said to be $50,000 a year, to tax litigants when he performs no service. The Sheriff, ruled Judge Schmuck, is not entitled to honorariums.

Sheriff Shea, through his counsel, had asked $60 fees in the case of Charles A. Choate against Jacob Rohner. Choate had a $1,400 City Court judgment against Rohner, and filed it with the Sheriff for an attachment. Rohner's attorney staved off the attachment by filing a bond.

Judge Shmuck ruled that the law prescribed a fee of $1 to the Sheriff for levying an attachment, and that only 2¼ per cent. was allowed on amounts under $250 and 1¼ per cent. on amounts above $250. If the Sheriff had levied an attachment in the case he would have been entitled, not to $60, but to $6.23 on $250 and $14.37 on the remainder, or $20.62 in all. Judge Shmuck decided he was entitled to nothing.

In a tart memorandum Judge Schmuck said that the Sheriff, no more than any other person or official, had a right to money for doing nothing.

CHICAGO MINISTER STRICKEN.

The Rev. Mr. Parker Taken Ill on Broadway While Walking with Sister.

The Rev. Alonzo Ketcham Parker, 65 years old, attached to the University of Chicago, was stricken with epilepsy at Broadway and Sixty-fourth Street yesterday. He was removed to the Roosevelt Hospital, where his condition was favorable.

Dr. Parker came to the city yesterday from his Summer home at Roxmore, N. Y., to visit his brother-in-law, W. B. Fox, 296 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn. Early in the afternoon the clergyman and his sister, Mrs. Fox, went for a drive through Central Park, and they were walking down Broadway later when he became ill. A policeman summoned an ambulance, and Dr. Conley took the patient immediately to Roosevelt Hospital.

RELIEF FOR PARCHED HUDSON RIVER TOWNS

Tarrytown Gives a Million Gallons a Day and New York City Will Help.

CRISIS SAID TO BE OVER

Houses Burn, Schools and Factories Close for Lack of Water in Dobbs Ferry, Hastings, and North Tarrytown.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 19.—With Pocantico Lake as dry as a bone and schools and factories closed in Dobbs Ferry and Hastings, and houses burning to the ground in North Tarrytown rather than waste water, these Hudson River villages to-day face a serious condition. The officials of the Consolidated Water Company, which supplies these villages, admitted they had abandoned hope of their lake filling and had decided to use strenuous methods to bring about relief.

The first to be appealed to were the Water Commissioners of Tarrytown, who have a six months' supply, and who agreed to let the company have 1,000,000 gallons a day for a stated period. The company accepted the proposal, and last night men began making the connection. They finished their work this morning, and by 9 o'clock water from the Tarrytown lakes had begun to supply Dobbs Ferry and Hastings.

A. H. Keen, Assistant General Superintendent of the company, and Joseph H. Alworth, Local Superintendent, went this afternoon to Ardsley, where the company has a high service reservoir. This they found to be practically empty. On their return they decided that there was nothing to be done but to tap the Croton aqueduct at Old Shaft. In speaking of the situation Mr. Keen said:

"New York City is willing to let us have 2,000,000 gallons of water a day until we get our lake filled, but the difficulty is that the aqueduct is 145 feet below our pumping station. We thought at first to lay a pipe from the shaft to our station a mile away, but decided finally to buy a new pump and boiler. These were purchased in Jersey City and will be sent at once to Tarrytown. We hope to be connected up within a week.

"In the meantime we will have to get along on Tarrytown's supply. Every one will have to be careful. We need 3,000,000 gallons a day and can get only 1,000,000. The unusual drought in July continued in August, and while we have had more rain in September, it has been too spasmodic to do any good. There is no use hoping for rain now. We have got to abandon our plant temporarily, and while our customers will be inconvenienced for a week we hope by that time to overcome the famine. We are doing everything possible for relief."

Although Tarrytown has a supply sufficient to care for its people for six months there were some protests against giving any water to Dobbs Ferry and Hastings. They did not mind helping out North Tarrytown, but thought New York ought to assist the villages below. The fact that New York had consented to have its aqueduct tapped was a surprise, as it is the first time such consent ever has been given. Keen said to-day:

"We have tried repeatedly to get help from New York, but in vain. Now that we are up against a famine the city is willing to give water to prevent suffering and inconvenience."

It was said to-night that the reservoir now contains a week's supply. This will be held exclusively for North Tarrytown.

One effect of the shortage of water was shown this morning when an unoccupied house on the Phillipse Manor property at North Tarrytown caught fire. When the firemen arrived they decided it was beyond control, and rather than waste the water they allowed it to burn to the ground.

Every volunteer fireman in the four villages is sleeping with his boots beside his bed, for the only hope is to get to fires in their early stages and fight them with chemicals. Dobbs Ferry and Hastings are suffering most. In Dobbs Ferry Main Street residents are getting water, but the supply on the heights has practically been shut off because there was no pressure.

The village officials relieved the situation by filling the sprinkling cart and sending it around, and water also was carted by the barrel. In the schools there was no water, so the Board of Education ordered them closed.

In Hastings the National Conduit Company, which uses about 700,000 gallons of water a day, had to shut down. There is little hope that the situation will be relieved before the Croton Aqueduct is tapped, which will be at least a week. Last year at this time John D. Rockefeller and all his tenants were short of water, but now they have a good supply, and Mr. Rockefeller has offered to help North Tarrytown if necessary. Walter W. Law has also offered the use of Briarcliff's water supply, but Village President Wirth says that he has not accepted because North Tarrytown has enough for a week, and by that time New York City will have come to the rescue.

NEW NAME FOR GRAFT.

Federal Weighers Called It "House Money," Says Bedell, Admitting Guilt.

When the trial of the former customs officials, Charles D. Drew, Charles H. Worrell, and George E. Bedell, charged with having conspired to defraud the Government by underweighing imports, was resumed yesterday before Judge Martin and a jury in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court, Special United States Attorney General Henry L. Stimson decided to present some additional proof, notwithstanding the fact that on Friday he said he had provisionally rested the prosecution's case.

The new evidence consisted of a series of typewritten tables supplied by the custom's liquidators showing the uniform pro rata increase of the invoices of the importers of Italian products immediately following the discovery of the alleged underweighing frauds.

After the noon recess Lawyer Cochrane opened the defense for Bedell. The only defense, to the surprise of the prosecution, consisted in presenting good character witnesses and in placing Mr. Bedell himself on the stand. He admitted that he had often heard of what was currently known as "house" and "accommodation money" amounting to from $5 to $10 a ship.

"Did you ever take or receive any of this so-called 'house money?'" asked Mr. Cochrane.

"Yes I accepted payments of $10," said the witness.

"And did you know that you were violating a Federal statute in accepting this money?"

"I did not," replied Bedell. "I never knew there was a statute on the subject."

James E. Hyland, a former assistant weigher, Bedell said, had paid him various sums of money, but he always understood it was "house" money and not for underweighing. When he heard that the Government was investigating the weighing frauds the defendant said he went to Deputy Surveyor Richard Parr and told him all he knew about it.

GOLD MEDAL FOR DEANS.

Chaufeur Who Caused Edward Rosenheimer's Arrest to be Rewarded.

The National Highways Protective Society, of which Henry Clews is President, will present a gold medal to John Deans of 947 Amsterdam Avenue, the chauffeur who obtained the number of the automobile which killed Miss Grace Hough in Pelham Parkway on Aug. 18.

As a result Edward T. Rosenheimer and his two companions at the time of the disaster have been held by Coroner Schwannecke for trial.

The medal will be presented in the auditorium of the new headquarters of the society, at 46 East Twenty-ninth Street, as soon as it can be made.

WOULD BREAK FATHER'S WILL

John Wallace Had Delusions, His Son Allen's Trustees Contend.

Talbot J. Taylor and Francis L. Wallace, as committee of the person and estate of Allen Wallace, who was declared judicially to be a confirmed drunkard, began action in the Supreme Court yesterday to break the will of John Wallace, the drunkard's father, who died on Sept. 18, 1909, and who was a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

The will was probated last November, and disposed of property worth $2,000,000. Of this $750,000 was left in trust for Allen Wallace. The Cathedral of St. John the Divine received $10,000. Many individuals were remembered in the will, which provided that any person who contested it should lose his share. This provision, it is said, cannot be enforced against Wallace, as an incompetent and a ward of the Supreme Court. Union College of Schenectady, according to the will, would get the amount of the trust fund if the attempt to set aside the instrument failed.

The complaint of the committee charges that John Wallace had "an insane delusion that his daughter-in-law, Frances L. Wallace, the wife of his said son, Allen Wallace, was hostile in her feelings toward him and had influenced his son to become his enemy; that the said Allen Wallace, by reason of the supposed improper influence of his wife, had lost all affection for his father and was treating him improperly and outrageously and desired his father's death that the said Allen Wallace might come into the possession of his father's property, and that the daughter of the said Allen Wallace and the said Frances L. Wallace was not, in fact, the daughter of said Allen Wallace, and that the said Frances L. Wallace was grossly extravagant and unfit to take charge of any money or business affairs."

Justice Cavegan reserved decision on the papers.

TO CHECKMATE CAVALIERI.

Chanler's Lawyers Plan to Revoke the Power of Attorney He Gave Her.

While Robert W. Chanler's lawyers would not discuss the subject yesterday, it was intimated that they had found a way in which to come between the former Dutchess County Sheriff's fortune and his wife, Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the opera singer, to whom he gave in a pre-nuptial agreement about all of the worldly goods he possessed.

The new plan, it was said, is to the effect that either Mr. Chanler or his attorneys will within the next few days file a paper with the County Clerk of New York County revoking the power of attorney which Mr. Chanler gave Mme. Cavalieri to collect the money and real estate he pledged to her.

The whole agreement, it was pointed out, depends for its execution upon the power of attorney which Mr. Chanler delegated, and by revoking this part of it it would be a simple question to keep the money from Mme. Cavalieri. Neither Sidney Harris, Mr. Chanler's attorney, nor Russell W. Osborn, counsel for Mme. Cavalieri, would say anything for publication upon this new phase of the Chanler-Cavalieri controversy.

PALMER MAY SUCCEED O'BRIEN

Police Speculate as to Who Will Be Appointed to the Vacant Inspectorship.

The question of who will get the Police Inspectorship made vacant by the deposition of Inspector John J. O'Brien to the grade of Captain is being discussed eagerly in police circles. Commissioner Baker, however, has as yet said nothing for publication.

Judging by surface indications Capt. Thomas Palmer of the West Forty-seventh Street Station has as good a chance as any other Captain for promotion. He is close to the Commissioner, as his appointment to his present precinct shows, and he also stands high in favor with ex-Commissioner Bingham.

He was made a Captain by the latter toward the end of his régime, and was sent to Coney Island. But when Commissioner Baker was appointed Palmer was shifted to Staten Island. After a few months he seemed to win the good graces of his new chief, and was brought back to Mulberry Street. Not long afterward he was assigned to the West Forty-seventh Street Station.

Capt. Palmer has an excellent record and has always stood at the head of the list for promotion. He is said to have played a leading part in revising the Police Department rules. While at Coney Island he inaugurated the "50-foot post" system, by which a policeman was supposed to be stationed every fifty feet along the Island's Tenderloin.

Capt. Henry of the Mercer Street Station also has an excellent record. He is known as one of the best disciplinarians in the department, and is highly esteemed by his fellow officers.

Capt. William F. Fennelly, who is now stationed at Glendale in the 285th Precinct, used to be looked upon as a favorite with Commissioner Baker, but his transfer to Queens seems an indication that he is less likely of promotion than formerly.

CURFEW LAW IN YONKERS.

Police Busy Sending Children Under Sixteen Home After 10 o'Clock.

Promptly at 10 o'clock last night the "Curfew Law" became effective in Yonkers, and the police were busy chasing all youngsters under the age of sixteen off the streets. No bells were rung nor were whistles blown to apprise the juveniles of the hour after which they were liable to arrest if found unchaperoned.

The ordinance, which was passed on Aug. 29, was introduced by Alderman Thomas Tobin, the youngest member of the Common Council, and was opposed by only one member, Alderman William Corbalis, the oldest. It was drafted by Assistant Corporation Counsel Max Cohen at the request of the several civic organizations interested in child rescue work. They declared that little children were allowed to roam the streets until past midnight.

There was a lot of fun poked at the ordinance and some doubt expressed as to its practicability. Alderman Corbalis dubbed its adherents, "old women" and "old fogies."

BLAMES DETECTIVE FOR FALSE EVIDENCE

Witness in Newark White Slave Case Promised Freedom, She Says, for Perjuring Herself.

HER ALLEGATIONS DENIED

Mary Fealko Will Be Brought from Newburg for New Investigation of Charge Against Rosenthal.

Mary Agnes Faelko, the twenty-year-old Newburg girl whose testimony sent Frank Rosenthal, a United States soldier, to the New Jersey State Penitentiary for eight years, has stated her willingness to return to Newark and go on the stand and repudiate the evidence on which the State of New Jersey relied to put Rosenthal behind the bars. He was charged with violating the "white slave" law, and in the course of his trial last month the Fealko girl swore that he sent her out in the streets to eke out an existence, and on several occasions had kept her a prisoner in one of three little rooms that they had rented.

The girl now says that the reason she took the stand for the State was that a certain Newark detective had gone to her when she was in prison and said that if she would testify against Rosenthal she would be liberated. The girl was held as a witness only, but she thought that being detained in that way was just as serious as if one were charged with a crime.

The girl has already made a long affidavit in the office of Lawyer James M. Wallace of Newburg completely exonerating Rosenthal. The original has been sent to Newark, where it will form the basis of an appeal for a new trial or a pardon for the soldier.

The Fealko girl met Rosenthal, she declares in this document, in January of this year, when she was a domestic in the family of a Mrs. Chapman of Highland Falls, near West Point. Rosenthal at that time was a soldier on duty at the Military Academy at West Point. In March, she goes on to say, she and Rosenthal decided to be married, and went to Bridgeport, Conn., with that idea in mind. They remained in Bridgeport a week and then went to Newark, where they lived in a little three-room apartment at 202 Plain Street. Rosenthal, she said, had $100 in money and three rings.

She then tells of a man who lived in the same house, who was badly beaten up by Rosenthal, because he had insulted her. The next day Rosenthal was arrested and she was locked up as a witness. While in jail, she says, a detective came to her and ordered her to make false statements, one of which was that Rosenthal had compelled her to go on the streets of Newark. This she now swears was entirely false.

The news from Newburg reached Newark on Sunday and caused a lot of talk in police circles in that city. The truthfulness of the Fealko affidavit was denied on all hands in Newark. The police said that any statement that they had coerced the girl was a downright lie, and an equally strong denial was made from the office of the Prosecutor of Essex County.

The case will undoubtedly be investigated, and it is certain that the girl will be brought back to Newark and asked to substantiate her charges.

SEARLES EX-BUTLER HELD.

He and His Wife Are Suspected of Putting Arsenic in a Barrel of Flour.

Pierre Heritier, a butler, and his wife, who acted as cook, were committed to the Tombs yesterday by Magistrate Herrman in the Tombs Court to await extradition papers from Connecticut. The pair were employed in the family of William L. Searles, a retired merchant, of Darien, Conn., up to Sept. 7, when they were dismissed.

When the cook baked a pan of biscuits from some flour that had been in the house while the Heritiers were there, all who partook of them were made ill, and a doctor who was called in discovered arsenic in the flour.

Mr. Searles identified the Heritiers in the court to-day as having been in his employ. When asked what she had to say, Mrs. Heritier replied:

"I have nothing to say except that I am innocent."

When the same question was put to Heritier he made the same reply.

HELD FOR STONING TRAINS.

Five Boys Arrested in a Crusade by the New Haven Road.

Five boys living on First Street, New Rochelle, were arrested yesterday in Pelham Manor, charged with malicious mischief. This is the opening of a crusade by the New York & New Haven Railroad Company to stop the stoning of trains and destruction of property between Mount Vernon and Pelham Manor.

Commuters have complained of the stoning of trains. Insulators on poles and uprights have also been broken. Sunday night Charles C. Meigs, a passenger on the Boston express, was nearly hit by a stone which broke a window in the smoking car where he was sitting. The stone passed through the car and broke a window on the other side.

GOETHE READER A SUICIDE.

Jacob Aboff Took Poison as He Finished the "Sorrows of Werther."

Turning down the last page of the "Sorrows of Werther," Jacob Aboff of 249 Eldridge Street yesterday swallowed a bottle of carbolic acid. He was discovered soon after by his landlady, Mrs. Bertha Shiffman.

Policeman Rothschild of the Eldridge Street Station was summoned and found Aboff on the sofa fully dressed except for his shoes. Beside the book on the table were two letters, one addresed to his sister, in which he said that, although the world was beautiful, he must leave it, and the other for Mrs. Shiffman, expressing sorrow for causing her so much inconvenience.

Mrs. Shiffman said there was no reason for the young man's suicide except that he was melancholly after reading Goethe's work. He had been in this country for some years, and his sister lives somewhere in this city.

What I "Throw In" With Each Stetson Hat

And here's a little story:

"Get-Rich-Jones" used to keep a general store.

Always sold everything "at cost." Often below that. So he said.

Said he made money only because he sold lots of goods.

I sell Stetson Hats at cost, too.

At what they cost you.

(I sometimes joke, but I never flim-flam.)

But—as every man knows who has worn one—every Stetson hat is always worth every cent it costs. Just as surely as Uncle Sam's dollars are always worth 100 cents each.

If you think otherwise about any hat you get at either of my stores, I'm always ready to buy the hat back at full price, or give you a new one. I'd rather have a man's good will than his money.

I don't cut prices on Stetsons—regular prices are too low for that.

So other stores can sell you a Stetson at the same price I can.

But other stores in New York carry only a small assortment—can't always show you the shape, shade or size you like.

While at my store in the Metropolitan Life Building you can always find exactly the Stetson style you want—the only store in New York with a complete line of Stetsons always in stock.

You save time and avoid disappointment by coming to my store.

I throw in courteous treatment, too. Something you don't always get in the hustle and bustle of other stores. And my clerks never think they know more than you do about what you want.

THEY WERE OUT FOR BEARS.

Two Small Adventurers from Pennsylvania Were on the Way West.

From Minersville, Penn., to the Golden West, by way of New York, was the route mapped out by two boys who arrived here on Sunday night with infinite hope and a suit case full of rusty revolvers, knives, and fishing tackle. They were going hunting on the prairies and hoped to break all records, if Patrolman Burrell of the East Fifty-first Street Station had not met them at Madison Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street and gathered them in. The adventurers said they were Paul Derby and Joseph Barber of Minersville, Penn.; that their favorite amusement was killing bears and their favorite author Roosevelt.

The two boys were arraigned yesterday before Justice Deuel in the Children's Court on a complaint of improper guardianship. The suit case was brought in as evidence. The Judge's eyebrows lifted as the weapons were exhibited.

"What's this for?" he asked the boys, pointing the airgun with a sawed-off barrel.

"That's for deer and other small game," answered Derby, with an indifferent air.

"And what are you going to do with this revolver?" went on the Judge, indicating one of ancient pattern.

"Coyotes and wolves."

"And this knife?"

"That's for defense. You see, you're lying down beside the campfire, wrapped in your blanket. You hear a rustling noise in the leaves. No time to grab for your gun and aim it. You have your trusty bowie at your side, and in a moment—"

"The Nick Carter classics, Volume Three," suggested an attendant.

The boys were remanded until their parents can be notified. They had no objection to postponing their trip for a few days, but when they were bundled into the Children's Society van with other youngsters they were highly indignant.

"Look at the kids we have to ride with," said Derby in disgust.

POSTMAN HIT HER, SHE SAYS.

He Denies It and Alleges Miss Gladys Waite's Dog Attacked Him.

Miss Gladys Waite of Whitestone, L. I., the thirteen-year-old daughter of Guy B. Waite, President of the Standard Concrete Steel Company of 413 East Thirty-first Street, appeared yesterday before Magistrate Fitch in the Flushing Court against William Borneman, a letter carrier, and accused him of slapping her in the face.

She met Borneman, she declared, in front of O'Rourke's drugstore in Eighth Avenue, Whitestone, on the afternoon of Sept. 12. She was accompanied by a pet terrier, and the letter carrier, she alleged, coaxed it toward him. When it was near enough he kicked it in the jaws. Miss Waite took Borneman to task, and he then, she declared, slapped her in the face.

Borneman denies having struck the girl. Her dog, he declares, has occasioned him a great deal of trouble on his delivery route, and has snapped at him whenever it got the chance. On the afternoon in question he suddenly came upon the dog in the streets of Whitestone, and it at once made an attack on him. He simply defended himself, he declares.

Both sides were represented by attorneys, and the hearing was adjourned until to-morrow.

JEALOUS GIRL THROWS ACID.

Would Spoil Louis Schuellein's Beauty to Keep Other Women Away from Him.

As Louis Schuellein, Assistant Manager of a five and ten cent store on Fulton Street, Jamaica, was on his way home yesterday to luncheon, he suddenly encountered at Flushing Avenue and Grove Street a young woman. She had been noticed pacing back and forth for half an hour, as though waiting for some one, but as soon as she saw Schuellein approaching she slunk behind a fence.

"I am going to fix you, so that other girls won't like you," she cried.

She drew a half-pint botttle of carbolic acid from behind her back and, with a jerk, hurled the contents at Schuellein. He stepped back and stooped. The acid flew over his head and dropped on his back, ruining his clothing.

The girl tossed the bottle away and took to her heels. Schuellein ran to the Jamaica Police Station, half a block away, and Patrolman Kubbler was sent out with him. The girl had obtained a good start, but Schuellein and the policeman set out after her at top speed.

The girl ran half a mile with a crowd at her heels, and was just boarding a car when the policeman seized her. At the station house Schuellein refused to press a complaint and his assailant promised never to disturb him again, and was permitted to go.

"The girl was jealous of me," said Schuellein later. "I have known her for the last two years, but only as a friend. When she heard that I was calling on another young woman she became furious, and several days ago threatened to shoot me. I laughed at her, and thought nothing more of her threat."

Schuellein declined to say who the girl was.

FIVE HURT IN A FIRE, SECOND IN A MONTH

Three Men Jump from Rear Windows of a Houston Street Tenement.

MANY OVERCOME BY SMOKE

One Woman's Rooms Plundered While the Fire Burned—Its Location in a Hall Arouses Suspicion.

Their escape being cut off by smoke and flames, three men early yesterday morning jumped from windows in the rear of the five-story tenement at 315 East Houston Street and suffered severe injuries. Others were carried to the street, unconscious from smoke, by firemen and policemen, while about a score of tenants were taken down from windows by ladders. The blaze, which is being investigated by the police and Fire Marshal, was in the hallway on the ground floor and did about $1,000 damage.

Those injured are:

VINCENT KOSTECKI, 17; both legs broken by jumping. Taken to Bellevue Hospital.

JULIUS SIDMUD, 18; right leg broken by jumping. Taken to Bellevue Hospital.

JOHN DAMYLUT, 20; burned about face and legs. Taken to Bellevue Hospital.

KATE SHYCOB, 20; burned about face and overcome by smoke. Taken to Bellevue Hospital.

MANUS SIDMUD, 60; toes on right foot broken. Attended by ambulance surgeon and sent to home of a friend.

On the ground floor of the structure is the store of the Jersey Butter and Egg Company. In the centre is the entrance to the twenty flats on the upper floors. Shortly after 2 A. M. Edward Spencer of 308 East Houston Street, on his way home, discovered fire in the hallway. Smashing open the front door, he discovered the blaze burning rapidly toward the stairs. As he shouted for help he ran to a fire-alarm box and turned in an alarm.

Policemen Kantor and Korlacher of the Union Market Station quickly arrived, and they succeeded in running past the flames and reaching the first floor. Then they went through the house, awakening the tenants. When the occupants reached the halls they found them filled with smoke, and a panic followed. The majority rushed to the fire escapes and windows in front and made their way to the first floor. Firemen in the meantime had arrived, and members of Hook and Ladder Company 18, under Capt. Harrison, had put up ladders to the windows and fire escapes. More than a score of men, women, and children were taken down this way, and the Shycob woman and Damylut were also carried to the street.

The rooms of Tillie Hollander were broken into and plundered while the fire was in progress.

About a month ago there was a fire in the same house, and its origin was in the hallway, just where the blaze began yesterday.

PAIR OF BURGLARS CAUGHT.

One Shot, Another Cut by Barbed Wire on a Brooklyn Back Fence.

Surprised when forcing an entrance into a cigar store at 1,009 Broadway, Brooklyn, Soloman Schmidt of 209 Boerum Street, Brooklyn, and Morris Kornetz of 18 First Avenue, Manhattan, were captured last night. Schmidt was shot in the left thigh and Kornetz was badly cut and bruised by coming in contact with barbed wire.

The two had long steel jimmies, bits and braces, and a dark lantern, and were boring holes into the rear door when they were heard by Mrs. William Brockow, whose home at 893 Willoughby Avenue overlooks the yard of the store.

Mrs. Brockow raised an alarm, and when the burglars attempted to vault the barbed-wire fence they were shot at. Kornetz dropped back into the yard, but Schmidt was hit.

Policeman Wischert arrested Kornetz, while Policemen Haffner and Ensile caught Schmidt. Both were taken to the Hamburg Avenue Station House, where they were locked up on a charge of attempted burglary.

Half an hour later the doorman overheard Schmidt telling Kornetz he had been shot, and Ambulance Surgeon Menzer removed him to the German Hospital.

Kornetz was arraigned in the Manhattan Avenue Court and was held in $3,000 bail pending a hearing.

PURE FOOD EXPOSITION
Under Auspices National Pure Food Magazine

THIS exhibition, the most important event of its kind ever inspired by purity, decency and honesty, will go into history as a crushing blow delivered at the head of every form of trickery and inferiority in food preparation.

New York City may discover, through attendance at the Garden on any of the exposition days, that it can boast of a new pride. The 926 members of the Premier Family will be on display on the Main Floor, where the testimony of your own eyes may have an opportunity of proving for yourself the many things which have been said in the New York papers about them.

In New York City almost forty-one years ago began the pure food movement which to-day, under the word Premier, is the largest and most comprehensive effort of its kind in the world.

In no one of the 926 Premier products is there a single trace of "filler," bleacher, "improving juice," compound, ethereal flavor, artificial color or preservative.

Nearly a thousand styles and packages! Every one of them an ideal of perfect quality! Where else in America can such a Pure Food Family be found?

Many people have an erroneous impression of a "liquor cure." They fear a "hospital," with burly attendants, isolation, possible rough handling, and unpleasant notoriety. They find here, instead, comfortable surroundings, trained nursing, expert medical attention, and the same privacy they would have in their own homes. They can, if they wish, keep in constant personal touch with friends or business. A call at our Institute will verify these statements and involve for the inquirer no obligation and no publicity.

HARMSWORTH PLANT AMAZED EARL GREY

Governor General Inspects Pulp and Paper Mills at Grand Falls, N. F.

VISITS MODEL TOWN ALSO

In Speech to 1,000 Employes He Eulogizes Lord Northcliffe's Enterprise and Foresight.

Special Correspondence THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GRAND FALLS, N. F., Sept. 15.—Earl Grey, Governor General of Canada, has recently made his third visit to Newfoundland, this time to inspect the Harmsworth Paper Mills at Grand Falls, in other words, to see the economic and industrial revolution wrought by Lord Northcliffe and his associates in creating, amid the primeval wilderness, the most modern pulp and paper mills in the world, with a garden city surrounding them, the whole destined to become within a few years the second town in size, importance, and wealth in this ancient colony.

Earl Grey expressed his amazement at the unexpected magnitude of the enterprise, the size and solidity of the immense concrete and steel buildings, and the completeness of the machinery and other equipment.

He made an equally close inspection of the town adjoining the mills, which the company is establishing on the Garden City principle, every structure standing in its own grounds, with ample provision for vegetable and fruit gardens, adequate systems of sewerage, water, electric lighting, and the most approved ideas as to sanitation and hygiene.

He visited many of the houses of various classes, saw them in process of construction and in actual occupancy, walked through the streets, studied the plans, inspected the system of filtration for the water supply, and viewed the churches, schools, and other buildings.

Built in a Wilderness.

To understand what this Harmsworth enterprise represents in the way of actual mechanical achievement it is only necessary to state that five years ago the area on which the mills and town stand was an untrodden wilderness without a human habitation, and that since then the construction work done there represents the building of dams across the Exploits River, 1,500 feet in length by 20 feet deep, and averaging 10 feet in thickness; the laying of two steel tubes for the conveyance of water from the dam to the power house, these tubes being 15 feet in diameter, 2,200 feet long, and containing as much metal plating as would construct a large size steamer; the erection of eleven steel and concrete buildings, covering eight acres, and the installation of all the immense aggregation of machinery necessary for the production of mechanical pulp, sulphite pulp, and finished paper, including an acid tower of steel framework on a thirty-foot base, 200 feet high, and carrying on its summit a water tank with a capacity of 250,000 gallons.

In addition, the company has already built 300 houses for its workmen and officials of various classes, a hospital, schools, four churches, a Town Hall, a workmen's club, stores, and all the other structures necessary to the successful carrying on of such an undertaking, while there has likewise been constructed and equipped a railroad twenty miles long, from Grand Falls to Botwood Harbor, which is the company's shipping port, with houses for the storage of paper and piers for the shipment of the product to England and other countries where the pulp and paper may be marketed.

In addition to this extensive and varied programme, the matter of housing other employes, at present occupying temporary residences, has been energetically pushed forward. A farm has been cleared in the vicinity and every form of industrial activity has been encouraged.

Earl Grey and his party proceeded over the company's railway to Botwood Harbor, where they embarked on Lord Northcliffe's thousand-ton steam yacht, Zenaida, and enjoyed a thirty-mile cruise through the beautiful fiords of that section of Notre Dame Bay.

Addresses to the Workmen.

After the return to Grand Falls all the workmen of the company, numbering nearly 1,000, were assembled in the largest of the mill buildings to hear addresses by Prof. James W. Robertson, the Canadian agricultural scientist; Earl Grey, and Sir Edward Morris, Prime Minister of Newfoundland.

Earl Grey pointed the moral of what enterprise and courage, coupled with some wealth, could do for a country; showed what a benefit in every way this undertaking would be for Newfoundland, and predicted a successful enlargement in this form of industry throughout the colony in the near future.

Premier Morris described the Government's objects in relation to agricultural progress and what was expected from Prof. Robertson's visit in the way of stimulating this industry as an accompaniment to labor-giving enterprises such as that at Grand Falls, whereby there could be kept at home and circulated among the people of the colony $3,000,000 now sent away annually for the purchase of food products, all of which might be grown within the colony.

The three speakers eulogized Lord Northcliffe for his courage and foresight in establishing so colossal an industry in this country previously without any standing or record to encourage the belief that pulp and paper making could be successfully attempted here, and they wished him and his associates the very greatest good fortune in the future for the enterprise now inaugurated.

The visit of Earl Grey terminated with his planting a tree in the grounds before Lord Northcliffe's residence, Grand Falls House, on a bluff overlooking Exploits River, and opening a new roadway, named Earl Grey Avenue, extending five miles along the river bank and affording access to some of the finest scenery and natural attractions in the whole colony, the Exploits River, on which Grand Falls is situated, being one of Newfoundland's most noted beauty spots.

Meadow Brook's First Drag Hunt.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The first drag hunt of the Autumn started from the Meadow Brook Clubhouse to-day. The English hounds were put in at the Paltazzi place, whence they ran to the Thomas Hitchcock estates, then on to Henry Powell's farm, the check being called on Charles Steele's grounds. Again the hounds were put in at F. C. Clark's place, and finished the run at Dudley Winthrop's place, with J. E. Davis, Malcolm Stevenson, R. F. Potter, Mrs. J. A. Burden, and Henry F. Potter in at the finish.

Bothner Wins Wrestling Bout.

George Bothner won from Sandelli the Great in an exciting wrestling match at Brown's Gymnasium last night, obtaining two out of three falls. The first bout between the grapplers was catch-as-catch-can style, and Bothner put his opponent's shoulders to the floor in 15 minutes. The second bout was Graeco-Roman style, and after three minutes of hard tussling, Sandelli put Bothner down, straining hsi neck badly in the performance. Following the same style of wrestling Bothner won the third fall and the match after 13 minutes of wrestling.

Great Feat of Veteran Athlete.

Pat Corcoran, 58 years old, gave a remarkable exhibition of throwing the fifty-six-pound weight at the Central A. A. U. championships, held at Evanston, Ill., on Saturday. Corcoran sent the missile a distance of 26 feet 6½ inches, a new record for those championships, and 1 foot 11 inches better than the former mark, made in 1908. Corcoran is a stockily built Irishman from the West Side, Chicago, and has been more or less in athletics all his life. He weighs 180 pounds and always keeps in shape.

Whitney Wins in Fifth Round.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Al Benedict of Hoboken was so completely outclassed by Kyle Whitney of California that a scheduled ten-round bout here to-night was stopped in the fifth round. Benedict was knocked down eight times.

NEW A. A. U. HANDICAPPER.

Hermann Obertubessing Defeats Present Incumbent, T. F. O'Brien.

Only one ballot was needed to elect Hermann Obertubessing of the West Side Y. M. C. A. official handicapper of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union at its annual meeting held at the Irish-American Athletic Club last night.

T. F. O'Brien, who held the position of handicapper for thirteen years; George B. Underwood, and Al Copeland were the other candidates. The other officers elected were James E. Sullivan of the Pastime A. C., President of the association, and F. W. Rubien, Vice President.

For the office of Secretary and Treasurer Andrew J. Tully of the Catholic Athletic League was elected. For the Registration Committee the following three men were chosen, these getting together to elect their Chairman. The committee is composed of John J. Walsh, Pastime A. C.; J. Farley, Irish-American A. C., and Ed. Hart, Mohawk A. C.

One hundred and twelve delegates from as many organizations answered to the roll call, and after the minutes and reports had been accepted the task of electing delegates and alternates to the union was taken up.

The number of votes cast for handicapper was 112, of which Obertubessing received 58; O'Brien, 33; Underwood, 17, and Copeland, 4.

Obertubbessing has been prominent in the Metropolitan Association, last year being Chairman of the Registration Committee.

Following the election of the official handicapper the delegates and alternates who were elected were announced. They are Bartow S. Weeks, Atlantic Yacht Club and New York Athletic Club; J. E. Sullivan, Pastime Athletic Club; E. T. Hart, Mohawk Athletic Club; F. W. Rubien, St. George's Athletic Club; F. G. Delaney, Xavier Athletic Club, and J. W. Stumpf, Grace Athletic Club.

Alternates—A. H. Vitali, Mohegan Athletic Club; T. Farley, Irish-American Athletic Club; William Rowan, Acorn Athletic Club; A. G. Sirori, New York Swimming Association; T. M. Toburn, Mercury Athletic Club, and A. McAleenan, Deal Beach Swimming Club.

Carney Elected Handicapper.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Dr. J. K. Snell, the former coach for the University of Pennsylvania and Swarthmore College, was defeated by Peter P. Carney for the position of handicapper of the Middle Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union at the annual meeting of the association here to-day. Carney, who was recently deposed from the position in favor of Dr. Snell, received 17½ votes and his opponent 12½. George F. Pawling was re-elected President on the third ballot by a vote of 15 to 13. The other officers were re-elected without opposition.

YALE LINES UP ON FIELD.

Hurry Calls Sent for Coaches Chamberlin and Bloomer.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEVILLE, Conn., Sept. 19.—Head Coach Ted Coy of the Yale football eleven to-day changed his plans and ordered the first actual play of the season this afternoon instead of waiting until Wednesday. No line bucking was allowed, but end runs, which are made possible under the new code, were attempted. Several players were promoted from the second to the first eleven, these including Holladay, Philbin, Scully, Parker, and Robinson. Philbin and Walter Camp, Jr., the freshman half backs of last season, have both been removed to end rush. Camp played in that position on the second eleven today.

George Adee, '95, saw the afternoon drill. He is the first graduate coach to come except the regulars, Coy and Holt. The fact that tackles must be developed led Capt. Daly to send a hurry call to ex-Capt. Burr Chamberlin and Ralph Bloomer. They sent word to-night that they would be here to-morrow.

French and Francis were the new arrivals to-day, bringing the squad up to 48. Baker, half back, dislocated his finger in stumbling while catching a punt to-day. This is the first injury of the Yale season. Baker will be out a week.

Coach Mersereau of the freshman eleven arrived to-night. He ordered his squad to report at New Haven Sept. 29.

Princeton Tries Out New Football.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 19.—Coach Roper of Princeton picked eleven men to try out the new football rules at University Field this afternoon. The men were Bluethenthal, centre; Winants and Wilson, guards; McCormick and Ellsworth, tackles; Dunlap and Rhodes, ends; Woodle and Sparks, half backs; Pendleton, quarter back, and Capt. Hart, full back. This team tried out the forward pass and the onside kick mainly, and showed good form. Pendleton was used in punting spirals and kicking goals from placement, and drops from the forty-yard line.

The assistant coaches took charge of two other teams. Talks were made by Coach Roper, Trainer Keene Fitzpatrick, and Capt. Hart before the practice began. Physical tests were started by Dr. W. S. MacLaren, a local physician. Twenty players have been examined and pronounced in good condition. The freshman team will be out soon. Logan Cunningham, a former Princeton player, will coach the team.

Forty Middies Out for Football.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 19.—Nearly forty members of the fourth class at the Naval Academy were on the football field this afternoon, and the work of a more advanced character than had been attempted heretofore was engaged in. Three teams were selected, and each had a chance to go through formations, Head Coach Berrien and Assistant Howard giving special attention to the backs, while Wheaton, field coach, took charge of the linemen, paying particular attention to Brown and Howe, the big fourth class men, who have an excellent chance of making the team this year, as both of the guards of last season have graduated.

Harvard Starts Practice at Home.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 19.—Twenty-seven candidates for the Harvard 'Varsity football team for 1910 reported to-day for the first home practice of the season at the Stadium, and were put through various trials by Coach Percy D. Haughton and Trainer "Pooch" Donovan. The afternoon's work consisted mainly of passing the ball, quick starts, tackling the dummy, and kicking. Capt. Lothrop Withington stated that the work was exceptionally good, considering that it was the first day at the Stadium, although the team has just returned from a couple of weeks' practice on a Maine island.

Cornell Starts Training Table.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The Cornell football training table was started to-day with the following men: Capt. Simson, full back; Smith, quarter back; Robb and Bates, half backs; Champaign and Hale, guards; Munk, tackle. No satisfactory candidates for ends have yet been found.

Montmorency's Queen Victoria Vase.

The Queen Victoria Jubilee Vase, a trophy which all amateur golfers of England are anxious to win, was captured recently in the twenty-fourth annual tournament of the royal and ancient St. Andrew's Club by R. H. de Montmorency, a plus 3 player, who in the final of eighteen holes defeated J. W. Ladlay, handicap 7, by 3 up and 2 to play. The winner showed fine form throughout the tournament, winning most of his matches two or three holes from home. He represented England against Scotland in 1908, but has had to decline international honors on several occasions owing to his duties at Eton College, where he is a master. At Oxford he was one of the best all-around sportsmen of his day. He played against Cambridge at cricket in 1899, scoring 25 and 62 and taking two wickets; he also played for Oxford at golf in 1897, 1898, and 1899, and at racquets in 1897 and 1899.

Red Bank Yachtsmen Elect Officers.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Sept. 19.—The Red Bank Yacht Club, whose members are almost entirely New York business men, gave a dinner on the large and handsome floating clubhouse moored on the Middletown side of the river on Saturday night. After the dinner the floor was cleared for dancing. During the evening the election of officers was held, the successful men being: Commodore, John S. Dickerson; Vice Commodore, William S. Johnson; Treasurer, Christopher Hersafel; Secretary, William L. Hedenberg; Fleet Captain, George J. Gillig. On Saturday next the last regatta of the season will be held.

SPLIT IN GOLF RANKS BEING URGED AGAIN

Proposed Secession of Western Clubs from National Association Comes to Life Again.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—The movement among some of the Western and Northwestern golf clubs to withdraw from the United States Golf Association is receiving very little encouragement among the Eastern clubs, according to announcement made here to-day.

A circular letter outlining the objects of the proposed organization was recently mailed to all the golf cubs in the country, but the Eastern clubs at least have not replied to it, while the officials of the United States Golf Association now in charge of the game refuse to comment upon it.

W. C. Fownes of the Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburg, and uncle of the new amateur champion, said to-day:

"It is a move by some of the Western kickers that has no reason back of it. There is no room for a second National association."

Before closing the amateur championship at the Country Club the officials of the United States Association at a meeting accepted the report of the special committee on a set of rules to govern bogey competitions. These rules will be presented to the annual meeting of the association at Chicago on Jan. 11, 1911.

The Skokie Country Club of Chicago has been made an active member of the association, and the Nashville Golf and Country Club an allied member.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Secretary Willard of the Western Golf Association to-day expressed himself at a loss to explain the recrudescence of gossip concerning a possible new golf association in opposition to, or to absorb, the United States Golf Association which governs tournament play in this country.

According to Mr. Willard a campaign looking to a new organization took some form at the annual meeting of the Western Golf Association last January. Mr. Willard was instructed to prepare a circular, without comment, to feel out sentiment as to the proposition.

A week or so later the meeting of the United States Golf Association was held. W. A. Alexander of Chicago was chosen Vice President, and a disposition was evinced to grant the fullest recognition to Western golf clubs and associations.

In view of the conciliatory attitude of the big organization, Directors of the Western association, without formal action, are said to have agreed to drop the new movement. Formal action to this effect, it is said, will in all probability be taken when the Western Golf Association meets here next January.

Owing to the disposition displayed to "get together," Mr. Willard delayed in sending out the "feeling out" circular until two months ago when, he says, he sent it perfunctorily, because the Directors at their meeting last January had ordered hm to do so.

The East was not alone in objecting to the formation of a new association. Several of the more prominent Chicago Clubs frowned severely on the project and were influential in checking its development.

COLLEGE GOLFERS PLAY.

Harvard and Princeton Win from Pennsylvania and Williams, Respectively.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Sept. 19.—Harvard and Princeton were easy winners in the first round matches of the intercollegiate golf championship tournament at the Essex Country Club to-day for the team championship, Harvard winning five of the six singles and two of the foursomes from University of Pennsylvania, while Princeton did not allow Williams a single match. Williams, despite the overwhelming defeat, played a plucky game and carried five of the matches to the home green.

E. C. Davidson of Harvard was the low medal scorer of the day with a credit of 78, which was good golf considering the strong northeast gale blowing across the links.

Harvard to-morrow plays Yale and Princeton meets Dartmouth. Yale and Dartmouth have drawn byes. Summary:

Advertising Men to Play Golf.

The September tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association of Advertising Interests will be held at the Knollwood Country Club, at White Plains, on Thursday, Sept. 29, instead of at Baltusrol, as originally planned. Judging from the number of members who have already declared their intention of taking part in the tournament, it promises to be one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever given in the Metropolitan district. It is estimated that over 100 players will tee off. A feature of the tournament will be the pairings of the players. The contestants will be notified the day before the tournament of the name of their partners and their time of starting. At th conclusion of the tournament a special dinner will be served the members and their guests at the Knollwood Club, followed by a concert and entertainment by prominent vaudeville artists.

Golf Tournamen tfor Seniors.

The Sixth Annual Seniors' Tournament, open only to golfers who are 55 years of age or over, will take place at the links of the Apawamis Club, Rye, N. Y., on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 28 and 29. All members of the United States Golf Association, the Metropolitan Association, and allied clubs are eligible to compete. Eight prizes will be distributed—four for the thirty-six holes medal play handicap and four for the eighteen holes medal play handicap. These prizes will be awarded for first and second in both net and gross scores in each class.

DIXIE KID BEATEN BY DICK NELSON

Colored Welterweight Floored in Second Round, Which Took Fight Out of Him.

Dixie Kid, the colored welterweight, made his last appearance before the New York public for some time when he met Fighting Dick Nelson last night at the Olympic Athletic Club. He did not add another scalp to his belt, as he expected to, before he sails for Paris. The colored boxer was pretty badly beaten by his white opponent. Dixie Kid will probably enjoy easy picking among the Paris clubs, as did Willie Lewis, but there are several welters around New York who will give him a good fight whenever he comes home.

Nelson was in far better shape last night than he has been for some time, and his condition and stamina earned him the honors. He received much punishment, but was always able to stand it and always came back for more. The bout, on the whole, was a fast one from the second round, but Nelson forced the pace and scored the most telling blows.

The Dixie Kid exhibited quite a bit of wildness, much more than usual, but this was due to the bad scare he received in the second round, when he was sent to the canvas by a quick right to the jaw that bewildered the spectators equally as much as the recipient.

The round had just opened, and after the men had been separated from a clinch they both squared off and were feinting at long range, when the white boxer saw a quick chance and sent in the punch that sent the colored man to the floor.

This gave Nelson a good start over Dixie Kid and he continued to force the work all the way and never let up. The first round was the only tame session of the ten, as both men were slow to get into action.

Dixie Kid opened the hostilities by sending in a right-hand uppercut, but missed a left swing to the jaw. Nelson scored for the first time with a left jab on the face. The negro then shot over a right and left to the ribs that hurt Nelson and sent a left hard swing on the head, the round being in favor of Dixie Kid.

Nelson started out in earnest in the second, and rushed the colored man, who met him with a left on the jaw. This only served to rouse Nelson, and it was at this point that he surprised his opponent by sending him to the mat. After regaining his feet, Dixie Kid was a trifle slow, and Nelson was quick to seize the chance to win, if possible, by going after his man, and sent a right and left to the body, while the colored man fell back to the ropes. When they came to the centre of the ring Nelson shot over a clean left-hand jab. Dixie Kid was wild, missing a few hard swings.

The Dixie Kid came back strong in the third and carried the honors in the round by his fast footwork. Nelson led with a left jab that just met the Dixie Kid's face at the full reach, doing little harm. Then the colored man sent home a hard right smash to the stomach that slowed up Nelson. The Kid again scored a left jab, and closed the round with a good lead. Nelson fought fast in the clinches that were frequent during the fourth round, but his blows did little harm, and while the Dixie Kid was wild he closed the round on even terms. Nelson had all the better of the next two rounds by his aggressiveness and scoring the cleanest and hardest blows from all angles. He rocked the colored man in the sixth with a left jab, and then crossed a right over to the ribs.

The eighth round was even, and while Dixie Kid was wild he sent in some good body blows. Nelson's best work was his left jab that scored three times. Dixie Kid shaded Nelson in the eighth by a scant margin, as the round was very fast, and both men exchanged freely. Nelson carried the milling in the ninth and tenth sessions, and was much stronger than the colored man. It was only in the last few seconds of the tenth round that the Dixie Kid got over a few hard body blows, but it was too late for a rally.

Grim Beaten by Fitzgerald.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Joe Grim, the pride of Little Italy, the man with the iron jaw, fought Jack Fitzgerald, the West Philadelphia heavyweight in the wind-up at the Bastian Athletic Club to-night. Fitzgerald is of Celtic origin, and at the end of the bout it was the consensus of opinion that Ireland had triumphed over Italy. Fitzgerald tried his best to win the bout by the knockout route, but Grim either covered up or kept his jaw out of the damage zone. The clubhouse was crowded with Grim's countrymen, and it acted as a stimulus for him to do his best. He fought better than at any time since returning from Australia, but his blows could not get past Fitzgerald's awkward defense.

Sharkey's Boxing Card To-morrow.

There will be some real boxing at the regular weekly entertainment of the Sharkey Club to-morrow night. For the star bout and the semi-wind-up Manager Buckley has arranged two classy scraps that will appeal to the members. Two local bantams, Young Wagner and Jimmy Dunn, will meet in the main event for ten rounds. These youngsters are clever and fast boxers, and will furnish a corking battle. This will be Dunn's last match in this city before going to New Orleans to meet Jim Kenrick, the English champion. In the semi-final Young Healy of Newark, who put up such a strong bout at the last show, will take on Richy Ryan for six rounds. There will be four more bouts between good boys.

McGovern and Coster To-night.

There will be plenty of action when Phil McGovern and Joe Coster get together to-night at the Fairmount A. C. Those boys have met three times in the last three years, and a close fight has been the result each time. Last Winter at the Bedford A. C. McGovern shaded Coster in what is regarded to be the best bout ever seen between bantams. To-night there will surely be a repetition of this fight. Coster is a better boy now. He has trained at Lakewood with Owen Moran. An excellent card of preliminaries is offered and Fred Gunther and Janus McManus meet again in a six-round bout. Last Tuesday McManus had a lead until put to sleep in the second round. In another six-rounder Jack Curley will box with Young Sam Langford.

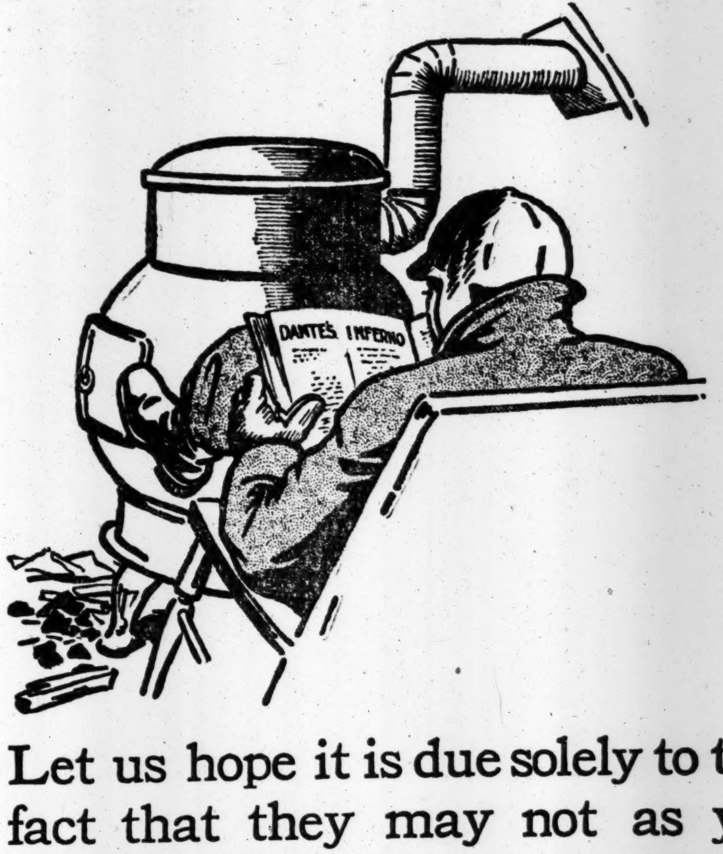
Harvey to Meet Goldman.

A ten-round bout between Charley Harvey of Chicago and Charley Goldman of New York will be the feature event at the opening stag of the Garland Athletic Club at Jackson Casino in the Bronx on Wednesday, Sept. 28. Frank Kenny, the "Wild Bronx Irishman," will meet "Battling" Jack Nelson in a ten-round semi-final. Jackson Casino is the largest hall in the Bronx and will seat over 3,000 fans.

Attell Declines Wolgast Match.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 19.—Abe Attell, who is in Milwaukee, denies having been matched to fight Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion, at San Francisco on Oct. 31. Attell says Wolgast wants 40 per cent. of the gross receipts to Attell's 25. The only condition on which Attell is willing to meet the champion is on an even division of the purse.

Why not the heat that cheers



There are still a few people who consider it necessary to "mortify the flesh" by meekly submitting to the discomfort and absolute torture of trying to keep warm by old-fashioned heaters, which greedily take all the coal you can crowd into them, but give out the smallest results.

Let us hope it is due solely to the fact that they may not as yet have heard of the comfort-giving AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

AMERICAN Radiators and IDEAL Boilers don't ask for much coal, but make that coal give up a lot of heat. These outfits distribute that heat equally throughout the building, keeping your back warm as well as your face—no matter whether you sit in one part of the room or the other. IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators afford the only means of supplying clean, healthful heat—no poisonous coal-gases or ash-dust can possibly reach the living-rooms, as all the parts are perfectly machined and screw tightly together.

A No. A-241 IDEAL Boiler and 461 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $215, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage. At this price the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include cost of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which installation is extra and varies according to climatic and other conditions.

ADVANTAGE 19:—IDEAL Boilers are cleverly provided with smoke-hoods (to which smoke-pipe connects), which are fitted with check-draft dampers. The check-draft lids are as sensitively balanced as a pair of scales, automatically controlling the rate of combustion. Loss of heat up the chimney is thereby avoided, and the fire regulated correctly for either mild or severe weather.

Ask for the book "Ideal Heating" telling the full advantages it will pay you big to know. The first cost is all the cost there is—thereafter IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators are a lasting, paying investment. Put into old buildings—farm or city—as easily as in new. Write, 'phone, or call today. Our free valuable catalog and information put you under no obligation whatsoever to buy.

GIANTS AND YANKS TO PLAY NEXT MONTH

Official Announcement Not Likely to be Made Until Western Clubs Return Home.

New York baseball fans who have been keenly anticipating a post season series of games between the Giants and Yankees will probably have their wish gratified. Although no official announcement has been made in the matter, THE TIMES learned yesterday from an authoritative source that plans have been tentatively made for a series of seven games.

Some time ago it was stated that Mr. Brush wished to hold the matter under consideration for awhile, but it is stated that Mr. Brush was just as anxious for such a series as his players, the Yankees, and the public are. When the National Commission met in Cincinnati a couple of weeks ago to award players to Major League clubs through the drafting system, it was said that Mr. Brush commissioned President Lynch of the National League to make partial arrangements with Mr. Farrell, President of the Yankees. Mr. Farrell has been strong for post-season games, so Mr. Lynch had an easy task to perform.

The reason for withholding official announcement of the proposed post-season games may be because Mr. Brush prefers to wait until after the Giants have finished with the Western clubs, and as the series would not start until about Oct. 15 there remains ample time to make the announcement.

If. Mr. Brush and Mr. Farrell have agreed upon a series of games the National Baseball Commission will have charge of the arrangements, the same as it does of the world's championship series. The plans for the New York series could be made at the same meeting of the commission assembled to prepare for the world's games.

It has been said that Charley Ebbetts wants his Brooklyn Club considered as eligible for the championship of New York, but the Yanks and Giants may tell the Superbas to get a reputation first and then make it still stronger against Brooklyn by confining the series to major League clubs on Manhattan Island.

In the event these games are played the public would prefer the Polo Grounds as the place, because they are accessible to more persons than the American League Park, which is too high and cold for baseball in October.

Because of the sudden drop in the temperature yesterday, and with the sun obscured by threatening clouds, games scheduled to be played at the Polo Grounds, Washington Park, and in Boston were postponed. The Giants and the Cardinals will play a double-header this afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock, and Brooklyn and Chicago will hook up in a double-header, too, at Washington Park. New York and St. Louis have an open date to-morrow, and they will utilize it by playing the game originally scheduled for this afternoon.

President Herrmann of the Cincinnati Base Ball Club and Chairman of the National Commission, has issued a duplicate of a letter he wrote to Business Manager Frank Bancroft of Cincinnati concerning the playing of "barnstorming" tours. He says it has long been the practice of major League clubs to pick out about fourteen or fifteen players and go on short tours after the season is ended in order to add to the finances of the players. Herrmann points out the injustice of the practice to players who are not invited to go, and then tells Bancroft that if the Cincinnati Club wishes to go on any trips of this kind it will have to take all the players and divide the money received among them all. He says by those "barnstorming" tours the minor league owners have been drawn into trouble with their patrons caused by the advertisements that such and such a club would play in that city with all its famous stars, and the club then playing the games without several of its better known players.

In order to get within the forty player limit set by the National Commission, the Cleveland Baseball Club has released four players to the Columbus Club of the American Association. They are Catcher Harry Bemis, who has been one of the club's regular catchers since 1902, and three recruits, Pitcher Riley of Lima, Outfielder Shotton of Wheeling, and Catcher Fohl of Akron, all secured by draft this Summer.

Changes in National League.

The following bulletin of contracts and releases in the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs has been approved and promulgated by President T. J. Lynch:

Contract—With Pittsburg, John F. Kading.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—The White Sox won from the New York Yankees to-day 1 to 0, and the defeat gave them a jolt that may enable the Detroits to pass them to-morrow in the race for second place.

Fred Olmstead and Jack Quinn hooked up in the opening game of the final New York series. The hits were five to three in favor of New York, but two of New York's five were weak propositions and the Sox earned a lot they didn't get. Chase took good, bad, and indifferent throws with his usual grace and nonchalance, but his performance was not nearly as flashy as that of his three helpers. Knight and Laporte pulled off great stunts, and two of them, the two most impossible ones, not only robbed us of base knocks, but of runs as well. And Jimmy Austin with a quick recovery of a carrom shot by Olmstead off Quinn's glove took away from Frederick a single he wanted and needed. Olmstead was in a desperately tight place in the fourth inning, and Harry Lord got him out of it. Lord had two hard chances in succession, and if he had missed either of them the Yanks might have scored.

The run that settled it came in the Sox's third inning, in which round the Sox did their best work against Quinn. The party who started the winning rally and scored the winning tally was James Block of Milwaukee, Wis. James was celebrating a sort of anniversary, or monthiversary. To-day was the 19th day of September, and on the 19th day of October James is going to take unto himself a helpmeet. At least that's what White, Walsh, Sullivan, Dougherty, and other married Sox call her. Anyhow, Mr. Block was celebrating something and his clean rap to centre in the third gave the Sox a chance to celebrate their fifth straight win.

One of the Yanks' two opportunities came in the first inning. Daniels singled between Zeider and Lord and Wolter walked. Chase gave one of his hit-and-run signs, and when he missed the pitch Block flagged Daniels at third base. Wolter taking second. Chase then fouled to Mullen and Parent tossed out Knight. Wolter opened the fourth inning with a single and stole after Chase had flied to Dougherty. Knight floated a low one over Lord. Zeider might have caught it, but he thought Dougherty was going to and stopped. Pat didn't get up in time and it fell safe. Wolter was afraid to go any further than third base because the ball was close to that bag, but Knight kept on running and slid out of Parent's reach at second base. Thus there was the spectacle of a runner advancing from second to third on a two-base hit. Laporte lifted a foul which didn't attract much attention until the bunch saw Lord going after it. No one thought he would catch it, but he did, and at the risk of his neck held the ball a couple of inches from the stand where the cement and steel are hardest. Then he picked Cree's roller off the foul line and shot it over in front of that fleet bird for the third out. Olmie didn't need any assistance thereafter. He did most of the work himself, and did it to perfection.

Block hit safely over second in the third inning, Olmstead's bunt went up in the air, and Austin caught it. When Lord lifted a single over first base Block hastened to third. A pass to Zeider filled the sacks and Meloan was up. Molly's production wasn't a base hit, but it was every bit as good, being a slow one between Chase and Quinn, on which it was impossible to peg out Block at the plate. Hal and Jack quarreled over possession of the ball. Jack won the argument and tossed to Laporte, who covered first base in time to retire Molly. But that didn't matter, for Block had counted. Dougherty tried his hardest to bring in the other two, but Knight made a swell stop back of second and hurled to Chase for the third out.

The sale of Second Baseman French and First Baseman Gandil of Chicago to Montreal was announced to-day.

Eleven-Inning Tie in Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 19.—To-day's game between Washington and Detroit was called at the end of the eleventh inning on account of darkness. The Tigers chased Gray by getting five hits and five runs in the fifth inning and the lead looked safe with another added in the eighth. But Works was hit hard in the eighth and ninth innings and the score was tied. Washington had sixteen men left on bases. The score:

OLD PLAYER PASSES AWAY.

Urell, Who Was George Wright's Teammate in Washington, Dies in Ireland.

In the death of Col. M. Emmett Urell, which occurred in Ireland two weeks ago, a famous baseball player of the sixties passed away. He was one of the leaders of the game in the old historic White Lot, Washington, D. C., when the Nationals of that city were regarded as one of the strongest teams in the country.

Urell played second base on the old Union team of 1867, acting as Captain, which was looked upon at that time as a post of great honor. After playing with the Unions several seasons he joined the Nationals, and became one of the leading spirits of the club. He was a member of the Olympics of Washington, of which Nick Young was at the head.

In those days Mike Urell, with his flowing whiskers, facing Col. Jones, the pitcher of the Nationals, who also wore a full beard, presented a picture that attracted attention. It was no uncommon thing, however, in the old days to see bearded men play ball, while the umpires usually appeared with beavers on their heads.

Urell continued his interest in the game throughout his entire life, and always argued that the game was just as good and strong in the old days, when "first bounce was out," as it is at present. He was a sure catch, and as a batsman ranked high, being headed only by George Wright and George Fox, the shortstop and third baseman of the Nationals, respectively.

American League Bulletin.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—President B. B. Johnson of the American League to-day announced the following list of players released and signed:

Batterman's Team Defeats Namm's.

The team of H. Batterman Company took the measure of A. I. Namm & Sons' representatives very neatly on the diamond at Olympia Field Sunday morning, the score being 6 to 2. Reisgle, pitcher of the Battermans, had the opposing batsmen at his mercy, striking out ten and allowing only three safe hits, two of these being of the scratch variety. The game decided the department store championship of Brooklyn, and also puts the Namm nine out of the running for the Greater New York department store championship, which will be played off by the teams of H. Batterman Company and O'Neill-Adams on next Saturday afternoon.

THE ABBE BEST IN $5,000 STAKE RACE

Geers Drives to Victory in Feature Event at the Columbus Grand Circuit Meeting.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 19.—Buffalo-owned pacers gathered in the two stakes which made up the major portion of the programme for the opening day of the last Grand Circuit meeting of the year. Both were odds-on favorites, Ess H. Kay took the Board of Trade event from Merry Widow, but lost the third heat to her, breaking after the turn for home had been made.

The Abbe landed his tenth straight race when he won the Hotel Hartman $5,000 stake from Evelyn W., the Cleveland mare that beat him in one heat this year. At times the Geers entry was hard pressed by his rival, being lapped for the greater part of the last hundred yards in the second mile. The final quarter of the third mile was timed officially in 0:28 and the last half in 1:01¼.

General H. easily won the 2:10 trot, Ora Bellini and Direct Tone being unable to get to him when they tried in the stretch. Independence Boy, Illinois bred, but owned in Columbus, was about an equal choice with Dickie C. for the 2:11 pace. He moved away from his opponents when the lead was desired and finished first each time with plenty to spare. Summaries:

Danny Maher's "Champagne" Record.

Danny Maher, the American jockey, who recently piloted L. de Rothschild's Pietri to victory in the Champagne Stakes at Doncaster, England, has a fine record for that race. Only once since 1902 has he failed to finish in the first three. This was in 1903, when he was last of five runners on Cinquefoil. In 1904 his mount Verdiana finished in a dead heat with Galangal, and in 1905 he was second to Achilles on Victorious. In 1906 he rode Bezonian into third place behind Slieve Galleon and Uly Pet II. In 1907 he won on Sir D. Cooper's Leshia, but in the following year his mount Princess de Gallee was beaten by Duke Michael. Last season Maher won on Lord Rosebery's Neil Gow, and this year he just got home from Wrinkler on Pietri.

Track Flooded, No Racing.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 19.—Because of heavy rains which flooded the track, the opening of the Fall racing season in the West, scheduled for to-day, was postponed until to-morrow. The postponement of the races necessitated the throwing out of to-day's entries and the reopening of the entry list to the same races. The Board of Directors of the Lexington race track announced that the meeting will be run according to the schedule except that each day's card will be one day late.

Vanderbilt Horses First and Third.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The Prix de la Marche, for two-year-olds, $800, distance seven and a half furlongs, was run at St. Cloud to-day and won by W. K. Vanderbilt's Lapire. In the Prix des Chantepies, a selling race for $800, distance ten furlongs, Mr. Vanderbilt's Sampietre finished third.

Old Mare Peg Woffington Killed.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 19.—Peg Woffington, by Longfellow, out of Ballet, and one of the oldest of the famous brood mares in America, becoming frightened to-day by lightning at Major T. C. McDowell's Ashland farm, ran into a tree and killed herself.

New York Printers' Nine Beaten.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19.—The New York Union Printers' baseball team were defeated by the nine from Richmond's Typographical Union Printers' baseball team was defeated The metropolitan rooters were numerous and vociferous, and were surprised when "Big Six" was defeated by No. 90. Attendance, 1,000.

Banquet for Wilkesbarre Team.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., Sept. 19.—The Wilkesbarre Baseball Club, champions of the New York State League, were guests at a banquet here to-night. During the evening Owners Clymer and Turkes presented each player with a gold watch, with an inscription on the back appropriate to winning the flag during the present season.

Olean Shooters Win Trophy.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Six teams of the Third Regiment competed for the Hoffman trophy at Bushnell's Basin yesterday. The shoot was won by the team representing Company I of Olean. The conditions of the match were similar to brigade regulations, except that but three men were allowed on each team. High scores were made by Sergt. H. R. Freeman of Company I, Olean. The Olean team's total was 381; Company H, Rochester, 375; Company C, Syracuse, 373; Company L, Elmira, 360; Company G, Rochester, 358, and Company A, Rochester, 345.

ON THE TENNIS COURTS.

Women lawn tennis players acquitted themselves splendidly in the opening rounds of the open championship tournament yesterday on the courts of the Montclair Athletic Club, Montclair, N. J. Interest on the part of the large and fashionable gallery became divided between Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, the National indoor champion, and Miss Frances Johnstone, the young Smith College champion, while Miss Marie Wagner, who last week won the New Jersey State title for the third consecutive time, and Miss Clara Kuttroff of the West Side Tennis Club, engaged in attractive matches in which they relatively outclassed their opponents.

Mrs. Schmitz and Miss Johnstone both reached the third round. There they met in the stirring match of the day, Mrs. Schmitz winning by the score of 6—3, 6—4.

The women's doubles, with sixteen pairs, will begin this afternoon, and also the mixed doubles, with twenty-four pairs. The summaries:

Women's Championship Singles—First Round.—Miss Marina Marling defeated Miss Connolly, 6—2, 6—1; Miss Edith Sheldon defeated Mrs. Edes Johnson, 5—7, 6—4, 6—1; Miss B. Varying direction and changing pace, Barnon S. Prentice, the former Harvard champion and Captain, won the cup and championship in the lawn tennis singles on the turf courts of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club. He defeated John Victor, 6—2, 6—4, 6—2. Paired with Reeve Schley in the doubles, Prentice scored that title. In the final they met Arthur Cumnock and Gardnier Miller, defeating them, 6—1, 6—1, 6—4, by their smashing and general steadiness.

Showing as much speed on the court as he had in winning Olympic athletic championships, Paul Pilgrim won the honors in the handicap lawn singles yesterday on the courts of the New York Athletic Club, at Travers Island. In the final, with the mark of plus 15, he defeated the scratch player, Marley, 6—1, 6—3, 6—3. The other events will be continued this week. The summaries:

Five Hundred Dogs for Bench Show.

The first and most important of the Fall open-air bench shows will be held on the grounds of the Whippany River Club, Morristown, N. J., Friday and Saturday. With over five hundred dogs to be benched the show will be second only to the National exhibition at Madison Square Garden. Chairman John G. Bates of the Bench Committee has completed arrangements for benching the dogs, and many champions will be judged. One of the most important breeds is Airedale terriers, which have seventeen classes, while several other popular breeds will be well represented.

Two More Vanderbilt Entries.

Announcement was made yesterday by the Motor Cups Holding Company of the formal entry of two Corbin cars in the Vanderbilt Cup race. Both cars are entered by the Corbin Motor Vehicle Corporation of New Britain, Conn. One car will be driven by Joe Matson, winner in the Massapequa sweepstakes last year. The other car, which is entered in the Wheatly Hills sweepstakes, will be driven by Alvin Maisonville. Both drivers are now at the Corbin camp, in Hicksville.

MR. GAYNOR AND THE GOVERNORSHIP.

It is practically certain that Mayor GAYNOR will be nominated for Governor by the Democrats if he is physically able to undergo the labor of the campaign. It is the opinion of Democratic leaders that the Mayor's health is now the only doubtful factor. Wise considerations of his own interest, of the interests of the State, the city, and of the Democratic Party demand that the nomination be not urged upon him until it is certain that he has so far advanced toward recovery that no risk would be involved either to him or to the party of which he would be the candidate. This campaign must be made, of course, as all campaigns are made. It will be necessary for the candidate to undertake and to endure without flinching much arduous toil. He will have to put before the people in many speeches throughout the State his views and intentions. He will have to meet not only the expectations of his friends but the attacks of his adversaries. For all these tasks a man's full strength will be required. These considerations, of course, will be carefully and candidly weighed by Mayor GAYNOR, and by his medical and political advisers.

If it shall be determined by him and by them that he could safely make the campaign, he will almost certainly be nominated, for the simple and sufficient reason that he would get more votes than any other candidate the party could name. By a process infinitely surer and more convincing than any direct primary, Mayor GAYNOR has been already designated as the "people's choice," which is something we hear about more often than we see. He has been designated as Mr. TILDEN and Mr. CLEVELAND were designated for higher political honors after they had already demonstrated in office the possession of those qualities that command public confidence. Uprightness, ability, efficiency, these have been exhibited by Mayor GAYNOR as they were exhibited by TILDEN and by CLEVELAND. Wise party leaders esteem it a great piece of good fortune when the availability of a candidate is thus unmistakably demonstrated in advance.

Mr. GAYNOR's nomination would show that the party in this State is moved by the new-born spirit of the Democracy, that spirit which led to the nomination of Mr. PLAISTED in Maine, Judge BALDWIN in Connecticut, and WOODROW WILSON in New Jersey. It would not only inspire the party here, but it would be in a high degree helpful to the Democrats throughout the country. It is well known in every State that Mr. GAYNOR has been conspicuously successful in the administration of the trust confided to him by the people of New York last year. His official career has been closely watched, it has been warmly approved. His nomination for the Governorship of New York would be welcomed and applauded all over the country.

The objection is heard that New York City needs him, that he ought to serve out here his full term. The answer to that is sufficiently obvious. In the Executive Chamber at Albany Mr. GAYNOR would continue to be in the service of this city, which is half the State. He might serve its interests in many ways that are not now open to him. Besides, is it to be supposed that anybody would view with apprehension the prospect that Mr. MITCHEL would continue to hold the office of Mayor and discharge its functions until his successor were elected? Mr. MITCHEL has begun as Mr. GAYNOR began, by showing capacity and efficiency. That objection, we are confident, would not suffice to prevent the nomination of Mr. GAYNOR. Nothing, as it now appears, will prevent his nomination unless it be the condition of his health.

RATE REGULATION IN NEBRASKA.

The Nebraska Railway Commission has just given an illustration of how it proposes to regulate rates and encourage the construction of railways in that State. It has allowed the Union Stockyards to double their rates, and has ordered the railways to absorb the charges. That is, the railways are ordered to pay the enlarged rates of the stockyard, and are not to be allowed to collect the sums from the shippers.

The order is confined to Nebraska, necessarily, but all rates through Nebraska must be affected, and to that extent Nebraska is regulating inter-State commerce in a manner more satisfactory to shippers and to the stockyards than to the railways. This is all very well so long as Nebraska has all the railways it needs, or possibly more than it thinks ought to make a profit in the State. But supposably Nebraska has not reached its full growth, and may come to want more railways. How can it expect to get them if those already existing, and beyond the power of escaping their tormentors, receive such treatment?

DR. HILL ON CONSERVATION.

If our account of them is correct, the remarks of the Rev. Dr. JOHN WESLEY HILL on conservation, made in the course of his sermon last Sunday, seem out of order and unconstitutional. The principles of Dr. HILL's creed are imbedded in the Bible, we believe. Yet he is reported to have said:

> Natural resources cannot be exhausted. Let us cut down our forests. We can grow them as fast as they will be needed.
> Whenever one necessity is exhausted God shows us another natural product to take its place. When tallow candles became difficult of supply, natural oil was discovered. When we began to worry about this giving out gas was produced. Finally came electricity.

And so on. But can Dr. HILL have forgotten the feeding of the five thousand with five loaves and two fishes? Despite the miracle of sufficient supply, was not the Biblical injunction, "Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing may be lost"?

What about old NOAH's conservation ark? In time of plenty did not JOSEPH store up food for seven years to meet the lean years of famine? Did the parable of the ninety and nine sheep teach that the hundredth sheep need not be be looked after because "we have others"? The woman who swept her house for the lost piece of silver was not reproved for failing to trust in nature's bountiful supplies of silver ores to recompense her. And did not the wise virgins provide for a future need?

The Prodigal Son has become a byword through the centuries for one who wastes his substance. The parable of the talents was another preaching of conservation, not waste. And we direct the reverend Doctor's attention to the text of Deut., xx., 19, which seems to deprecate the ruthless cutting down of trees, while the awfulness of destroying the choice cedars is depicted in Jeremiah, xxii., 7.

The Bible is the Constitution of the Church. Clearly, Dr. HILL's doctrine is unconstitutional.

LABOR'S NEW EMBLEM.

The Federated Labor Party—which should be distinguished from the Federation of Labor—has adopted for its emblem a figure of Atlas, with the legend "Labor supports the world," and announces its intention of entering politics. The grievance of this new political party is that dividends on watered stock absorb the resources which it would like to see disbursed in raising wages. This it intends to promote by the election of lawmakers who will legislate in the interest of unionists instead of corporations.

Labor does support the world, but that is far from saying that trades unionists support it. The idea of this new party that corporations get more than they should is fairly matched by the other idea that organized labor is also getting a good deal. The great majority of Americans, meaning those who are neither wealthy corporation malefactors nor trades unionists, are of the opinion that there is little to choose between them as a means of extorting all that the traffic will bear, and are resolved impartially that neither deserves nor should receive any legal favors whatever. The laws of this country are for all, neither for capital nor for labor, and one sort of favoritism is as obnoxious as another.

There is every reason why the industrial worker should exercise his suffrage according to his views of public affairs, and according to his interest in them. But that is different from the organization of a party which should represent a class and strive for its interests as something apart from the general interests. The result of turning the hand of labor against all other interests would be that all others would and should unite in turning their hands against labor. There have been other attempts to entangle American labor in politics, and they have resulted so uniformly in ill-success that it has been thought settled that labor would profit more by opportunism, by taking advantage of its balance of power, than by separate organization. The resolution to the contrary is especially inconsistent with the teachings of the President of the Federation of Labor, and is a symptom of that restlessness which is characteristic of the world's labor at the present time. The workmen who cannot endure the laws of their own country no more can endure their own laws, and are repudiating their leaders and the rules of their order in several countries. The repudiation of law, political or industrial, is something which ought not to be encouraged.

Especially ought not this tendency to be encouraged when it is based on false premises and alleges as grievance what is necessary for the common good. The Federated Labor Party while claiming "common justice" protests that it does not receive it because the courts and the parties of the country consider property rights alone, and sustain them by injunctions against the right of labor to strike for its industrial interests. There is no such thing as a law against strikes according to law, nor of injunctions against such strikes as alone laboring men ought to engage in. There is an injunction against a strike in Ohio at the present time. A party organized to prevent such injunctions could only succeed at such an expense of the public interests that all parties ought to oppose it.

It is true that business men disagree with trades unionists in the belief that they have a property right in their business, and that the courts have protected business men against ruin by the boycott. Is the Federated Labor Party organized to support the boycott? In that case only unionists would be able to exist, and their edicts would displace the laws. What the country might expect from such a régime is sufficiently indicated by cases daily occurring throughout the world to illustrate what labor thinks is suitable defense of property right in a job. The other day the ear of a "scab" was sent to an employer in a bottle with a threat against his life. In France, within a week, a "scab" was kicked to death, and the cable dispatch says:

> The union, in solemn conclave, voted to cause the death of DONGE and two other coal handlers who had refused to join the strike, and at the same time agreed to care for the families of the assassins if the latter were detected and punished.

No unionist would claim that the law would support capital in any such assertion of the "rights" of capital. Unionists should get rid of the idea that they have rights to their jobs which they deny that business men possess in their investments. The organization of a party to support such views at the polls is not welcome to those who wish their country a safe deliverance from the contests between labor and capital.

OPENING THE CAMPAIGN OF 1912.

It is suggested that the Republican Convention of this State ought not to indorse the Administration of President TAFT on the ground that it is premature to open the campaign of 1912. The Republican conventions of other States have not thought it unsuitable to indorse the President elected by the party. Certainly the suggestion of prematurity cannot be urged by any supporters of the idea of indorsing the new nationalism.

If the Republicans of New York should not see their way to follow the examples of other Republican States, at least they might find a way to imitate that other example, even more generally set, of denouncing the new brand of discord hurled into the camp of friend and foe. As between a ringing denunciation of attacks upon our institutions and the award of a due meed of praise to the Nation's head, there is little choice. Indeed the one would well serve as a substitute for the other, for the conditions are such that dispraise of the new nationalism is equivalent to praise of the President.

PROFESSORS' SALARIES.

Many college instructors, and some college professors, would consider themselves lucky if they got the wages of a union bricklayer. They cannot marry and support their wives properly. Unless their wives have money they cannot bring up families. Therefore the vote of the Yale Corporation yesterday to increase the salaries of the university's teaching staff, as advocated by President TAFT and President HADLEY, was a matter of simple justice.

But if the recommendations of the Yale President's last report were adopted by the corporation, its vote will not help the instructors or assistant professors much. The instructors begin with a thousand dollars a year, receiving for the fourth year's service a maximum of $1,600; assistant professors, beginning with $1,800, creep up to a maximum of $2,500. The rate of pay for instructors is as high as prevails in other universities. Dr. HADLEY argues that if, after four years' service, an instructor is not good enough to promote to an assistant professorship he ought to be encouraged to go somewhere else. As for the assistant professor, he would raise the rate for the first appointment from $1,800 to $2,000, but, with some exceptions, would let the maximum remain where it is. As individuals, he thinks, the assistant professors deserve a higher maximum. But it would be bad policy for the university to give it to them.

The policy should be not to make subordinate positions too attractive. A man for whom there happens to be no position at the top of his profession in a given university might better avail himself of a broader field than be tempted by a comparatively high salary to remain there all his life as a subordinate.

There is a philosophy in these recommendations that is both shrewd and kindly. It places the premium upon promotion. The policy might be adopted in other forms of business than that of running a college. But, while preserving its marked differences in pay for grades of service, ought not the whole scale of college salaries to be pitched higher? The best brains of the country are going into business, because in business the scale is pitched higher. The teaching staffs of colleges ought to command the services of the most highly educated and efficient men.

THE COUNTRY'S HOUSECLEANING.

In Ashtabula, Ohio, President GEORGE AUNGER of the City Council has been convicted for solicitation of a bribe of $1,200.

Mayor CHARLES A. UZZELL of Granite City, Ill., has been convicted on four counts for taking money to protect operators of slot machines and gamblers.

In Grand Rapids, Mich., the charter of the Hydraulic Water Company has been annulled because for sixty years it failed to furnish the city with pure spring water, as agreed.

In Indianapolis, Ind., a special court calendar was established to dispose of a multitude of "graft" cases.

The Municipal Affairs Committee of Buffalo, N. Y., showed that boilers for which contracts were let at $3,200 each were repaired at $4,800.

Mayor WHITE of Lowell, Mass., is serving a prison sentence for conspiracy to bribe Aldermen.

Hoboken's affairs are being overhauled. Already overdrafts of $211,200 have been found in excess of a $650,000 budget.

AARON P. HUFFMEIER, formerly County Supervisor of Schenectady, N. Y., was found guilty with five others of presenting fraudulent bills. Master plumbers, notaries public, and County Supervisors were concerned in this work.

Utica, N. Y., has sent ex-Chairmen of Republican and Democratic County Committees to Auburn Prison and an Under-Sheriff to jail because of false accountings of exorbitant bills.

Norfolk, Va., has uncovered a secret contract between the Board of Control and the Norfolk County Water Company.

FRED LIED, formerly of the Columbus (Ohio) Board of Control, is serving four years in the penitentiary for accepting a bribe from NELSON CANNON of the Trinidad Paving Company of Cleveland.

Omitting the cases of the greater "graft" investigations in Boston, Albany, the Boroughs of New York, Harrisburg, Chicago, Springfield, Ill., Pittsburg, St. Louis, and San Francisco, these are examples of what is taking place in the counties and smaller municipalities of the country. The doings of the Legislatures are being pitilessly scrutinized. The business methods of the cities are being overhauled and reformed. Everywhere the big grafters and the little grafters are going to jail.

Are the States, counties, and municipalities helpless? Have they need of a "steward" at Washington who shall stretch forth a protecting arm over their affairs? Do they hail the "new nationalism," which is "impatient of the impotence which springs from the overdivision of Government powers"?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

His Jest Went All Wrong.

If the Pittsburgers knew a little more about other things than hardware and the various metals out of which it is made—if they had more appreciation of humor and sarcasm—they might have understood what the Rev. Mr. BOORD meant when he offered to sell two of his children. Of course, he never dreamed of really doing it, and the elaborate proclamation in which he listed the capacities and values of his interesting infants should have revealed to almost anybody, one would think, that its author meant something quite different from what he said.

What Mr. BOORD did mean, presumably and even obviously—outside of Pittsburg—was that his parishioners weren't paying him enough salary to enable him to support his family, and that unless they gave him more he would have to get rid of some of it. When HENRY WARD BEECHER "sold" a little negro girl in Plymouth Church, he laid himself open to as much denunciation as Mr. BOORD seemingly invited, but everybody looked below the surface of the transaction and the money needed for the child's support in something entirely different from slavery was at once forthcoming. Perhaps the Pittsburg parson has heard of that once famous but now almost forgotten transaction and thought he could safely adapt it to his own more or less desperate necessities.

That he narrowly escaped lynching only shows how dangerous it is to jest on serious matters. Curiously enough, Mr. BOORD himself seems to have been so much frightened or confused by the unexpected outcome of his attempt to secure a "raise" without asking for it in so many words that he made no effort to substitute the right for the wrong interpretation of what he had done. Therein, perhaps, he was judicious, for the people who raged at the joke they took for earnest might have raged still more if charged with stupidity as well as niggardliness, and that is what any explanation of the auction proposal would have amounted to. Pittsburg has been so often and so thoroughly "surveyed" of late that its temper is irritable and hasty. It is in no mood for the figuring out of complicated examples of the humorous, and it has been the object of so many direct accusations that it has no patience for oblique ones.

Flying Over the Alps.

With the aeroplane in its present stage of development, attempts to fly over the Alps are so full of peril that the men who make them are evidently more eager for unthinking applause than for the deserved admiration received by those who are trying in sensible ways to advance the conquest of the air. Aviation at its best is sufficiently dangerous to satisfy any except the morbid hunger for the thrills that come from the risking of life, but to seek a place for flight where for most of the distance between point of departure and of destination an enforced descent means next to certain death is little short of madness.

Traversing the air above the Simplon Pass means the encountering of strong and irregular winds at a height where the aeroplane is at the very limit of its present efficiency. The engine must work at top speed to maintain elevation, for the tenuity of the atmosphere works against both the supporting power of the planes and the pushing power of the propeller. The cold, too, interferes with the flow of the lubricating oil and renders slow and uncertain the vaporizing of the gasoline. The chances of accident are therefore vastly increased. The aviator who above a flat country is seeking to establish a height record need not mind them much, since if his engine stops he has a wide range of choice in selecting a safe landing place. He who is passing over many miles of precipitous mountains is lost if he cannot go on, for, though at a great elevation above the sea, there is but little distance between him and the rocks, and he must alight where chance, not he, determines.

But there! the airmen know all this much better than anybody else, and they seem to enjoy the taking of needless risks. Plain flying already seems tame to them—and to the people who pay gate money, unfortunately—and at every aviation meeting the applause and the big rewards are for the daredevil who plunges from the clouds to within a foot of the ground before he turns upward again, or who misses obstacles by the narrowest margin, not of safety, but of danger. This is to make the aeroplane into a piece of circus apparatus instead of the means of aerial transportation it ought to be, and is a great pity from many and important points of view. That the aviators, however, have the defects of their qualities is not remarkable, and to scold them for it is a waste of time—almost as much of a waste as it is to scold the WRIGHTS for not having the defects of their qualities.

Vacations Fall or Summer.

We have printed gladly enough letters from several correspondents who have eloquently described the charms of the country in Autumn. Enthusiastic as they were, they did not in any degree exaggerate the glories of September and October, and whoever is free to enjoy them is indeed enviable by us city folk.

As arguments, however, for taking vacations in the Fall rather than in the Summer these descriptions are more accurate than relevant, since they ignore several important, and usually decisive, facts. For one thing, it is in most lines of business more convenient to have employés away at midsummer than in any other part of the year, as then industrial and commercial activity naturally tends to slow down. In the Fall there is much to do, and of course it must be done. Hence the man who hasn't taken his vacation when he could get it is apt to find that later he cannot get one at all.

It must be remembered, too, that even though the hottest weather is not the best of times in which to play, it is also the worst in which to work, and that therefore the Summer vacationist counts among the joys of his release the discomforts and exhaustions which he escapes. So, too, though the country is fine indeed in Autumn, the city is not such a bad place then, either.

Taking everything into account, most people take their vacations in the Summer for the excellent reason that it is the best time to take them.

CONTRACTED IN SCHOOLS.

In Contagious Diseases We Pay for Public Education.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is generally little realized that the price we pay for our public school education is the perpetuation of contagious diseases. This includes not only those usually known as contagious, such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, and others, but also the acute diseases of the respiratory tract, influenza or "grippe," bronchitis, tonsilitis, coryza, &c. The seriousness of these, on account of their frequent sequelae, pneumonia, acute articular rheumatism and its heart complications, inflammation of the middle ear and its dangers, and infections of other organs, is not generally understood.

Every mother knows that when her children begin to go to school they begin to have the contagious diseases of childhood, first in those who attend school, and brought by them to those at home. Statistics show that the rise and decline of these diseases correspond to the opening and closing of the public schools.

This state of things is not irremediable. It continues because of the inefficiency of our medical school inspection. This is improving year by year under the supervision of our Health Department, in whose management are some of the ablest sanitarians of the world, but they are hampered by the fact that the public is not sufficiently educated in this matter to be willing to pay for a really efficient system of school inspection. The details of this will be worked out just as soon as the public is ready to pay for it, and it will be worth to us ten, yea a hundred, times its cost.

It will need a large force of physicians and nurses especially trained for and giving their whole time to this work.

The unfortunate system of medical inspection in the Health Department, whereby this most important work is done by physicians meagerly paid and with little hope of preferment, who must of necessity give their best energies to building up their private practice, has been recently noticed in your columns.

It is not too much to hope that our able Health Department, if unrestricted by lack of means, would in no very great length of time be able even to put out of existence some of our most dreaded contagious diseases. Oh, if only some of our wasted money could be directed to this end! W. C. DEMING, M. D.

LESSONS ON THE TARIFF.

Committee of Reform Club Has Exhausted Its Funds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The chances for doing effective work for tariff reform were never brighter than at present. Events have allied themselves with our cause. The people are groaning under the yoke imposed upon them by the tariff-protected trusts. Their indignation is shown in the sweeping victories gained at the polls by the opponents of the "standpat" party. Even President Taft has been driven by the force of circumstances to promise speedy revision of "the best tariff we have ever had."

The people, therefore, are in the mood to listen and to do some straight thinking on the tariff. Between now and election day is the psychological time for approaching them with telling facts and clinching arguments. They can only be reached through the newspaper press. We have been carrying on this method of propaganda for several months, but our funds are now exhausted. The Tariff Reform Committee is in urgent need of money to enable it to continue its campaign of instruction through the press. The work it can do is limited only by the funds at its disposal.

While we expect to work continuously from now until 1912, we hope to be able to greatly increase our work between now and next November. We are fighting the battle of the consumers and we believe we are going to win. But we need the "sinews of war" to enable us to strike effectively as opportunity offers. We must not forget that our opponents have the moneyed interests behind them. Checks should be made payable to Louis Windmuller, Treasurer. BYRON W. HOLT,
Chairman Tariff Reform Committee.

The Teacher's Health.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A week ago the school teachers returned to duty with a thrill of anticipation such as a trainer feels as he enters the tiger's cage. In another week the teachers will be "prostrating themselves nervously," "not single spies, but in battalions." We therefore ask, Why this system of "no corporal or any other kind of punishment"? Why allow children to ruin the health of adults who generally have others dependent upon them, and who have a sufficient share of life's troubles? REV. EALER.

Lincoln's Name.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is to be hoped the press will instantly and vigorously rebuke the attempt of Theodore Roosevelt to link his name—if even by indirection—with that of Abraham Lincoln.

Loans Without Security.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have several bank accounts. If I thought the President of any of those banks would loan $100,000 to any man without security, or would loan $25,000, I would close the account at once. If I were a stockholder in such a bank I would sell the stock at auction.

Death of Hormuzd Rassam Recalls His Famous Suit Against Budge.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent death of Hormuzd Rassam recalls some interesting circumstances.

In 1893 Mr. Rassam (in Queen's Bench, Rassam vs. Budge) sued Dr. Budge, the Curator of the Department of Oriental Antiquities in the British Museum, for slander and libel, in saying and writing that he, (Rassam,) while in charge of the excavations at Aboo-Habba, had permitted his relatives to carry away and dispose of the best finds for their own advantage and had only sent "rubbish" to the British Museum, which employed him. These charges Dr. Budge had made to Sir Henry Layard, M. Renouf, and Dr. Pinches, all of whom testified at the trial that Budge had made them. They had also been made in writing to the Trustees of the museum.

Before bringing suit Mr. Rassam showed the Trustees that he had had no relatives at Aboo-Habba, or within several hundred miles of it; that he had not permitted any antiquities to be carried away, and that he had not sent "rubbish" to the museum. Whereupon Dr. Budge wrote him what he (Budge) considered and asserted was a retraction and "full apology," but which the court characterized as "insincere, ungentlemanly, and shabby." Upon receiving this unsatisfactory retraction Mr. Rassam took his grievance to the High Court of Justice, where he was overwhelmingly supported by the evidence, firmly upheld by Mr. Justice Cave, and, contrary to every expectation, denied justice by the jury, who rendered a verdict for defendant.

Mr. Rassam was a very sensitive man, then nearly 70 years of age, and this miscarriage of justice nearly broke his heart. Despairing, on account of his foreign birth, (he was a Chaldean,) of ever obtaining justice from a British jury, he confided his papers to me and begged that when he had passed away beyond the sphere of calumny and injustice I would relate his story to the world. He was a sincere Christian, honest, frank, and communicative, but of a shy, timid, and retiring disposition, ready to yield to almost any domination.

His story commences in 1845, when he conducted those excavations at Nineveh which have rendered the name of Layard famous; for it was Rassam and not Layard who made the discoveries, Rassam who could read cuneiform, Rassam who could converse with the natives in Chaldee or Arabic, and not Layard, who understood only English and French, neither of which was of the slightest use in Mesopotamia, and who therefore could do nothing but look on while Rassam worked. The latter declared one day to me in the British Museum that the name of Layard on the great human-headed bulls and on other Assyrian monuments should in truth be erased and his own substituted, "for it was I," said he, "who sought for these antiquities, I who found them, and I who sent them to the museum, not Layard." He also told me of the bargeload of cuneiform tablets which Layard sank, or permitted to be sunk, in the Tigris, leaving me to guess at the reason for it. When I hazarded a conjecture he would neither confirm nor contradict it. "Sir Henry," said he, "has always been kind to me, and I can say nothing to his disadvantage." This was just about the time when he was bringing suit against Dr. Budge. His story of what was done, and what was not done but should have been done, at Nineveh, Kouyunjik, and Aboo-Habba, would fill a volume, but a volume that I fear will never be written, for nobody would believe it, and what's the use?

ALEXANDER DEL MAR.

New York, Sept. 18, 1910.

FROM MAINE.

Gives His Explanation of the Democratic Victory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am afraid Rochester Republican's diagnosis of the Maine situation and yours as well are only partially right. It is absurd to blame even the ever-gushing Mr. Roosevelt and his policies for more than a portion of the overturn. It is my opinion that, as a matter of fact, they attracted as many of the young men of Maine as they turned away their elders.

Looking over the returns, we find that it is in the larger places that the change of heart among the voters took place in the greatest degree. Undoubtedly the prohibition-and-no-resubmission policy of the Republicans accounts for much of this.

Then, among the farmers and merchants there is a feeling that the Republican regulars, who are almost the only Republicans in the State, have been catering to the lumber and paper interests. Congressman Swasey, for example, is thought to have been entirely too lukewarm in his attitude toward the Payne-Aldrich Tariff bill. Most persons here in Maine feel that he ought to have opposed it strongly.

There being no insurgent wing of the Republican Party in this State, the more radical element has been in doubt how to vote. Mr. Roosevelt's talk has tended to hold it in the Republican ranks, but the attitude of the party leaders here on both local and National issues has turned it away.

I must say that I think you misjudge the insurgents, especially Roosevelt, in calling them socialistic. I consider them merely impractical would-be reformers, who deal in glittering generalities and have no idea of how to accomplish their ends. A. S.

Temptations to Smuggle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Smuggling, about which we have heard so much of late, is, I frankly confess, the one and only form of dishonesty which has ever been a temptation to me. There is the feeling, perhaps without reason, that somehow or other much of this tariff revenue indirectly and eventually finds its way into the pockets of grafting and unscrupulous politicians, and that my hard-earned dollars will be put to better use if kept in my own pockets. And then when Senator Aldrich makes the statement that our Government could be "run" on $300,000,000 a year less than it is at present, and run just as well at that, most of us, I believe, are strongly inclined to think that the Senator is right. In the face of such convictions, is it strange that the consciences of many people ordinarily honest become temporarily somewhat elastic?

TRAVELER.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 17, 1910.

OUTRAGEOUS CUSTOMS.

The lady was quite certain, when she made her declaration,
That not a cent of duty was owed by her to the Nation.
Her purchases in Europe were confined to cuffs and collars,
And their very utmost value would fall short of thirty dollars,
But the Custom House Inspector said he thought she was mistaken,
For a quantity of baggage some suspicions will awaken.
And in spite of protestations this ungentlemanly minion
Showed a brutal disposition to insist on his opinion—
For he searched her trunks and boxes, and regardless of her passion
Soon disclosed a lot of dresses in the latest Paris fashion—
He found some twenty hats, each one a wonderful creation—
And twenty dozen pairs of gloves, on further exploration.
Besides all these a large supply of jewelry and laces
Concealed themselves, but were dragged out from unexpected places,
And a lovely diamond necklace, with a
  ruby pendant on it,
Had quite without her knowledge hidden snugly in her bonnet.
Of course, the whole supply right there,
  in Jersey City—she'd bought
And she said so, most politely. Then he gazed at her with pity—
Her baggage to Appraiser's Stores was sent by this Inspector—
Against an outrage such as this, Oh!
  Uncle Sam, protect her.

MAY CHOOSE BURTON AS PRINCETON'S HEAD

Ohio Senator's Name Mentioned as a Successor to Woodrow Wilson.

IS NOT A PRINCETON MAN

President Finley, President Garfield, Dean West, Dean Fine, and ex-Mayor McClellan Other Candidates.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 19.—Rumors that the Presidency of Princeton University had been offered to Senator Theodore E. Burton, supposedly contingent on the election of Dr. Woodrow Wilson to the New Jersey Governorship, surprised the Senator's friends here to-day. Hubert Fuller, his secretary, declared he had no knowledge of the offer, and no one else could be found who had heard of the report other than through the newspapers.

Senator Burton left Washington this evening for Cincinnati, and will speak in Ohio towns until Thursday evening, when he will be here.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 19.—Little word has been received at Princeton of a possibility that Senator Burton of Ohio will be chosen President of Princeton to succeed Dr. Woodrow Wilson, who will resign on Oct. 20 when the Trustees meet. Dean West of the Graduate School and Andrew C. Imbrie, a Trustee, were both out of town, and M. Taylor Pyne, also a Trustee, was at a conference to-night and could not be seen.

Talk of candidates for the place has been confined largely to Dr. Harry Garfield, President of Williams College, President John H. Finley of City College, Dean West, Prof. Henry B. Fine, Dean of the university; ex-Mayor George B. McClellan of New York, and others.

Senator Burton is not a Princeton man, and he is practically unknown here.

RAISES SALARIES AT YALE.

Corporation Meeting Attended by Taft Advances Scale of Professors' Pay.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 19.—The Fall meeting of the Yale University Corporation here to-day, attended by President Taft, Gov. Frank B. Weeks, and Otto T. Bannard of New York, the latter attending as a corporate member for the first time, was devoted in a great measure to a discussion of the salary increases of the professors. A sum of $50,000, contributed by the Alumni to the Alumni Association last Spring, was announced as available for this purpose.

Of this sum $10,000 was set apart last Spring for salary increases, and of the remainder one-third was to-day appropriated to increase the salaries of the assistant professors, and the remaining two-thirds for the increase of the salaries of the full professors.

The new salary scale as put in force to-day continues instructors at from $1,000 to $1,600; increases assistant professors on the first term of appointment from $1,800 to $2,000; sets $2,500 as the nominal scale for the second appointment of the assistant professors grade, and reduces the period of the second appointment from five to three years, making $3,000 the normal salary for an assistant professor after the expiration of the second term. All the assistant professors of the first grade in the two undergraduate departments had their salaries raised to the new scale for the coming year.

The corporation reserves the right to withhold salary increases where work is unsatisfactory.

In the case of professors normal grades of $4,000, $4,500, and $5,000 were adopted, with the length of service, university responsibility, and individual distinction as a scholar or teacher forming the criteria for an increase. On this plan twelve professors were placed on a maximum salary of $5,000, and a slightly larger number on the $4,500.

At to-day's meeting of the corporation also, a vote was passed approving the action of President Arthur T. Hadley of the university in accepting the Chairmanship of the newly appointed Federal Commission on Railroad Securities. President Hadley's appointment was announced by President Taft a short time ago.

Plans will be made later whereby President Hadley on his return from England and Germany, where he will study railroad conditions, may devote a part of his time to the work of the commission. President Hadley will make an address at the University of Berlin on Oct. 20.

EX-NAVAL OFFICER INSANE.

G. E. Landran, Who Resigned from Navy to Desert from Army, in Asylum.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The doors of the Government Asylum for the Insane have closed upon Private Clarence E. Landran, Sixty-ninth Company Coast Artillery Corps, thereby probably terminating an erratic career.

For some time the public was treated to stories of the young naval officer who could not be fully identified, but was being held mysteriously under arrest by the military authorities in Castle Williams in New York Harbor. This personage was Landran, who really had been a naval officer. He was from Kentucky, a graduate of the Naval Academy, and had resigned as an Ensign in 1902.

Why he resigned his commission to enlist afterward as a private soldier, to desert from Fort Monroe last March, and then to surrender voluntarily at a Brooklyn recruiting station, the military authorities were at a loss to guess. But his friends in Louisville and Washington were convinced that his mind was unbalanced, so they had a medical board appointed, which has confirmed their judgment.

MEXICAN RAINS STOP TRAFFIC

Washout on Lines Between San Antonio and Mexico City.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 19.—Traffic between San Antonio and the City of Mexico has been indefinitely suspended on account of washouts. The following statement has been issued by E. Munseenberger, general agent for the National line of Mexico at San Antonio:

"Extraordinarily heavy rains have seriously damaged our lines in sections of the States of Nueva Leon and Coahuila. From the reports at hand, our train service will be interrupted between Monterey and Saltillo and on the short main line to Tampico via the Gulf Division.

"Train service via our Laredo line to the district between Monterey and Saltillo will be interrupted indefinitely. The damage to lines at Saltillo, Parodon, and Suaceda is not so serious, and service may be restored via these points within a day or two."

SECRETARY BALLINGER SUED.

New Mexican Alleges Illegal Award of Land—Gets Temporary Restrainer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Richard A. Ballinger, Secretary of the Interior, was sued in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to-day by Emerson B. Smith, a realty operator of New Mexico, who alleges that after giving a final decision in his favor in a case involving valuable land adjoining the town of Clovis, N. M., acquired by Smith at a cost of $3,000, the Secretary reopened the case without authority of law and awarded the land to another, who seeks to oust Smith upon a technicality.

The Secretary was restrained from carrying his decision into effect pending a hearing, which was set for Sept. 30.

VERY FUNNY SATIRE OF A COMMON FAILING

"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" Again Proves That There's One, or More, Born Every Minute.

IN SPITE OF MORAL SQUINT

Amusing Performance of Piece That Is Sure to Please Americans Who Like Seeing Others Humbugged.

GET RICH QUICK WALLINGFORD, a comedy, in four acts, by George M. Cohan. Galety Theatre.

When Mr. P. T. Barnum uttered his famous remark that the American public likes being humbugged, he might have added with equal truth that the one thing it likes even better is seeing the other fellow humbugged. And the second of these truisms gives zest to such a play as "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," acted at the Gaiety last night, and received with every manifestation of delight.

The play, like the stories from which it has been adapted, has a foundation not only in the singularly brilliant exploits of one exceptionally adroit manipulator of other people's money, but in that very general human desire to get something for nothing which makes almost everybody at some time or other an easy mark. And so when the bright young man in the play who is looking for a good investment and is assured of his 75 per cent., and asked if he would like to get it, answers "Yes, ALL I can get," the house recognizes and enjoys a very common failing. So "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" very obligingly takes his money—that is to say, $9,000 of his whole savings, telling him to keep his odd $1,000 for another time. "I guess I'd better," then remarks the lamb, whose name is just that, "for I might need it." And Wallingford agrees that he will.

George M. Cohan has made the dramatization of the Chester stories, and he has gone on his usual principle of gingering things up. There is method in this madness, too. For it wouldn't do for you to have time to sit back and figure out just what a pair of crooked scoundrels are getting your sympathy and your laughter, both of which, if you can forget your moral sense for the moment, you unhesitatingly hand out.

Most amazing of all is the sudden declaration of one of the pair that "we are honest men," this satisfying conclusion being reached in the enthusiastic realization that certain presumably impossible swindling schemes have actually borne good fruit.

In the play the get-rich-quick partners, Wallingford and his trusty lieutenant, Horace Daw, select for their operations a small town named Battlesburg. The play loses nothing of its fun by reason of the improbability of its conclusions. One may reasonably doubt whether even the "boobs" would have been so easily taken in, but here again it will not do to make any positive generalizations. As a famous sage once said: "There's one born every minute." And it is Wallingford's good fortune that they are all "ready to bite." So he is able to put through his scheme for a company to manufacture "covered carpet tacks" to match any carpet, thereby doing away with the unsightly rusty heads. His success with his traction company follows more legitimately since the boom he gives Battleburg necessarily invites capital and enterprise, and, incidentally, the attention of a legitimate company looking for profitable franchises.

For two acts the play moves swiftly and with no end of amusing developments, but the third act shows signs of padding, in the introduction of the moving-picture showman and his girl, whose appearance suggests a vaudeville turn rather than any natural development of the farcical complications. The corporation hymn is lugged in, too. Its effect is undeniably funny, however, and that must be its excuse. But Mr. Cohan has done so well elsewhere that there is sense of disappointment in such a cheap expedient as the bumping office boy.

Taking it in its entirety, however, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" is good fun, and legitimate if obviously broad satire of the prevailing desire to hurriedly pick up fortunes.

With his little covered carpet tack Wallingford goes about like Col. Mulberry Sellers, shouting that "there's millions in it," and he is the most surprised person in the community—saving only his lieutenant—when he finds that he speaks the truth. Incidentally, both he and the lieutenant have wished they were honest men, for, of course, there is a love interest, but until good fortune comes both of them seem to take the view that 'tis better to have loved and lost—the girls—than to have turned honest and lost—the millions.

Hale Hamilton has an ingratiating, ample personality which suits the part of Wallingford very well, and in general he plays it with much good nature and good humor. His scheming is a trifle obvious at times—we should have preferred a little more subtle rascal—but on the whole it is a very amusing and very attractive character as he presents it, and the quality he lacks is plentifully supplied by Edward Ellis, who as the Lieutenant fairly divides the honors of the occasion. Capital little sketches are provided by Grant Mitchell, J. C. Marlowe, and half a dozen others, Scamp Montgomery's dry, crisp method being especially grateful to the audience.

As the young lady beloved Miss Frances Ring plays simply and prettily and shows very marked improvement. And Grace Goodall, Marie Taylor, Fay Wallace are among others who do their bits with very good effect.

"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" may have a moral squint, but it is certain to prove a popular entertainment.

Miss Elise Holmes's Wedding Plans.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Elise Mallory Holmes, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jabish Holmes, and Morris Roderick Volck, a son of Mrs. Arthur Hearn by her first husband.

VERY LIGHT PLAY AT THE LYCEUM

Hattie Williams Pleases in "Decorating Clementine," but Comedy's Plot Is Too Thin.

ONLY ENOUGH FOR A SKETCH

G. P. Huntley as the Count Is Funnier Than Even in His Musical Comedy Days—Much Bright Dialogue.

DECORATING CLEMENTINE, a comedy, in three acts, by Armand de Caillavet and Robert de Flers. Lyceum Theatre.

Count Zakouskine	G. P. Huntley
Paul Margerie	Richie Ling
Monsieur Morel	Louis Massen
Fargette	Ernest Lawford
Courlot	J. Homer Hunt
Magnel	Joseph Allenton
Vauvert	Ernest Whitney
Durien	Francis Verdi
Benjamin	Frederick Powell
Victor	Edgar F. Hill
A Reporter	Frederick Macklyn
Peter	Howard Bond
Dourakine	Robert Millash
Clementine Margerie	Hattie Williams
Adrienne Morel	Doris Keane
Mme. De Ternay	Alice Putnam
Mme. Fauchel	Gail Kane
Louise	Grace Moore

A capital first act and two other acts in diminuendo gave Hattie Williams and G. P. Huntley a chance to appear together as stars in de Caillavet and de Flers's comedy, "Le Bois Sacre," under the English title of "Decorating Clementine." Unfortunately the play is too light to demand the shoulders of even one star, and when the burden is divided and placed on two it becomes tenuous to the point of impalpability. There is much brightness in some of the dialogue, much delightfully nonsensical disregard for possibilities in characterization, and enough of a plot to make a one-act sketch.

Clementine Margerie, a succssful author, the beloved wife of Paul Margerie, an earnest chicken fancier, conceives a desire to be decorated with the Legion of Honor ribbon. She visits the Minister of Fine Arts and tries to flirt with him, but is unsuccessful in her ignorance of the art. She orders her husband, therefore, to flirt with Adrienne, the Minister's wife, who is skilled in the game through long and varied practice. Paul is successful. The wife is disconsolate. She receives her decoration, she finally forgives Paul, and she takes off the coveted ribbon and puts it in his pocket to keep for her.

Running through this plot is a Russian Count, who has the fixed belief that all women love him, and a youthful, silly diplomat who does the wrong thing consistently. One could imagine how the farce went in its original French, but only imagine it, for Gladys Unger, the translator, knew what to leave out for American and English audiences.

Nevertheless, Hattie Williams as the ambitious Clementine, gave the best performance she ever gave in New York. Until the thing petered out to an invisible thread in the last act, she characterized Clementine and displayed her moods. Mr Huntley, as the Count, was funnier than ever in his musical comedy days, and he made the character take on an appearance of reality.

Doris Keane was the flirtatious wife of the Minister, wearing stunning gowns and doing a dance in an abbreviated and very attractive costume in the last act. No fault was to be found with her acting, but her dance was acceptable more for the sake of the dancer than for her skill at dancing. Louis Massen was the choleric and amorous Minister of Fine Arts, and Louis Lang was the good-natured, boyish husband. Other parts that the audience liked were played by Ernest Lawford as the silly diplomat, Alice Putnam as a charitably inclined lady, and Frederick Powell as a servant at the Ministry.

Otis Skinner Back from the Alps.

Otis Skinner arrived yesterday on the Red Star liner Finland. With his wife and little daughter he spent the Summer in the Tyrolean Alps. "I saw the Passion Play at Oberammergau last July," said Mr. Skinner. "The play is an emotion and a big one. You cannot shake it off." Mr. Skinner resumes his tour on Monday, opening in Washington in "Your Humble Servant," the Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson comedy. The actor is now studying his part in his new play, "Sire," by Henri Lavedan, in which he will make his next New York appearance.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

N. C. Goodwin began rehearsals yesterday of his new comedy, "The Captain," by George Broadhurst and C. T. Dazey, under the management of Klaw & Erlanger. He will open his season in Indianapolis on Oct 10, with Beatrice Morgan as leading woman.

On account of an agreement with Leo Fall, composer of "The Girl in the Train," by which Charles Dillingham must produce the piece in New York during the first week in October, the run of "The Echo" at the Globe Theatre will end on Oct. 1, and the new play will be presented the following Monday.

Pamela Gaythorne, an English leading woman, has been engaged by the Shuberts for the principal feminine role in Butler Davenport's new play, "Keeping Up Appearances." Miss Gaythorne has played for the last ten years in London with Cyril Maude, Arthur Bouchier, Oscar Ashe, and other prominent stars.

Frederic Thompson's production of "My Man," by Forrest Halsey and Edith Ellis, will come to the Bijou Theatre next Monday night, replacing Maclyn Arbuckle in "Welcome to Our City." In the cast of "My Man" will be Ann Sutherland, Robert Drouet, and Campbell Gollan.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES

J. E. Dodson in "The House Next Door" began a week's engagement at the Grand Opera House last night, with many of the original company in the cast.

At the West End Theatre the week's attraction is Max Figman in "Mary Jane's Pa," the comedy by Edith Ellis that Henry E. Dixey formerly played. Helen Lackaye is Mr. Figman's leading woman.

"The Third Degree," with Fernanda Eliscu in the role originated by Helen Ware, is at the City Theatre this week. Other members of the company are James Seeley, Lydia MacMillan, Alfred Moore, and Earle Williams.

"The Clansman" is the week's offering at the Academy of Music. Edward Lynch, the leading man of the stock company, has the role of Ben Cameron, Byron Douglas is playing Dr. Cameron, and Miss Knowles is appearing in the character of Elsie.

The Alhambra Theatre has a new Jesse Lasky production, "On the Housetop," as the headliner for the week. Other acts on the bill are Eva Taylor, Lawrence Grattan and company in a sketch, the Elton Polo troupe, Hoey and Lee, the Ollivetti Troubadours, Stuart, "the male Patti," Moffitt and Clare, and Cunningham and Marion.

Valeska Suratt and William Gould headed the bill at the Colonial Theatre yesterday, and Homer B. Mason and Marguerite Keeler appeared in their sketch, "In and Out." The other numbers included Pat Rooney and Marion Bent, the Dalys, Irene Dillon, the Woods and Woods trio, Ed Morton, and Goleman's animals.

The programme at the Bronx Theatre contained Carrie De Mar, with several new songs; the Carnival of Roses, Charles Leonard Fletcher and company, Howard and North, May Elinore, the La Vine-Cimarron trio, Jolly Wild and company, the three Leightons, and Frank Wilson.

The attraction at the Columbia Theatre this week is "The Follies of New York and Paris," presented by a company that includes Charles Howard, Jennie Austin, Nell Capron, Ned Norton, Henry Nelson, Ada Ayers, and Al Canfield. The vaudeville acts incidental to the burlesque include Powder and Chapman, singers and dancers, and Martin Ferrari and Mabel Percival, grotesque pantomimists.

"Arsene Lupin," with William Courtenay and many of the original company, is at the Montauk Theatre, Brooklyn, this week.

The bill at the Orpheum Theatre, Brooklyn, includes La Pia, a dancer; the Rigoletto brothers, Jack Wilson and company, "The Devil, the Servant, and the Man"; the Avon comedy four, Melville and Higgins, and the Great Howard.

Waldron's "Trocadero Burlesquers" company is the attraction at the Olympic Theatre; "The Marathon Girls" at the Metropolis, Harry Hastings's "Big Show" at Hurtig & Seamon's Music Hall, and "The Parisian Widows" at the Murray Hill.

Bass Singer, Well Known in Oratorio, Was Once Member of Bostonians.

Myron W. Whitney, well known as a bass singer in oratorio and on the stage, died yesterday at his home in Sandwich, Mass. He was born at Ashby, Mass., in 1836, and studied singing in Italy under Luigi Vanuccini, director of the Royal Pergola Theatre, Florence. Then he went to London and took a special course in oratorio under Randegger.

He became known as a concert singer of the first rank in this country and Europe, and achieved his principal successes at the concerts of the Handel and Haydn Society, Boston; the New York Oratorio Society, the Cincinnati Festivals, and the Saengerbund Festival in Cincinnati in 1890. In 1879 he was a member of the all-star cast that produced "Pinafore" in Boston. From this company sprang the organization so well known as the Bostonians, which included Henry C. Barnabee, Tom Karl, George Frothingham, George Cayvan, and Mary Beels.

Mr. Whitney was never as thoroughly at home on the stage as he was on the concert platform. For a time he was soloist at Christ Church in this city, and afterward filled a similar position at "Adirondack" Murray's church in Boston.

He will be buried to-day in Sandwich, Mass., near to the grave of Joseph Jefferson.

REV. DR. W. D. MACLAGAN DEAD

Was the Archbishop of York for Eighteen Years.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Most Rev. William Dalrymple Maclagan, late Archbishop of York, died here to-day from pneumonia. He was born at Edinburgh in 1826. He served in the Indian Army in 1847-52, retiring as Lieutenant. He was ordained deacon in 1856.

Dr. Maclagan was made rector of Newington in 1869 and vicar of Kensington six years later. In 1878 he was appointed Bishop of Lichfield. He held the office of Archbishop of York from 1891 to 1909.

As an author his work "Pastoral Letters and Synodal Charges" was perhaps the best known. He was joint editor of "The Church and Age," in two volumes, published in 1870. Dr. Maclagan was a member of the Athenaeum Club and the Royal Societies.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. EDWARD ROBY, founder of the National branch of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, and a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, died at her home in Chicago Sunday night after an illness of six months. SOCIAL WHIRL MAKES MRS. LADENBURG ILL

Forced to Go to French Lick Springs to Recuperate After a Season at Newport.

OTHER LEADERS VICTIMS, TOO

Mrs. Craig Biddle and Mrs. Pembroke Jones Among Those Unable to Stand Round of Entertaining.

Mrs. Adolph Ladenburg, broken in health after a strenuous social campaign at Newport, left this city yesterday for French Lick Springs, Ind., where her physicians say she must stay for several weeks before she will be able to resume her social activities.

She arrived here last Saturday from Newport, accompanied by her maid, and went direct to the Holland House. Here she remained quietly without any of her friends knowing her whereabouts. She spent most of Sunday resting, and then continued on the second stage of her journey to the Indiana health resort.

Those who happened to see Mrs. Ladenburg as she passed from the hotel to her auto for her daily drive through Central Park, remarked upon her careworn appearance, although she appeared to be as vivacious as ever. When she left she said she hoped to be back in town by the first of November.

Her name is now added to a list of half a dozen or so women who have succumbed as the probable result of a too strenuous Summer in the cottage colony at Newport, which was said by the pioneers to have been the liveliest season in many years. The season was termed a dancing one, as the list of dances outnumbered those of any previous season, and the matrons as well as the younger set tired themselves out.

Mrs. Ladenburg's name figured frequently in the social chronicles of the Summer season. She had been absent from Newport for several years, but when she returned this year and took the Travers bungalow in Ocean Avenue she entered at once into a rigorous campaign.

On Aug. 8 she had a dinner party, with bridge, at the bungalow, and another on Aug. 15, and besides she exerted herself a great deal to help entertain the officers of the Atlantic fleet during the week of Aug. 20. She attended nearly all of the dances, and entertained also in Horse Show week.

In the midst of all this she was worried, so her friends declare, over the published reports that she had adopted a waif from the east side. It became known later that the supposed "waif" was in reality the child of the Baron and Baroness Breunig, who were living in reduced circumstances with their five other children at Belmar, N. J.

Mrs. Ladenburg is a daring horsewoman, and has spent much of her time at her farm at Westbury, L. I. She was Miss Emily Stevens, daughter of Alexander H. Stevens, President of the Sixth National Bank of this city. She married Adolph Ladenburg, the banker, in 1884. He was drowned at sea while returning to New York in 1896. He left an estate valued at $10,000,000.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

THE CENSUS

In ten years the population of New York has increased by 1,300,000.

In ten years more it will increase at least as much again.

Does the building business—or any business—want a more encouraging sign?

Is this not a complete answer to the pessimist?

Does Owner or Lender want anything more reassuring than this annual increase of 130,000 souls, with millions to spend for rations, raiment and rent?

Can either afford to disregard the ever-growing demand for office and housing facilities?

What are you doing, Mr. Property Owner, to reap the benefits bestowed on you by this enterprising community?

Dealings Indicate Return of Market to Recent Apathetic Condition—Bond Business Continues to Improve.

The signs of a return to dullness noted in the stock market toward the close of last week were confirmed by yesterday's narrow price movement and small trading. In the bank statement, which was published after the close of business on Saturday, of course, there was potential ammunition for a resumption of the campaign for the Fall engineered by professional traders last week, but if any use was made of this the results were discouraging, for after the first few minutes of trading prices became firm and held so through the rest of the day, closing either unchanged or at fractional advances. Announcement of the intention of the Government to bring suit for the dissolution of the American Sugar Refining Company was also received with apathy; Sugar stock fell 2 points, recovered a trifle of its loss, and had not the least influence upon the course of prices in general. Discussion of political matters went on as usual, but the only real interest displayed in the situation here was in the subject of the conference between Mr. Roosevelt and President Taft at New Haven and the possible effect of that meeting upon the position as a whole. Among the railroad returns submitted during the course of the day was the statement of the Baltimore & Ohio for the month of August, the first to come to hand for that period from any of the larger roads, disclosing an increase of $897,000 in gross, but such an enlargement in expenses as left a net gain for the month of only $72,000. Reports from other lines will be carefully read now to discover if the persistent increases in expenses are at least to overcome gross gains, which if weekly returns are prophetical are tending to decrease. Continued excellent weather over the corn belt encourages the hope of a bumper harvest, and the prospect of such a yield is undoubtedly the prime factor in holding corn in check on the grain markets while the early marketing of wheat is doing as much for that cereal. Cotton prices yesterday responded to the news of the threatened lockout of over 200,000 employes in the English mills.

Local money market conditions at the opening of the week were practically unchanged from those in effect at the close of last week unless the somewhat harder tone in time money be excepted. Southern banks are evincing much interest in the situation to be presented if the dispute over the cotton bills of lading is unsettled by Oct. 31, and in many instances are arranging to meet such a contingency by securing conditional credits. Bankers generally express satisfaction over the growing demand for bonds, and within the last few days have been preparing for a decided call for such securities. Bonds long in first hands are passing freely to the smaller houses, whose supplies have been depleted in consequence of the hand-to-mouth policy which the long period of dullness made essential.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

With a grand total on the Consolidated Stock Exchange of 50,730 shares, three stocks, United States Steel common, Reading and Union Pacific, accounted for 38,110 shares, or three quarters of the business. It was a day in which the professional character of the market was once more illustrated prominently. The list of stocks dealt in numbered but thirty-two, a narrower showing than usual, while the movement of prices was largely governed by the technical position of the floor traders.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—To-day's session of the local Stock Exchange was dull. Barely a thousand shares all told changed hands during the first hour, and of these a goodly proportion were United States Steel, an arbitrage issue. One block of 500 shares of Union Traction was taken. Tonopah-Belmont was in some demand and improved slightly, while "big" Tonopah was taken in moderate quantities. Pennsylvania and Reading were off a trifle during the morning, but recovered in the afternoon. The final hour brought in a slight increase in buying orders for Lehigh Valley. Up to 1 o'clock but 65 shares of this stock had changed hands. Philadelphia Electric also reached a new high level for the present swing.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—The undertone in the local market was weak to-day, prices being fractionally lower all around as a result of the day's trading. Butte and Balaklava lost about a point, while Indiana and Algomah were also under pressure. The general list closed irregular at some rally from the low point of the day.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Sugar Suit.

American Sugar Refining shares were under close observation at the opening of the market yesterday, owing to the announcement of the Government's intention to bring suit for the dissolution of the company along lines similar to those followed in the Tobacco and Standard Oil proceedings. The stock opened at a decline of 2 points, but throughout the rest of the day trading in it was rather dull, and its course little more than heavy. There has been so much publicity devoted to the Company in connection with the Sugar frauds and the long-drawn out trials of officers and minor employes that the shares have probably fallen to a level fairly shockproof until the Government's dissolution action comes to its conclusion. Near the close of last week rumors circulated on the floor of the Stock Exchange that the Government was about to bring dissolution proceedings against the Steel Corporation, but these were entirely without verification, and it is now taken for granted by the traders that the Sugar suit accounts for the reports.

Trend of Earnings.

Baltimore & Ohio's August showing, with its enormous increase in operating expenses reducing to nearly nominal figures a great gross increase is pretty well in line with what the financial community is looking for from the other leading roads of the country which will turn in their August earning statements from day to day now. It is taken for granted that expansion in expenses will continue, and the only question which the reports will really settle is whether in a majority of cases enlarged gross returns will be secured to offset these expenses. Anything like a general tendency in gross earnings to decline if coupled with disproportionate enlargement of expenses will inevitably centre discussion upon dividends. It is one of the established facts of railroading that expenses increase, or at least contract very slowly in the face of abrupt and persistent declines in gross earnings.

Union Pacific Curtailment.

Stories were revived yesterday of orders sent out from the offices of the Union and Southern Pacific lines for drastic curtailment of expenditures all over the system. When stories of heavy reductions on the Harriman lines first became current, several weeks ago, Vice-President Kruttschnitt denied that anything sweeping or radical in the nature of economies was contemplated. It was said yesterday by interests identified with the roads that no change had taken place in the situation since the Director of Maintenance and Operation had denied the earlier rumors. The Harriman lines, it was explained, are looking as closely at every dollar that goes out as anybody does in these times, but that economy and expense cutting were not necessarily the same thing.

The Rock Island Dividend.

The 1¼ per cent. quarterly dividend on the stock of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company's stock yesterday is ¼ per cent. more than the disbursement made three months ago, though it is ½ per cent. less than the dividend in this period last year. Of the company's $74,859,600 capital stock outstanding $70,386,700 was exchanged for the bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company and stock of the Rock Island Company of New Jersey, and it is explained that the dividends, amounting to 4½ per cent. so far this year, are sufficient to meet the interest requirements of the Rock Island Railway bonds, of which a collateral trust issue of 4 per cents is outstanding, representing the equal amount of Rock Island Railway stock acquired. The Rock Island Railway 5s, secured by "Frisco" common stock, were called at 102½ and interest in February. The dividend declared yesterday is payable on Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 24. Last year the Rock Island Railway paid 5¼ per cent. in dividends, the same rate as had been in force since 1907. In 1904 8½ per cent. was paid.

Iowa Frosts Not Harmful.

According to Snow's advices from Iowa yesterday, the three frosts which that State has experienced so far have done no harm. The report says: "Corn is about safe now, and will be better than the average reports sent out for the last six weeks. Yield of small grains above previous estimates."

Banker Frew Off to Europe.

Vice President Walter E. Frew of the Corn Exchange Bank, Chairman of the committee of New York bankers which has had in charge the negotiations with the English and Continental bankers looking toward a solution of the bills of lading problem, sails for Europe to-day on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie. It was decided by the New York bankers some time ago that nothing would be gained by sending representatives abroad to discuss the question, and Mr. Frew's trip is entirely for recreation. During his absence President Nash of the Corn Exchange Bank will take his place on the committee.

M., K. & T.'S EARNINGS INCREASE $1,258,431

Big Gain in the Gross, but the Net Returns Show a Loss of $260,000.

HAWLEY IS OPTIMISTIC

Finds Hope in the Change of Public Attitude Toward Increase in Freight Rates.

In submitting to stockholders the annual report of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, Edwin Hawley, Chairman of the Board of Directors, after noting the increase in gross earnings of $1,258,431, an increase of nearly 5 per cent. over the previous year, and a loss of $260,000 in net returns, devotes considerable space to a resumé of the political and legislative difficulties under which he says all the railroads of the country are now working.

Speaking for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas individually, Mr. Hawley says that rates for transportation of freight and passengers continue to be the subject of attack by legislative and executive departments of State and Federal Governments, and by the shippers, and that in Texas the Railroad Commission had ordered, to quote a specific instance, a reduction of 4 cents per 100 pounds on cotton, entailing a loss of about $150,000 annually in the gross earnings of his road. Speaking more generally of the railroad situation Mr. Hawley adds:

"Recent decisions of the courts in rate litigation seem to favor the railroad and encourage the hope that the time is not far distant when the question of what constitutes a reasonable rate will have received final judicial determination and a definite rule of law established by the highest court for the guidance of the public and carriers, for until this question is settled rates may continue to be the subject of hasty and ill-advised action by Legislatures and commissions.

"The railway transportation industry of this country, and consequently all commercial development, although more and more subject to regulation, is still dependent on private enterprise unsupported by Governmental guarantees of any kind. It is therefore most desirable, not only for the carriers, but for the public welfare, to establish principles which will insure retention of the energy of private capital in the transportation field as in other forms of enterprise.

"Railway managers anticipate that the Inter-State Commerce Commission, realizing its great responsibility, will exhibit fairness in the exercise of its new and unusual powers; and there is reason to hope that when the Commerce Court has heard and become familiar with the problems of railway management its decisions will do justice to both carriers and the public. A most encouraging change in public sentiment toward corporations has taken place in Texas during the past three years, which has found definite expression in the recent primary elections in which a programme of 'legislative peace' was cordially indorsed."

The fiscal statement of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas shows the following results for the year:

Mr. Hawley refers to the purchase of the Texas Central by the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, explaining by this and other requirements the issue of $12,000,000 5 per cent. one-year notes. Regarding business prospects he says:

"Present indications point to a very large movement of traffic during the coming season. An increased acreage has been planted in cotton, and conditions favor a large crop of that staple along your lines. The corn crop will be large. Agricultural and commercial conditions throughout the territory contiguous to your lines are generally excellent."

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Money was plentiful and discount rates were quiet to-day.

India and the Continent paid ⅛d. advance for the £500,000 in gold available.

Irregularity still prevailed on the Stock Exchange. Mexican rails, Canadian issues, and Kaffirs were firm, but British stocks and foreign bonds were neglected and easy.

American securities, after a steady and fractionally higher opening, fell below parity on light selling, induced by the New York bank statement. Then covering started an upward movement, and later New York buying carried prices to the highest point of the day. Near the closing the market sagged and it finished dull.

Bar silver steady; 24 9-16d. per ounce.

Money, ¾@1 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2¾ per cent.; for three months' bills, 2⅞ per cent.

Bar gold, 77s. 9¼d.; American eagles, 76s. 5d.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: At Madrid, 7.25; at Lisbon, 4.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Prices were weak on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 97 francs 7½ centimes for the account.

Exchange on London, 25 francs 23 centimes for checks.

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—Trading was quiet and prices were unsettled on the Bourse to-day.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 43 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 3½ per cent.

Private discount rate, 3⅞ per cent.

RUMORS OF STEEL PRICE WAR

Reductions Similar to Last Year Set Wall Street Talking.

Stories yesterday of further cuts in the prices of steel products roused interest in Wall Street as possibly foreshadowing a return to the price war which resulted from a somewhat similar situation in 1909. At that time, after a gradual but steady improvement from the slump which followed the panic, there came a halt in new buying, and the independents, though nominally maintaining the market prices, undercut each other and the Steel Corporation for new business.

The "open market" then declared has been maintained since, but with the return of buying last Fall and Winter, with prices once more on the way up, there was a tendency toward uniformity of quotations, which has been maintained in the main up to the early Summer. But prices have been declining steadily since June, and, although they are still above the levels reached in the price war of last year, the failure of new business this month to come up to expectations has kept the range downward.

Yesterday concessions in plates and structural shapes of $1 a ton below the rates of last week were talked of in the trade, and correspondingly lower levels were made in fabricated steel.

At these levels plates and shapes are on the basis of $1.35 per 100 pounds, compared with $1.25 when the open market was declared last year. At that time there were sweeping cuts in the various steel commodities, ranging as high as $7 a ton from the previous quotations.

Nothing like the drastic price cutting which prevailed before the Steel Corporation took a hand in the fight for business last year has been seen this Summer, and the opinion has been freely expressed in the trade that a recurrence of a price war is not to be expected, but the similarity of the situation in regard to new business has made Wall Street take an immediate interest in the movement of the trade.

TO SUE GOULD AND OTHERS.

Wabash-Pittsburg Receivers Allege Syndicate Withheld Large Sums.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 19.—Henry W. McMaster and Francis H. Skelding, receivers for the Wabash-Pittsburg Railway Company, have been authorized by Judge Charles P. Orr in the United States District Court to bring an action in their own names, as receivers, against George J. Gould, Joseph Ramsay, Jr., Myron T. Herrick, and James Hazen Hyde, and such others as may be deemed suitable and proper, to obtain an accounting for the recovery of sums of money that may be due the company or the plaintiffs, as receivers, under a certain agreement.

The petitioners recite that the persons named formed the Pittsburg-Toledo syndicate in 1901 and created the Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal Railway Company in 1904, and then sold to the terminal company the outstanding stock of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad. The terminal company then issued $6,600,000 first-mortgage bonds and delivered them to the Wabash Railroad Company, which company paid to the syndicate and its managers $6,000,000, with interest, on the bonds.

The syndicate managers are then alleged to have called the unpaid syndicate subscription, in response to which they received about $6,700,000, which they refuse to pay to the terminal company. The petitioners also set forth that the syndicate managers refuse an accounting with the exception of about $3,800,000, which is but part of the sum alleged to be due the terminal company. The petitioners assert that it is impossible to determine the exact amount involved until an accounting is had.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

The wheat market was very steady most of the day, easing off at the close. The cables were quite firm. There was an estimated decrease of 113,000,000 bushels in the French wheat crop, compared with last year, and predictions of import requirements of 80,000,000 bushels, outside of the North African French provinces. Prices, after some reaction, were very firm, advancing on local covering to the highest prices of the day in the afternoon. The increase in the visible supply was only 909,000 bushels, while a larger increase had been looked for. The total visible in the United States is 29,207,000 bushels, and, including Canada, 32,497,000 bushels, or just about double last year.

The reaction toward the close appeared to be due to weakness in Minneapolis, on account of a good deal of undoing of spreads, increasing Minneapolis stocks, and predictions of increasing receipts. The Winnipeg receipts were 913 cars, against 152 last week. The world's exports, as reported Monday, amounted to 14,192,000 bushels, including 6,056,000 bushels Russian. The total a week ago was 17,656,000 bushels. There were some rumors of export business, but confirmation was lacking. Cash quotations: No. 2 red Winter, $1.04¼ in elevator; No. 2 red, spot, new, $1.04½, nominal, free on board afloat for export, rail basis; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.24; new No. 2 hard Winter, $1.05¾, and No. 1 northern, Manitoba, $1.09.

Corn was active and weak early. There was general selling, on account of the weather. The weather was all that could be desired, all over the corn belt, over Sunday, and gave promise of continuing favorable. Corn is maturing rapidly. Late the market showed some recovery from the early decline, on export sales of 120,000 bushels, while Western receipts were rather moderate. The visible increased 884,000 bushels, but the total is only 3,850,000 bushels. Cash corn quoted: Western, No. 2, 65c, nominal, elevator, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight, domestic basis, and steamer nominal, elevator, export basis. Sales included 100,000 bushels from Baltimore and 20,000 bushels via New Orleans, for export.

Oats were very steady most of the session, with prices showing a firm undertone. There was an increase of 675,000 bushels in the visible, but receipts West were less than last week and 20 per cent. less than last year. Offerings from the country were reported moderate. The visible increased 675,000 bushels, and the total is 18,428,000 bushels. Cash prices, closing: Standards, 40½c; No. 2 white, 41c; No. 3 white, 39½c; No. 4 white, 39c; natural white, 40@41½c; white clipped, 40½@44½c.

Provisions were quiet, with the market showing rather narrow fluctuations. The hog movement was limited, with prices about steady.

COTTON.

The cotton market was fairly active and weak early, becoming dull at the decline. The selling during the morning was due to the weather conditions, which were very favorable all through the cotton States over Sunday, and the predictions were for favorable weather, while the receipts are increasing. The market was also influenced by the reports from Liverpool regarding the labor situation. It was stated that the master spinners unanimously decided upon a lockout, effective Oct. 1, although cables also expressed belief that the matter would be compromised before that date. The receipts were larger at the ports and also larger at the interior. The interior figures for the day showed a gain of about 20 per cent. over last week. The increased movement is giving rise to predictions of a larger into sight, the estimates pointing to about 100,000 bales more than last week. There was a slight decrease in the local warehouse stock, which is now down to 45,273 bales. It is claimed that there is enough freight room engaged to take out a good portion of the cotton now in store. While the market was weaker on the very favorable weather over Sunday and the continuance of favorable weather is against values still, the crop is admittedly late. The average date of killing frost in the northern portion of the cotton States is Nov. 1 and for the central and southerly sections of the Gulf States and Central Texas Nov. 15. The earliest frost in North Carolina in the past four years was Oct. 22, while the earliest killing frost in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee was Oct. 11.

New York spot cotton quiet, 15 points decline; middling uplands, 13.75c; middling Gulf, 14c.

The market closed barely steady at 12 to 17 points decline.

Southern spots, unchanged, 1-16 point decline to 1-16 point advance.

COFFEE.

An early decline following lower cables than expected, and a decline in the rate of Brazilian exchange on London, was a little more than recovered during the later trading as a result of bullish crop reports from Brazil, with the market closing steady, net unchanged to 5 points higher. Sales were reported of 69,000 bags.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 5@20 points. Havre was also firmer, later. Rio was nominal and Santos unchanged. Havre closed net unchanged to ¼ franc higher, after having shown a net loss of ¼@½ franc. Hamburg was ¼@¾ pfennig lower. Spot coffee steady; 10⅝c for Rio No. 7.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

General Hawkins's Former Home in West 20th Street Purchased—Yale University Sells Dwelling in Gramercy Park—Dyckman Tract Boom—Deal Reported in Washington Heights.

Gen. Rush C. Hawkins has sold his former residence, 21 West Twentieth Street, a four-story brownstone dwelling, on plot 25 by 92, to Joseph Ullmann. The old Hawkins house is one of the few in that street in the vicinity of Fifth Avenue that has thus far withstood the rapid invasion of business. The sale was made by Heil & Stern, who sold to the same buyer a short time ago the adjoining property, 23 and 25 West Twentieth Street, and Mr. Ullmann now controls a plot 75 by 92.

The property just sold was the home of Gen. Hawkins since 1886, when he purchased it from the late Henry C. Marquand, for many years President of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Gen. Hawkins is one of the few surviving Generals of the civil war, having fitted out and commanded the regiment known as the "Hawkins Zouaves." His old Twentieth Street residence is completely surrounded by tall business buildings.

Gramercy Park Residence Sold.

Innes & Center, associated with Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd, have sold for the Trustees of Yale College the five-story English basement dwelling 141 East Twenty-first Street, facing Gramercy Park, to Alexander Morten, who will occupy the house after alterations. The plot is 20 by 98.9, and is a few doors east of the new co-operative apartment on the Lexington Avenue corner now being erected on the site formerly Cyrus W. Field's home, and more recently the Henry W. Poor house.

Booming the Dyckman Tract.

Two sales were reported in the Dyckman Tract yesterday, and it is believed that an effort is being made to boom the territory again. There was a boom early last Spring, which was the first in several years, but it was of short duration, and since that time the sales have been few and scattered.

The most important of yesterday's sales was that of a plot 100 by 200 on the east side of Naegle Avenue, 300 feet south of Elwood Street.

Elizabeth H. Gildersleeve of Gildersleeve, Conn., was the seller, while the buyer is said to be a well-known builder who has erected a number of flats in the Washington Heights section.

The other sale was made by David Stewart for the Drake Estate Syndicate, and consisted of two lots, forming a plot 50 by 100, on the west side of Park Terrace West, 191 feet south of 218th Street. A Mr. Corcoran purchased the plot as an investment for cash.

Big Heights Plot Reported Sold.

It was reported in realty circles yesterday that John F. Reid had sold the northwest corner of Pinehurst Avenue and 180th Street, a plot 100.2 by 106.9 by irregular. Mr. Reid bought the property for $36,100 at the auction sale of the holdings of the Fort Washington and Buena Vista syndicates, about fifteen months ago.

Bronx Sales.

Charles Schanl & Co. have sold for J. W. Dowling the two-family house at 1,833 Barnes Avenue, for Charles Tiermann the two-family house at 257 Bronx View Avenue, for William Keough 257 Bronx View Park, and for Martin McDonald 379 Van Nest Park.

W. E. & W. I. Brown, Inc., have sold for Elizabeth V. Carter the house 1,015 Washington Avenue, west side, 121 feet south of 165th Street, on lot 25 by 97.

Mrs. W. R. Grace Sells Acreage.

The Long Island Railroad has purchased from Mrs. William R. Grace about an acre of ground at Flushing, L. I., which it intends to use for a new freight house. The old freight house and switch tracks will be moved away, and the ground now occupied by them will become a new plaza, which will be connected with Shoreward Drive by a twenty-five-foot right of way provided for in the deed of Mrs. Grace to the railroad.

Big Jamaica Transfer.

One of the largest realty transactions that has been recorded recently in Jamaica, L. I., is the conveyance by Frank R. Merrall and others to Morris Rappaport and Morris Bernstein of the premises on the northwest corner of Fulton and Washington Streets, fronting 50 feet on the former street and extending 185¾ feet on the latter, subject to three mortgages, aggregating $57,000.

Old Ausbacher Mansion Sold.

The Ausbacher mansion in Sea View Avenue, Arverne, L. I., has been sold by the Lewis H. May Company for A. W. Tomlinson. The plot is 175 by 100, and the buyer will erect a cottage on a portion of the plot and hold the balance for investment.

It was held at $30,000.

This property was sold a few years ago by the same brokers at $16,000. These figures show an increase of almost 100 per cent. since the beginning of the Pennsylvania improvement in this section.

Suburban Sales.

The Stanley Agency sold for the New York and Philadelphia Associates a plot 40 by 100 on the northerly side of Glenn Avenue, Jamaica, to G. L. Mercadante. The same firm has sold for Frank L. Ferguson a plot 60 by 100 on the southerly side of Highland Avenue, Jamaica, to Elizabeth B. Davis.

Stewart H. Rowe, Principal of the Wadleigh High School of New York has purchased a new residence on Hillcrest Avenue, Park Hill, on the Hudson, for immediate occupancy.

A large plot in the Greenacres Tract at the Hartsdale Station on the Harlem Railroad has been purchased by J. Q. Rankin of New Rochelle. Mr. Rankin will break ground for a $10,000 private dwelling at once.

Peakamoose, the Ulster County estate of the late J. Q. A. Ward, the sculptor, in the Catskills, which contains 2,000 acres, with a beautiful residence, has been sold by L. A. Skinner to J. R. Williston of this city.

Baychester Lots Sold.

A successful sale of Baychester property at the Baychester station of the Harlem branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad was held by Joseph P. Day last Saturday. The average price per lot was close to $800.

Private Dwellings in Demand.

Pease & Elliman have leased 95 Park Avenue for Clifford Devens, executor; 52 East Fifty-third Street for Mrs. G. W. Stanton; 101 East Ninety-fourth Street, corner of Park Avenue, for the Charter Realty Company; 71 East Seventy-seventh Street for Mrs. Dane Pearson; 63 West Fifty-sixth Street for E. E. Morgan; 161 East Thirty-seventh Street, in conjunction with William Cruikshank Sons.

Charles Dana Gibson has leased his residence, 127 East Seventy-third Street, between Lexington and Park Avenues. The property is a five-story American basement house, and was rented fully furnished.

Jamaica Estates

THE splendid service of the Pennsylvania-Long Island Railroad System is now in operation. The average time from Herald Square to Jamaica is now twenty minutes and will later be reduced to eighteen minutes. Under the new schedule there will be 424 trains arriving and departing each week day at the Jamaica Station, to and from Herald Square, East 34th Street and Flatbush Avenue. Prices in our property will shortly be advanced, and we strongly advise those who are already familiar with our property to quickly make their choice; and we urge those who would be interested in complete information about THE ONLY REAL RESIDENTIAL PARK IN NEW YORK CITY to communicate with us at once before any advance is made. Beautiful plots can now be purchased as low as $2,000, including permanent sewers and all City improvements, and convenient terms can be arranged. For full information and handsome booklet address

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW York.—ITALIAN SAVINGS BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, Plaintiff, against CESARE PIANISANI and others, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 26th day of July, 1910, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 24th day of August, 1910, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of the Bronx, City of New York, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the easterly side of Belmont Avenue, distant one hundred and twenty-seven and seventy-nine hundredths (127.79) feet northerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the said easterly side of Belmont Avenue and the northerly side of East 181st Street; running thence easterly, parallel with the said northerly side of East 181st Street, and part of the way through a party wall, one hundred and fifty-six and eighty-six hundredths (156.86) feet to the division line between Lots 6 and 9, as shown on a map entitled "Map of East Tremont," made by William G. Livingston, dated September 1st, 1866, and filed in the office of the Register of Westchester County March 13th, 1867, as Map. No. 436; thence running northerly at right angles to the said northerly side of East 181st Street, fifty-eight and forty hundredths (58.40) feet to a point where a line drawn through the centre of Lot 5, as shown on said map, would intersect the easterly boundary line thereof; and thence westerly, parallel to the said northerly side of East 181st Street, one hundred and sixty-four and eight hundredths (164.08) feet to the said easterly side of Belmont Avenue; and thence southerly along the said easterly side of Belmont Avenue fifty-eight and eighty-five hundredths (58.85) feet to the point or place of beginning.

Together with all fixtures and articles attached to or used in connection with said premises.

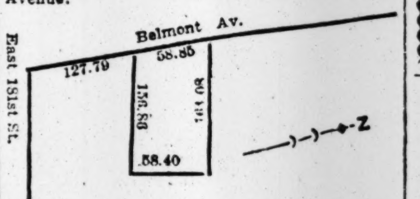
ADELMA H. BURD, Referee.
JOHN ELTON WAYLAND, Attorney for Plaintiff, 258 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street number is 2,142 Belmont Avenue:



The approximate amount of the lien or charge to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold is Nine Thousand Six Hundred and Thirty-five Dollars, ($9,635,) with interest thereon from the 26th day of July, 1910, together with costs and allowance amounting to $386.64, with interest from July 26th, 1910, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is $243.84 and interest.

Dated New York, August 1, 1910.
ADELMA H. BURD, Referee.

The foregoing sale is hereby adjourned until Wednesday, September 21, 1910, at the same hour and place.

Dated New York, August 24, 1910.

RECEIVERS' SALES.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT FOR the Southern District of New York.—GEORGE P. HUDSON, Complainant, against NEW YORK & ALBANY TRANSPORTATION COMPANY, Defendant.—EMPIRE TRUST COMPANY, as Trustee, Intervenor, against GEORGE P. HUDSON and others.

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to an order of resale made by the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York in the above-entitled cause on September 13th, 1910, and filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court on September 16th, 1910, I, Joseph H. Choate, Junior, as Receiver of the defendant New York & Albany Transportation Company, in exercise of the powers and duties by said order conferred upon me, will on the 29th day of September, 1910, at twelve o'clock noon of that day, offer for sale by Joseph P. Day, Esq., auctioneer, by public auction to the highest bidder, the property, a brief general description of which is given below, in accordance with the terms and provisions of said order, on the steps of the north main entrance of the New York County Court House, Chambers Street, in the Borough of Manhattan in the City of New York.

The following is a brief general description of the property to be sold:

The property of the defendant, New York & Albany Transportation Company, namely, the two steamboats "Frank Jones" and "Saratoga," together with their engines and boilers, as the same shall be on the day of the sale directed in and by said order of resale, together, also, with such permanent additions or fixtures as have been made or affixed to the hulls or structures of said steamboats or either of them since July 27th, 1909; and together, also, with such tackle, apparel, and furniture as was sold with said vessels on said July 27th, 1909, and still remains on board (but without any tackle, apparel and/or furniture placed on board by the purchaser or possessor under the sale of July 27th, 1909); and all the right, title and interest of said defendant New York & Albany Transportation Company in and to said property. The said tackle, apparel and furniture to be sold, as aforesaid, will be sold without warranty or representation by or on behalf of the Receiver as to the kind, quality, quantity, value or existence thereof.

All the said property will be sold in one parcel, free and clear of all maritime, statutory or other liens of any nature, kind or description whatsoever, excepting only maritime liens and statutory liens based on credit extended to said vessels, or either of them, arising or arisen since July 27th, 1909, and excepting also like liens existing on July 27th, 1909, but not submitted to the Special Master appointed in the above entitled suit.

The said property will be sold for cash only, and the lowest bid which will be received or accepted, will be $70,000 lawful money of the United States.

The successful bidder shall forthwith pay in cash to the Receiver ten per cent. of the amount of such bid, and shall pay in cash the remaining ninety per cent. of such bid on delivery of the bill of sale and of possession of said property.

Any sale shall be subject to confirmation by the Court, and if any bid shall be accepted by the Court and the bidder thereof shall fail to comply with all the conditions of sale and the orders of the Court in respect thereof, all moneys paid or deposited on account of his bid or as part thereof shall be forfeited and applied as the Court may direct.

The "Frank Jones" may be inspected by intending bidders on the 21st, 23d, 27th, and 29th days of September, 1910, and the "Saratoga" on the 22d, 24th, 26th, and 28th days of September, 1910, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and three o'clock in the afternoon at Pier No. 39 North River, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, and the Receiver will have a representative on board at the times aforesaid to show said vessels.

For further information as to the tackle, apparel, and furniture to be sold reference is made to the inventories, schedules, and other written information in the possession of the Receiver, which may be examined during office hours at his office, No. 60 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City. Such inventories, schedules, or other written information shall not be nor be construed as warranties or representations by or on behalf of the Receiver, but any purchaser at said sale shall be held to rely solely upon his own knowledge of the kind, quality, quantity, value, or existence of any tackle, apparel, or furniture on, and/or appertaining to the "Frank Jones" or "Saratoga," or both or either of them.

For the particulars as to the said sale and the terms and conditions thereof, and as to the property to be sold, reference is made to said order of resale dated September 13th, 1910, and filed in said suit in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York on September 16th, 1910, and to the terms of sale, copies of which may be obtained at the Receiver's said office.

Dated September 20th, 1910.
JOSEPH H. CHOATE, Jr., Receiver,
60 Wall Street, New York City.

SURROGATE CITATION.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW York, by the grace of God free and independent, to HENRY H. BUCKINGHAM, CHARLES L. BUCKINGHAM, Jr., OLIVER N. HIETT, general guardian of Charles L. Buckingham, Jr.; A. A. HOPKINS, GEORGE BUCKINGHAM, MRS. GEORGE BUCKINGHAM, (whose Christian name is unknown,) and JOHN C. SANDERS, send greeting:

You and each of you are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of the County of New York at the Surrogates' Court of said County, held at the Hall of Records in the County of New York on the 27th day of September, 1910, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of Central Trust Company of New York, as Executor of the last will and testament of Charles L. Buckingham, deceased; and such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed; or, in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed.

Witness the Honorable Abner C. Thomas, a Surrogate of our said County, at the County of New York, the 1st day of August, in the year of our Lord One thousand nine hundred and ten. DANIEL J. DOWDNEY, [Seal.] Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Cotton Ginners Win Lower Rate of Duty on Patches for Bales.

Domestic cotton ginners won an important victory yesterday when the Board of United States General Appraisers decided that so-called patches for covering cotton are not subject to the high rate of duty recently exacted by the Treasury Department. The board also denies the contention of the Government that the stenciling of a single name or word on cotton bales constitutes "printing" within the meaning of the latter word as used in the tariff acts of 1897 and 1909.

A. L. Wolff & Co. and J. H. W. Steele appear in the test case as the principals, but the entire ginning industry has a direct interest in the litigation now adjudicated in favor of the importers of the coverings. The merchandise in question consists of pieces of jute bagging 30 by 34 inches in dimension, of the texture, count of threads, and weight per yard described in Paragraph 358 of the act of 1909, and Paragraph 344 of the Dingley law of 1897. The patches are commonly used in the South for patching or covering the holes in cotton bales produced by sampling the cotton.

The Collector of Customs at New Orleans returned the merchandise for duty at the rate of 45 per cent. under the tariff acts named as "woven fabrics composed of vegetable fibre." The importers' claim was that the patches are dutiable properly under the tariff laws at six-tenths of 1 cent per square yard as "bagging, or similar fabrics of jute suitable for covering cotton." This contention, Judge Somerville, who writes the decision for the board, sustains, the classification imposed by the New Orleans Collector being reversed.

It appears that the Collector acted under orders from the Treasury Department, the Government's contention being that the merchandise was taken out of the provisions claimed by the importers on the ground that the patches were "printed," although the printing consisted of but a single word on each patch. On the faith of this fact alone the previous practice, which had long prevailed, to classify the goods as suitable for covering cotton, was reversed and a new classification made. Judge Somerville holds that as the stenciling is only for identification for the purpose of indicating the names of the owner or exporter of the cotton the word "printed" as included in the tariff acts does not refer to a single word stenciled on the goods for the purpose stated.

The decision says that the stenciling is "unsubstantial and insignificant in character." The board accordingly applies the Latin maxim that the law ignores trifles. Although the patches serve to conceal the holes in the bales, and serve at the same time for receiving the stenciled names, the board reverses the higher duty and orders a reliquidation at the lower rate claimed by the protestants.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Showers have continued from the middle Mississippi Valley over the Ohio Valley to the middle Atlantic Coast and Southern New England. Elsewhere the weather has been mostly fair.

The temperature is now considerably below the seasonal average in New York State and New England, while in the Northwest it is above; in other sections nearly normal temperatures prevail.

Unsettled weather and probably showers will continue Tuesday in the middle and north Atlantic States, while in other districts east of the Rocky Mountains generally fair weather prevails. Temperatures will not change materially in any section.

Winds along the New England Coast will be brisk northeast Tuesday, becoming variable Wednesday; middle and south Atlantic Coast, moderate, variable.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate northeast winds, becoming variable, with showers, followed by fair to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Partly cloudy and warmer Tuesday, with possibly showers; Wednesday fair; moderate, variable winds.

New England—Showers Tuesday. Wednesday partly cloudy; brisk to high northeast winds, becoming light and variable.

	1909.	1910.		1909.	1910.
3 A. M.	59	68	4 P. M.	67	62
6 A. M.	53	66	6 P. M.	64	60
9 A. M.	59	66	9 P. M.	61	58
12 M.	66	66	12 P. M.	58

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 64; for the corresponding date last year it was 62; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 66.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 66; at 8 P. M. it was 59. Maximum temperature, 71 degrees at 12:01 A. M.; minimum, 57 degrees at 10 P. M. Humidity, 75 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 48 per cent. at 8 P. M.

ICE CRADLE FOR KITTENS.

Cat and Her Family Discovered at Montclair in an Ice Car.

A Maltese cat and three young kittens were found in an ice car that arrived in Montclair yesterday. They were lying on a large cake of ice and seemed to be little the worse for their cold lodging.

The car came from Pennsylvania and was thirty-six hours on the road. It is believed that the cat had been hunted by a dog and took refuge in the car before the doors were locked, and that the kittens were born afterward.

The warmth of the cat and kittens had melted holes several inches deep in a number of cakes of ice. The cat had evidently shifted from one place to another as the water in the holes became too deep for her kittens.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

FREDERICK B. ROACH, plumber and gas fitter, 103 West 105th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy as a poor person. Liabilities, $5,082; no assets.

GLUCKLICH & SAIGHOLD.—Judge Holt has appointed William F. Carell receiver in bankruptcy for Glucklich & Laighold, cloak manufacturers, 20 Division Street, with a bond of $500. Liabilities, $8,000; assets, $1,000.

BURLINGTON TRANSFER AND STORAGE COMPANY.—Judge Holt has appointed William B. Bristow receiver in bankruptcy for the Burlington Transfer and Storage Company, 447 West Thirty-sixth Street. Assets, (estimated,) $12,000.

CHARLES H. BARDASCH.—Judge Martin has appointed William Henkel, Jr., receiver in bankruptcy for Charles H. Bardasch, wholesale hosiery and underwear, 392 Broadway, with a bond of $5,000. Liabilities, $20,000; assets, $8,000.

LUTHER W. EATON, dealer in building material at Mamaroneck, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities, $6,023, and nominal assets, $4,569. Among the creditors are the Bronx Borough Bank, $2,175; Charles J. Anderson, $1,400, and Gustave Peterson, $1,339.

ABRAHAM GUSSOW.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Abraham Gussow, manufacturer of women's underwear, 139 Spring Street, show liabilities of $35,929 and assets of $13,200. Among the creditors are J. Friedman & Co., $3,000; Columbia Bank, $4,239; Claflin & Co., $2,065; Wilson & Co., $1,470, and Levy, Sondheimer & Co., $1,681.

IKE BLOOM.—Judge Holt has denied a discharge from bankruptcy to Ike Bloom, painters' supplies and wall paper, at 93 Clinton Street, on the ground that he concealed merchandise from his trustee. Objections to his discharge were made by the Jefferson Bank, Janeway & Co., and Charles A. Miller. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against him on July 10, 1909. His liabilities were $50,803, and nominal assets $13,000.

BROADWAY AWNING COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against George H. Newman, doing business as the Broadway Awning Company, 120 and 122 West Eighteenth Street, by Hettrick Brothers Company, Mutual Towel Supply Company, and Simpson Levor. Liabilities, $19,000; assets, $5,000. Judge Holt appointed Edward R. Finch receiver, bond, $2,500, on application of Hettrick Brothers Company.

SAM MELTZER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Sam Meltzer, grocer, 212 Henry Street, by Louis Wisansky, Harry Suffin, Breakstone & Levine, and Hyman Sklamberg. It was alleged that he caused an attachment to be issued in the Municipal Court seeking to dispose of all his assets to the detriment of creditors. Judge Holt appointed Isaac Cohen receiver, bond, $1,000, without compensation.

JOHN E. CLAFFY'S SONS.—John E. Claffy, who did business as John Claffy's Sons, contractors' supplies, 48 Dey Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $15,107, and nominal assets of $11,363. Among the creditors are Margaret Claffy, $4,622; Margaret A. Claffy, $1,700; F. H. Clement, $1,983, and the Hazard Manufacturing Company, $1,026. The business was established in 1867 by John Claffy, who turned it over to his two sons in 1902. One of them died in 1905, and the other, John E., continued the business alone.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF LIQUIDATION OF THE CITY DEBT, ROOM 206 CITY HALL ANNEX.
New Orleans, La., Aug. 22, 1910.

The Board of Liquidation, City Debt, acting under authority of Act No. 19 of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana for the session of 1906, and Act No. 116 of said General Assembly for the session of 1908, and Act No. 23 of 1910, which said acts, No. 19 of 1906 and No. 116 of 1908, have been ratified by constitutional amendment, and have become part of the Constitution of the State of Louisiana, will receive sealed proposals at its office, in the City of New Orleans, Louisiana, up to 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, Oct. 4, 1910, for the purchase of seven million dollars in face value of the new public improvement bonds of the City of New Orleans, authorized by and to be issued under the provisions of the acts aforementioned, and the constitutional amendments ratifying same.

Said bonds are of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, and bear interest at the rate of four per cent. (4) per annum, evidenced by interest coupons attached, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year, respectively. They are by law exempt from taxation, State, parish, and municipal.

Said bonds are payable Jan. 1, 1942, and are subject to call at the option of the City of New Orleans after Jan. 1, 1928, and will be issued under and subject to the acts aforementioned, which are referred to and made part hereof for greater certainty and particularity.

Said proposals shall be received under and subject to the following conditions, to wit:

1st. No sale shall be made of any of the said bonds unless the aggregate of the bids shall be for the full amount of said bonds, to wit: $7,000,000 in face value.

2d. Said bonds will be adjudicated to the highest bidder or bidders, provided that said bonds or any part thereof shall not be adjudicated for less than par and accrued interest, less a commission not to exceed six per centum on the principal thereof.

3d. All matured interest coupons on said bonds shall be cut from said bonds and canceled, and the successful bidder, or bidders, shall pay the interest which may have accrued on said bonds up to the date of delivery.

4th. Said bonds shall be paid for by the successful bidder, or bidders, in cash as fast as they can be signed and delivered, said deliveries to be made on twenty-four hours' notice. First delivery to be made Nov. 5, 1910.

All bonds to be delivered within a period not to exceed one hundred and twenty days from date of final acceptance of bid.

5th. No bid will be received or considered unless accompanied by a certified check on some chartered bank in the City of New Orleans for three per cent. of the amount of each bid, the check, or checks, of the successful bidder, or bidders, shall be cashed and the proceeds retained by the Board of Liquidation as a guarantee that the said bidder, or bidders, will comply with his or their bids, and said proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the bonds last delivered to said bidder, or bidders, respectively. In case of neglect or refusal to comply with any bid, the proceeds of said bidder's check shall be forfeited to the Sewerage and Water Board.

6th. Any local bank or banks, bidding for said bonds are referred to Section 2 of Act No. 23 of 1910, and may stipulate in its or their said bid, or bids, that they desire to be awarded the custody of the Public Improvement Fund after the 5th of November, 1910, as provided for in said Act No. 23 of 1910.

7th. If any local bank, or banks, should be awarded the depository as provided in Act No. 23 of 1910, the said local bank, or banks, shall be required to pay the rate of interest on daily balances in the amount and at the time provided therein, and shall comply with all the provisions of said statutes as to security and other matters.

8th. The Board of Liquidation City Debt reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Mark all bids: "Proposals for purchase of New Public Improvement Bonds."

Further particulars and information will be furnished upon application to T. Wolfe, Jr., Secretary of the Board of Liquidation, City Debt, Room 206 City Hall Annex, New Orleans, La.

T. WOLFE, JR.,
Secretary Board of Liquidation, City Debt.

COMMITTEE ON EMPLOYMENT FOR STUDENTS

New York, N. Y., September 12, 1910.

The New York Times,
Times Square.

Dear Sirs:

Last spring our Committee on Employment for Students was fortunate enough to obtain a small fund for advertising. We tried a number of magazines and daily papers, but the Times proved to be the best medium for bringing results. In fact, our students secured as many positions through the Times alone as through all the other publications combined.

Yours very truly,
Secretary

DRISCOLL LECTURES ON SHORT WEIGHTS

Says the Practice Is Due to Women Being Careless When They Shop.

"WATCH THE MAN'S HANDS"

Tells Food Show Audience He Hopes to Awaken the Public's Conscience —To-day Is Children's Day.

Municipal affairs were among the special features which enlivened yesterday's session of the Food Show at Madison Square Garden. A large attentive crowd went into "Congress" Hall to hear a short but sharp lecture from Commissioner Driscoll of the Bureau of Weights and Measures.

Driscoll had most of the women against him at the start by describing his feelings as those of a babe addressing its grandmother. The short measure, the curtailed yardstick, and the weighted scales are bad enough, he said, but the real campaign was against the package goods sold by big corporations with no statement on the outside as to the amount of the contents. In this work, he said, the leader was Mr. Reichman, Chief of the State Bureau of Weights and Measures.

"If fraud is prevalent," he said, "it is the fault of housekeepers who are careless in their buying. The purpose of my campaign and of my sideshow at this exposition is to awaken the consciences, primarily of the merchant, and secondarily of the housewife, who has no more right to misuse household funds than the bank president has to misuse those of depositors.

"Insist that your grocer keep his hands off the scale, for they have no conceivable business there. If you find you have been given short weight don't complain to your merchant. You will get only abuse. Let the Mayor's Bureau do your arguing for you."

Bayard C. Fuller, Chief of the Food and Drug Inspection of the Board of Health, told of the work of his department. Prof. Charles Baskerville of the City College lectured on "City Sanitation." He said:

"Moses really anticipated our modern sanitary laws, for cleanliness is the beginning and the end. The aim of every citizen should be to make the city clean, healthy, and beautiful."

The chemical analysis booth was devoted yesterday to testing teas and baking powders. Prof. Allyn aroused much interest in the discovery of some worms in a sample of a familiar brand of paprika that was taken to the booth with a complaint that it "didn't taste just right."

In the woman's suffrage booth passers were asked to buy anything from a button to a baby dress, all for "the cause." One girl, spurning the idea that the franchise would tend to supplant the frying pan, made a loaf of bread to submit in the prize contest offered for the best loaf submitted by women enrolled in any New York, Connecticut, or New Jersey suffrage society. It was her first loaf, and she took a preparatory lesson in the Army Commissary Department booth.

The Little Mothers' Aid Association had east side children cooking in the booth yesterday, and one fat little girl of 8 passed around hot muffins.

"The Child" is the central theme for to-day's session at the Garden, and Dr. Josephine Baker of the Board of Health will talk on "What the City of New York Does for the Aid of Its Children."

Commissioner Driscoll will not open until the end of the week the box in which visitors suspicious of their tradesmen are asked to drop complaints. That the exposition has done much to stir interest in his campaign was proved by yesterday morning's mail, which brought 380 requests for his pamphlet, "What Every Housewife Should Know." The Board of Aldermen have been asked to attend the show in a body to-day, and members of the Board of Estimate are expected to visit the booth individually. The booth will be moved next week to the Budget Exhibit.

In talking on "Pure Food and National Vigor" last night Dr. Daniel R. Lucas of 601 West 168th Street had some sharp things to say about the use of benzoate of soda, which he described as an "adulterant, unwholesome, wasteful, and poisonous substance." He said:

"Bulletin 104 of the United States Department of Agriculture strikes at National vigor, licensing its use in any and all foods of unlimited amounts. In the last twenty-five years Dr. Harvey Wiley has demonstrated the lack of any necessity for this preservative in food, and recommended a system of food preservation at once practical, scientific, and sanitary. To conserve health, happiness, and National prestige he must be relieved of the restraint of selfish, politico-commercial interests, and his wise recommendations still further be advanced.

"Dr. Wiley, father of pure food regulation in this country, is now helpless until the public better realizes his usefulness and the wisdom of his doctrines, and demands that his investigation be continued and published for its guidance."

WARRANT FOR A CHAUFFEUR.

He Must Explain a Collision in Which He and Six Others Were Hurt.

A warrant was issued yesterday by Acting Judge Yuill, in the Second Precinct Police Court, Newark, N. J., for the arrest of Halsey Sanford, the chauffeur who operated one of the two automobiles that were wrecked in a collision late Saturday night at Clinton Avenue and Twentieth Street, on the line between Irvington and Newark, in which two persons were seriously injured and five others suffered minor injuries. The charge is made under the "joy-riding" law.

Sanford was found by the police at his home, 29 New Street, Newark. His father, David Sanford, is Superintendent of Mails in the Newark Post Office. Sanford was one of the two persons severely injured. The other was Mrs. Anna Burkholder of 272 Fairmount Avenue, Newark, who at the time of the accident gave the authorities various names. Her identity was a mystery until her husband learned of the accident and found her in the Newark City Hospital.

At the time of the accident Sanford was driving a touring car owned by Philip J. Bowers, a real estate dealer, of 189 Market Street, Newark. The other wrecked machine was 60 horse power, driven by Frederick F. Van Keuren, proprietor of a garage at 487 Washington Street, Newark. In a statement to the police Sanford avers that the car operated by Van Keuren was racing to get ahead of a trolley car, and collided with him. Van Keuren declared that the other car was traveling at a high rate of speed, zigzagging along the roadway, and struck his car head on.

Married and Stopped Her Suit.

Marrying the plaintiff is the surest and safest way of defeating a suit for breach of promise, ruled Supreme Court Justice Whitney yesterday, holding that he did not need to dismiss a ten-thousand-dollar action brought against Emmanuel Robinson by Theresa Weinberg, now his wife. An order withdrawing the suit was submitted to him, but he declared his signature was unnecessary. An objection was made to this action by the attorney for Mrs. Robinson, through whom she brought the action. He wanted a fee, but Justice Whitney told him there was no rule of law by which he could get one through an order of the court.

NO WORK FOR STUTTERER.

Magistrate Butts Befriends Lad Whom His Father Charges with Drinking.

A well-dressed youth was charged in Yorkville Court yesterday morning by his father with not working and drinking heavily.

"He has worked for only a year since he was fifteen, Judge," said the father. "I give him money to look for work, and he comes home drunk. Yesterday I gave him 35 cents and he drank it all up. He is a lazy boy."

"What have you to say, young man?" asked Magistrate Butts.

The boy tried to say something, but he couldn't articulate.

"He has an impediment in his speech, Judge," said the father.

"Take your time, my boy, and don't worry. I'll listen," said the Magistrate kindly.

His affliction, aggravated by his nervousness, was pitiable. It took him fifteen minutes to explain that he wanted to work and had tried to get a job, but his stammering kept him back.

"Why do you drink?" asked the court.

"I am discouraged," the boy finally succeeded in explaining.

Magistrate Butts hurriedly wrote a few words on a scrap of paper and handed it to the prisoner.

"There is my address," he said. "You write to me, and I'll get you work. Discharged."

"But, Judge," expostulated the father, "must I continue to support a son who is able to work?"

"You ought to pity your son," said Magistrate Butts. "If any one is to be pitied he is. You ought to cheer him in his terrible affliction and help him to forget it."

REARREST EX-POLICE CLERK.

Cornell Must Now Answer a Charge of Grand Larceny.

Samuel L. Cornell, formerly a clerk in the Police Department, living at 747 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, was acquitted yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions of entering into a corrupt bargain. He was discharged, but immediately rearrested on the same complaint, the charge being changed to grand larceny. He was held in $500 bail for examination by Magistrate Herrman in the Tombs Court to-morrow.

The complainant is Henry J. Murphy, a policeman living at 159 Third Avenue, College Point. According to the complaint, Murphy was an applicant for appointment on the force, and on May 15 he was approached by Cornell at Police Headquarters, who told him that he had failed to pass the Board of Surgeons and would be rejected. He said, however, that the matter could be fixed for $100.

According to Murphy's complaint, he gave Cornell $40 and later $50 and was appointed. He found out later, he said, that he did pass the surgeons and that he was to have been appointed. He then caused Cornell's arrest. At the trial in Special Sessions Cornell was discharged on a technicality, his counsel, Thomas Nolan, raising the novel point that Cornell, not having the power to appoint, could not enter into an agreement to make an appointment.

NEW VAUDEVILLE FEATURES.

Wynne, English Entertainer, Pleases —Song Review at Hammerstein's.

Wish Wynne, an English music-hall entertainer of a type widely different from the sort of English performers that have appeared in this country during the last few years, made her American début at the American Music Hall yesterday afternoon. She is a young woman with a very agreeable stage presence, a good voice, and unusual skill at characterization. She gave four character sketches and succeeded in arousing much applause in all of her efforts. Her selections were simple and free from anything offensive. Another English performer who made a first appearance was Marriott Edgar, billed as "The Man in Red." He sang several songs that seemed to please the house very much. Harry Von Tilzer, the song writer, sang some of his own compositions, and had the assistance of several people in the audience, one of whom appeared to surprise Mr. Von Tilzer and the rest by making a distinct hit of her own, singing "Under the Yum Yum Tree." Other numbers on the programme were the Russian ballet, "Venus on Wheels," Girard and Gardner, the Lloyds, Provol, Thiessen's dogs, Hall and Earl, and Raymond and Hall.

"Gus Edwards's Song Review," a large singing act, was the feature of Hammerstein's bill. In this several singers offered songs of Mr. Edwards's composition, and the audience aided in the choruses. Mme. de Swirsky appeared in her dances, and among the others on the bill were Ed F. Reynard, Clayton White and Marie Stuart, Andy Rice, the four Konerz brothers, Tyson and Brown, and Laypo and Benjamin.

Eva Tanguay's reappearance at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre with a group of new songs, new costumes, and special scenery was the principal event at that house. The large audience yesterday gave her a hearty welcome and made her sing a number of her old favorites before she could leave the stage. Rose Pitonof, the swimmer, started in a second week, and the rest of the programme contained Willette Whittaker and F. Wilbur Hill, W. H. Macart and Ethlynne Bradford, Mrs. Gardner Crane, Clifford Walker, Lancton Lucier and company, and Lynch and Zeller.

Arnold Daly Gives "Wedding Journey."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 19.—Arnold Daly produced at the Savoy Theatre here to-night John T. McIntyre's three-act comedy "The Wedding Journey." The play deals with the middle classes in New York City, and has for its theme the predicament in which a young bride finds herself when on the eve of her wedding she discovers that the money for the wedding journey has been obtained by her prospective husband under false pretenses. Mr. Daly's company includes Jane Salisbury, Julia Walcott, Frederick R. Stanton, John Junior, and Wilson Hummel. Mr. Daly in a curtain speech said that in the future he would give most of his time to producing plays rather than acting in them.

Philadelphia Sees "The Aviator."

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—"The Aviator," a farcical comedy by James Montgomery, was produced at the Chestnut Street Opera House here to-night. A touch of realism was found in the third act when a Blériot monoplane of the model used by Claude Grahame-White was shown. Owing to the indisposition of Edward Abeles, James Montgomery, the author of the play, appeared in the title rôle.

'Alma, Where Do You Live?' Produced

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 19.—For the first time in English on any stage the farce "Alma, Where Do You Live?" was presented at the Lyceum Theatre to-night by Joe Weber's company, with Kitty Gordon, Charles A. Bigelow, and John McCloskey in the principal rôles. The French vaudeville sketch as adapted by George V. Hobart is given in three acts. Miss Gordon appeared in several musical numbers and wore elaborate costumes. The three acts are handsomely staged.

Fritzi Scheff in "The Mikado."

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Fritzi Scheff appeared to-night at the Shubert Theatre, singing the rôle of Yum-Yum in a revival of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera "The Mikado." The prima donna received encores at the conclusion of "The Moon and I" number. Prominent in her support was Digby Bell as Ko-Ko.

Gas Company Objects to Tax Levy.

Supreme Court Justice Bijur granted a writ of certiorari yesterday to the New York Mutual Gas Light Company, which will permit the judicial review of an assessment of $1,200,000 for 1910 made by the State Tax Comissioners on the mains, pipes, and connections of the company. The company charged that the assessment is excessive and was made by the board without jurisdiction or authority.

ALLEGED MURDERER FOUND ON SOUND BOAT

Finlander, Wanted for Slaying Brother-in-Law in Hoboken, Arrested at Fall River.

ADMITS QUARREL WITH HIM

Victim's Wife Finds Him Dead with Severed Jugular Vein in Hallway of His Home.

Special to The New York Times.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 19.—Gustave Mattson, a Finlander, aged 28 years, was taken into custody here at an early hour this morning for the alleged slaying of his brother-in-law, Frederick Johnson of Hoboken, N. J., and he is now held without bail at the Central Police Station awaiting the arrival of an officer from Hoboken, where the murder is alleged to have been committed. Police Chief Patrick Hayes, Jr., of Hoboken, has been notified by telegraph of the arrest.

A description of Mattson and the statement that he was thought to be on his way here via the New York boat was received at the Central Police Station about 11 o'clock on Sunday night. Patrolmen M. Joyce, Pilling, and McAndrews were at the dock on the arrival of the steamer Priscilla at 5:30 this morning. A man answering Mattson's description came down the gangplank and started for the Boston train, which was awaiting the arrival of the boat. Officer Joyce stepped up behind him and tapped him on the shoulder. Mattson seemed surprised and asked the officer who he was and where he had seen him before. The officer answered that he had met Mattson in Hoboken. Mattson then admitted his identity, and he was promptly placed under arrest, being told that he was wanted for murder. He declared he did not know that he had murdered any one, but that he had some trouble with his brother-in-law while drunk and had struck him, and on advice of his wife he fled.

When searched he was found to have a through ticket from New York to Boston and about $7.

Gustave Mattson is a machinist living at 905 Clinton Street, Hoboken. He and Frederick Johnson, for whose death he has been arrested, each married the sister of the other, and lived only a few doors apart. Complaints of unfair treatment from Mrs. Mattson to her brother brought him to her house on Saturday night on a mission of remonstrance. Mattson, in no very amicable mood, returned the call a half hour later, according to one of the tenants, and the men met in the hallway.

Mrs. Johnson, behind the door, which she had closed in apprehension, heard a scuffle and a cry.

"For God's sake, Lena, open the door. I'm dying," were the words that came next, and running into the hallway she found her husband dead upon the floor, with a stab wound that had severed the jugular vein. Mrs. Mattson told the police that her husband had just rushed into their home, kissed her and the children good-bye, and then darted out.

RISKS LIFE TO AVOID CRASH.

John Beherdy Drives Into a Telephone Pole Rather Than Hit Another Auto.

Risking his own life to avoid a collision with an automobile approaching from the opposite direction, John Beherdy, a chauffeur of 560 Tenth Street, Brooklyn, yesterday morning drove his car, at Albemarle Road and East Eighteenth Street, Flatbush, into a telephone pole. He was thrown out, and lay on the ground stunned for several minutes. The other automobile was owned and driven by William E. Emory of 121 Cambridge Place, Brooklyn. Beherdy's car, which belonged to Thomas J. Shaw of 1,630 Voorhees Avenue, was wrecked, and Emory took him home in his machine.

The chauffeur had turned from Coney Island Avenue into Albemarle Road, when he saw Emory's car coming west at a good pace on that thoroughfare. Beherdy was going east, and his turn into Albemarle Road brought him on the wrong side of the road.

He assumed that Emory was going to turn into East Eighteenth Street. Both operators exchanged signals, but they were misunderstood. When Beherdy saw that Emory was coming right on he realized that the only chance to avert a collision was to drive his machine up on to the pavement.

There was a crash as Beherdy's auto struck the telephone pole. A large crowd gathered, and was relieved to find that the chauffeur was alone in the car and had escaped serious injury.

WROTE THREATENING SUICIDE

Stenographer Lost $5, and Left Home Because of the Teasing About It.

The loss of a five-dollar bill caused Bessie Clark, a seventeen-year-old girl of 89 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, to run away from home a week ago and yesterday her mother was made frantic by the receipt of a letter announcing that the girl was going to commite suicide.

Bessie is a stenographer, but has been out of work since last Summer. On Sept. 14 she was given $5 by her aunt, but lost it on her way home. She was teased so much by her brothers that she became angry and left the house, declaring that she would not return until she had a job. Yesterday her mother received this letter:

> I have been waiting all day to get a chance to throw myself from a pier into the river. There have been too many people around to make it worth while. But now nearly every one is gone. We are a hard-luck family, and with one of us out of the way there will be less trouble for the rest. Give my love to everybody.

The police were notified and a general alarm for the girl has been sent out.

MAXWELL IGNORES CHARGES.

"Not of Much Importance," He Says of School Board's Overclaim.

When Supt. of Schools Maxwell was asked yesterday to comment on the statement made by the Bureau of Municipal Research to the effect that the Board of Education is yearly putting in an overclaim for money to meet the enlargement of the school system he replied:

"Oh, they are not of much importance."

Dr. Maxwell said he had heard that the bureau had filed its charges with the Board of Estimate and the Board of Education, but they had not been officially called to his attention.

AGAINST CLINIC PUBLICITY.

Dr. Stella Says the Work Becomes Known Automatically.

Dr. Antonio Stella, long identified with the work of preventing the spread of tuberculosis, replied yesterday to a recent letter to THE TIMES signed "Medicus," on the Harlem Tuberculosis Clinic at 339 East 109th Street, who charged that insufficient publicity had been given to the existence of such a clinic in a thickly populated Italian section. Dr. Stella takes the stand that wide publication of the establishment was entirely unnecessary. He said:

"There exists in New York a chain of tuberculosis clinics extending from the Bronx to Brooklyn, which control, assign, and transfer the cases of pulmonary tuberculosis to the clinics of different districts and constitute the Association of Tuberculosis Clinics. Such clinics in the majority of cases belong to and are a part of the outdoor work of such hospitals as Bellevue, Presbyterian, Mount Sinai, and the Italian hospitals. Four or five are maintained by the Health Department. The one at 339 East 109th Street is the last it has opened. The chief work and function of the latter is to look up and direct to the clinic of the district those cases of tuberculosis which, while registered at the Health Department, have not yet shown at a clinic or hospital. There were in New York about 20,000 such 'not found' cases last year.

"Then when a consumptive living in Harlem presents himself for examination at the Morgagni Clinic in West Houston Street, or Bellevue, or St. Luke's, he is immediately transferred to the clinic of his district. A special 'transfer card' is supplied for the purpose.

"It is evident, therefore, that under this system the location of a new tuberculosis clinic becomes known automatically. Its success does not depend either on the Consular authorities or on newspaper advertisements, and we utterly fail to understand the cause of 'Medicus's' complaints."

G. A. R. WANTS CHEAP FARES.

Unless Granted, This Encampment Will Be the Last, They Say.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 19.—Edward Watson, Commander of U. S. Grant Post, No. 28, Chicago, predicted to-day that unless the railroads granted a flat rate of one cent a mile from all points to the place of the next Grand Army of the Republic Encampment, this year's would be the last.

The veterans are incensed over what they term discrimination in rates, and they will endeavor to pass a resolution calling upon Congress to compel the railroads to give them a lower rate. The rate to the Grand Army men in many instances was higher than the special excursion rates fixed by the railroads.

Most of the day was spent by the veterans in registering and depositing credentials with Adjt. Gen. Eddy, at the National headquarters on Young's Ocean Pier. Among the arrivals were Gen. Dodge of Iowa and Gen. Sickles of New York, the only living commanders of Union army corps during the war. Gen. Sickles was given an ovation by the veterans' musical association, composed of those who beat the drum and blew a fife during the rebellion.

Ten thousand veterans, and as many civilians, attended the reception to Commander Van Sant on the Steel Pier to-night. There promises to be a warm fight between John McElroy of Washington and Major John E. Gilman of Boston for Commander in Chief. Both have announced their candidacy. Wisconsin delegates, except two members, have decided to vote solidly for Gilman. The McElroy delegates, however, believe they can elect their man.

To-morrow night Gov. Fort will make an address, and Mrs. Jennie Iowa Bery will present to the National Government the deeds for the site of Andersonville prison.

SUES A TAXICAB COMPANY.

Moore Was Arrested for Refusing to Pay When Cab Broke Down.

Charles A. Moore, a real estate dealer of 13 Linden Street, Flushing, L. I., wants $5,000 damages from the New York Taxicab Company for false arrest and $300 for loss of profits on a business transaction. His suit will be heard before Justice Jaycox in a Special Term of the Queens County Supreme Court, Long Island City, this week.

The suit will settle the question as to whether a passenger who hires a taxicab to take him to a given destination should be compelled to pay fare to a point where the machine breaks down. According to his complaint, this is what happened to Mr. Moore.

In his affidavit Mr. Moore alleges that at midnight on March 30 he engaged a taxicab at Fifth Avenue and Eighth Street, Manhattan, to take him to the Thirty-fourth Street ferry, in time to catch the last train boat for his home in Flushing. On the way there the cab broke down, and the driver demanded fare. Upon his refusal to pay, Mr. Moore alleges, a policeman was called and he was taken to the police station in Fifth Street and First Avenue, where the Lieutenant refused to hold him. He was compelled to go to a hotel for the rest of the night, and reached Flushing the next day, too late to keep an important business engagement.

Uses Court House Day Ahead of Time.

Although Hudson County's new $2,500,000 Court House was not scheduled for use until to-day, Judge John A. Blair was permitted to hold Special Sessions Court there yesterday. He sentenced Josef Kysilka to thirty years in State prison for shooting and killing Stephen Glaser in the Continental Hotel, Hoboken, on July 4, and acquitted Michael Mulvaney and John Wenekus, tried before him for attempting to pick the pockets of John D. Steljes in Hoboken last month.

GRAPE NUTS.

HILL CLIMBING

Food That Makes it a Pleasure.

"I have a large amount of laborious, brain-fatiguing work to do," writes a young lady from Richmond, Va. "After returning from the office, I have found myself so completely exhausted that I was unable to engage in any recreation or amusement.

"I tried several expensive tonics without effect, and finally noticing an advertisement of Grape-Nuts as a food recommended to brain workers, I purchased a package and tried it.

"I found it extremely palatable, and after a week's use (two meals of it a day) I noticed a general improvement in my condition. The feeling of extreme exhaustion was growing less, and strength visibly increased.

"I began to put on flesh and felt ready to enter into the amusements of the other members of the family, and now, after using the food for eleven months, I am like a new person. I do not have the sensation of fatigue; my brain is clear; eyes bright; skin rosy and healthy, and my muscles have strengthened to a marked degree.

"I am now able to walk from the office home, a distance of 3½ miles up one of the steepest hills for which our city is famous, and to engage in any amusements that may come in my way.

"I am also using Postum with excellent results. My sister-in-law, who lives in Norwalk, Conn., writes me that she uses it also, and has not suffered from the distressing sick headaches she formerly had."

GIRL DRINKS POISON; REFUSES TO EXPLAIN

Falls Unconscious in the Street as Iodine Bottle Is Knocked from Her Hand.

DOCTORS SAY SHE'LL LIVE

Midnight Adventure of Irene Lynch, Sunday Night, Mother Thinks, May Be a Clue to Her Action.

Several persons at 105th Street and Fifth Avenue last evening saw a young girl put a small brown bottle to her lips and drink from it. Two or three ran to her and one dashed the bottle from her hand. A flow of iodine spread over them and her. The girl swayed heavily and sank into their arms.

The girl was carried to a drug store and two glasses of milk forced through her lips. She revived, and being in less pain, was questioned by Policeman McAuley and Dr. Lattin of the Presbyterian Hospital. She said she was Irene Lynch, 16 years old, and that she lived at 118 East 108th Street. She refused to tell why she wanted to die. At the hospital, where she was held as a prisoner charged with attempted suicide, it was said she probably would recover.

Policemen of the East 104th Street Station went to the address she had mentioned, but found she was unknown there. Later in the evening, however, they learned that she lived at 241 East 112th Street with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lynch. A youth of about the girl's age, the police said, appeared at the Lynch home soon after the girl's attempt to swallow the iodine, and told her parents about it. His hands were stained with iodine, which, he said, he had received in trying to dash the bottle from her. He went away, refusing to tell his name.

Mrs. Lynch said later that her daughter, who works as a telephone operator for a brokerage firm at 116 Broad Street, returned to her home very late on Sunday night. Her hair was dishevelled and her dress disordered and torn. The mother thought the girl had been beaten, but no bruises were on her body, however. She told her mother that she was returning from the home of a friend on Second Avenue when she was suddenly seized with a fainting spell and remembered nothing further until she came to her senses on a near-by stoop to which some one had carried her.

The mother, however, was unconvinced by the girl's stammering and incoherent account of what had happened. All night, she said, the girl moaned and tossed restlessly in bed. Early yesterday morning she went away, presumably to work. Instead, the mother thought she spent the day with a chum at 105th Street and Park Avenue.

Mrs. Lynch would venture no solution as to why the girl had taken poison, but thought the trouble of the night before might have had some connection with it. She said she would have the girl removed from the hospital to a sanitarium as soon as she was able to be moved.

BOY ON 6,000-MILE TRIP.

Journeys Alone from England to Join Brother in Alberta.

Special to The New York Times.

EDMONTON, Alberta, Sept. 19.—There is now en route to the shores of the Lesser Slave Lake a ten-year-old boy who is completing a 6,000-mile trip alone without any mishap. He is Frederick Tinnell, from Gloucestershire, England. He left home with written directions and a supply of money. At each junction or change he would show the letter to some one and be put on the right train, and in this way reached Edmonton. He arrived here with only seven cents, but there was a draft waiting him, and he left by stage for his destination happy and contented.

His brother has a homestead on the shores of the lake. Their parents, dying recently, left little Freddie without a home, and his brother made arrangements to bring him to this country.
